Says Fear of Fascism Ended His Activities As Conspirator

Soviet Prisoner Alarmed Over Possible Effects of Plot

SERVED IN PRISON

'Learned of Feverish Preparations of Fascists for War'

Moscow — (AP) — Christian Rakovsky, a confessed Trotskyist conspirator against the Soviet Union, today testified he had admitted his treachery when he became convinced a successful Trotskyist plot would lead Russia to fascism.

Rakovsky, former Russian ambassador to London and Paris, was on the witness stand for his second day, the fourth in Moscow's greatest treason trial. Twenty other former high soviet officials also are defendants.

The dignified old diplomat repudiated the plans of Leon Trotsky, Russia's former warlord now in exile in Mexico, and shouldered some of the responsibility for helping the world's "aggressors to bring about their plans."

"I started to give my sincere confession," he said, "only after eight months when in solitary confinement I reconsidered all my previous Trotskyist views.

Raps Fascist Aggression

During the investigation I learned of the Japanese aggression against the Chinese people and the impudent aggression of Germany and Italy in Spain.

"I learned of feverish preparation of fascist powers for war. I got all this news at one shot. I was overwhelmed. I recalled my past participation in these crimes and that I, myself, by treacherous activities, had encourgad all this.

"I feared the fascists' potential powers in the annihilation of culture and civilization. I faced my own conscience. I, who from my youth was devoted to the workers' movement, brought myself to the point where, by my own activities, I helped aggressors bring about their plans."

Rakovsky said Japanese told him in 1934 of Japan's need for some incident to serve as an excuse for attacking China.

Feared Conflict

The possibility of conflict between England and Japan over China disturbed the conspirators, Rakovsky said, because they were playing both countries, through contracts with their intelligence services, for aid in a plot to overthrow the soviet regime.

Rakovsky described followers of Trotsky as "the advance guard of international aggression" in trying to provoke war against Russia, particularly by Japan.

Rakovsky said he had sent Japanese secret service operatives five analyses of soviet internal conditions between 1934-36 which "were painted in the blackest colors to whet the appetites of the aggressors."

The witness told of becoming an agent of the British intelligence service after he had been visited by two of its alleged agents at the end of 1924 when Rakovsky was ambassador to London.

They told him, he proclaimed, that he had been accepted as ambassador because he was close to Trotsky.

Rakovsky said that Lady Muriel Paget, British welfare worker in Russia, while in Moscow in the summer of 1934 had "reminded me that I ought to resume my contacts with the intelligence service."

(The 61-year-old Lady Muriel said in London that it was "fantastic to suggest I ever discussed politics with Rakovsky.") made of blocks of ice, with skins of animals for carpets and a pipeless, smoky fireplace in the middle of the room, doesn't sound much like home. But to an Eskimo it's the essence of comfort. He'd feel entirely out of place well, in the drawing room of a Park Ave. apartment, for instance.

Whether it's a brown stone mansion on Fifth Ave. or a 4 room cottage on Main Street, it's just the same as long as it spells HOME. And by the way, you'll find many good buys in Appleton and suburban real estate listed on today's Want Ad page. Turn there now and select your home.

This one brought a sale:

FIFTH WARD — Near new high school. For quick sale, will sacrifice for $1700 my new home, consisting of 3 rooms and bath. Thoroughly modern. Many built-in features. Full basement and furnace. Large lot well planted. Terms: $175 down, bal, $20 month. Tel. 4905.

Had at least 80 calls and sold after second appearance of ad.

SLAYS MOTHER

Theodore Danielsen, Jr., 16, shown after arrest in Chicago, confessed, Police Captain Patrick Collins said, he stabbed his partly crippled mother, Mrs. Eleanor Danielson, a talented musician, to death during a violent quarrel.

Washington —(AP)—Senator Norris (I-Neb.) said today it would help the Tennessee Valley authority if Dr. Arthur E. Morgan would resign as chairman.

Some informed officials predicted earlier that President Roosevelt would act soon to end the feud between Chairman Morgan and the other two TVA directors, Harcourt A. Morgan and David E. Lilienthal, regardless of any projected congressional investigations.

Norris, father of the TVA, asserted that "it would be better if he (Chairman Morgan) left the TVA—I should be very glad if he would leave."

The Nebraskan, who once was a close friend of Morgan, said the latter's recent statements had tended to damage the TVA and might have a hindering effect on appropriations for the agency.

The two directors of the TVA suggested in a statement made public by President Roosevelt yesterday that the chairman resign.

Favors Inquiry

Norris said he had arranged to press for adoption of his resolution providing for a federal trade commission investigation of the TVA.

The proposed investigation also would include a study of the activities of private utilities which have filed suits against the agency.

Norris said he had obtained the consent of Senator Barkley (D-Ky.), the Democratic leader, to call up his resolution soon.

A separate resolution calling for a senate investigation of the TVA has been introduced by Senators King (D-Utah) and Bridges (R-N. H.)

Norris said he had offered to include most provisions of the King-Bridges resolution in his proposal.

Thompson Denies Added Diversion Would Hurt Lakes

Assails Milwaukee Mayor In Battle Over Parsons Bill

Kewanee, Ill.—(AP)—William Hale Thompson, former Chicago mayor, carried his fight for the Parsons Lake Michigan water diversion bill before the annual meeting of the Illinois Municipal Ownership League today.

Contending the United States Supreme court decision, effective next December, cutting lake water diversion at Chicago from the present 5,000 cubic feet per second to 1,500 feet would ruin the lakes-to-gulf waterway, former Mayor Thompson renewed his clash with Mayor Daniel Hoan of Milwaukee on the diversion issue. Thompson said in a prepared address:

"It will be remembered that two years ago, because of the drought all freight and barge traffic was stopped on the Mississippi river because of low water north of the mouth of the Illinois. Figure if you will then what will be the condition of the river when the 70 per cent of the Lake Michigan diversion is cut off one year hence.

Assails Hoan

"To prevent this catastrophe Representative Claude V. Parsons of Illinois has introduced a bill in congress giving the valley 5,000 cubic feet of diversion in perpetuity. If this bill is passed, the catastrophe that confronts us will in part be prevented, but the call to arms to block the passage of the bill is sounded by Mayor Hoan of Milwaukee, who is attempting to mobilize the enemies of the valley and the enemies of the republic.

"He charges that 5,000 feet diversion reduces the levels of the Great Lakes and damages lake harbors, but he forgets to bring out that the government lake level records show that when there was 10,000 cubic feet diversion at Chicago the Great Lakes reached their highest peak."

17 are Killed in Series of Raids

Many Wounded as Insurgent Planes Attack Barcelona

Hendaye, France, at the Spanish Frontier —(AP)— Seventeen persons were killed and many wounded in a series of insurgent air raids on Barcelona last night and early today.

More than 100 other persons have been killed recently in raids along the Mediterranean coast.

The attacks on major centers of population apparently were intended to crack the morale of government Spain in preparation for an offensive the insurgents plan to start this spring.

Hardest hit by the raiders was Alcaniz, behind the lines in Teruel province, where at least 100 persons were killed and heavy damage inflicted. A number of buildings were destroyed.

Twelve insurgent planes bombed Alvaniz and, according to reports, machine gunned its civilian population.

Several deaths were caused by another raid on Valencia and further casualties resulted from repeated attacks on Barcelona, the present capital of government Spain. Almeria, farther south, suffered a destructive bombardment early in the week.

Communiques from both the insurgents and the government said all was quiet on the battle fronts, but a resumption of the insurgent offensive on the Aragon front was believed imminent.

Inquest This Afternoon In Fatal Shooting Case

Arena, Wis., —(AP)— Coroner G. W. Tyson of Iowa county called an inquest for 3:30 p. m. today in the death of Thomas Dawson, 50, of Arena, whose bullet-pierced body was found in his parked automobile near here Wednesday.

Funeral services for Dawson were held yesterday.

The coroner said Dawson apparently committed suicide, but that an inquest might shed some light on the shooting Tuesday night of Earl Murphy, farmer, and his 6-year-old son, Harland.

Prof. J. H. Mathews, University of Wisconsin ballistics expert, has reported the bullet which wounded Harland was shot from a .25-.20 caliber rifle found in Dawson's car.

The Murphys are convalescing in a Madison hospital.

Wonders How He Can Split Dollar 83 Ways

Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—M. J. Murphy, chief of the Michigan department of state's finance division, was wondering today how best to split a dollar 83 ways.

The dollar, Murphy said, is "conscience money" from Peter Joki, route 1, Calumet. As Murphy sees it each of the 83 counties in Michigan may have a claim to part of it.

"Am sending this dollar guided by my conscience," a letter accompanying Joki's money order explained, "for making a few short runs on the state highway and some on country roads after my half-year license expired last fall".

Murphy said his office would first ascertain whether Joki renewed the license on his car, for a renewal would cover the cost for the entire year and would justify a refund of the "conscience" dollar. If not, the finance chief said, the money will go into the general weight tax fund and be distributed to the counties.

Boards Cannot Fix Pay Of Supervising Teachers

Madison —(AP)— Attorney General Orland S. Loomis ruled today that county boards have no power to fix the salaries of supervising teachers and the selection of such employes is the responsibility solely of the county superintendent of schools.

Loomis declared in an opinion to District Attorney Richard W. Orton of Grant county that a law adopted by the 1937 legislature, fixing the salaries of teachers at not less than the schedule of the state superintendent of public instruction, superceded any action of the county boards.

Nekoosa Office Clerk Is Fatally Hurt in Crash

Wisconsin Rapids, Wis. —(AP)—Miss Johanna Nash, an office clerk employed by the Grode and Nash Paper company at Nekoosa, was killed last night when a bus in which she was a passenger was struck by an automobile on Highway 13 between Adams and Friendship. Several others injured in the crash were taken to Friendship hospital.

Week's Weather

Chicago — (AP) —Weather outlook for the period March 7 to 12:

Great Lakes—Frequent precipitation, mostly light to moderate; temperature near or below normal.

Upper Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys and the northern and central great plains—Frequent precipitation north, generally fair south portions; temperature mostly below normal north portions and near or above normal south portions.

Sheriff Quits As Result of State Inquiry

Loomis Asks Phil to Fill Vacancy in Florence County

GAMBLING IS CAUSE

Retiring Official Admits Putting Devices Into Operation

Madison — (AP)—Attorney General Orland S. Loomis recommended to Governor LaFollette today that he appoint a new sheriff of Florence county to succeed Anthony Grell, whose resignation yesterday followed a state investigation of gambling conditions in the county.

Loomis made a partial report to the governor in which he said the investigation will be continued. It is being conducted by his assistants, A. G. Hawley and Joseph Messerschmidt.

"There is one result of this investigation which I feel should be called to your attention at this time," Loomis said in a letter to the governor. "This affects only the conduct of Anthony Grell, sheriff of Florence county.

"The investigators have reported and furnished me with the sworn testimony of three witnesses that the sheriff, during the past year, has owned gambling devices which were in operation in business places in Florence county or that he at least had the keys thereto, repaired them and removed a portion of the money from them from time to time.

Denies Ownership

"The investigators further report that the sheriff has admitted that he had caused gambling devices to be placed in operation, that he carried the keys thereto and removed from these machines and denies only that he was the owner of the machines.

"In discussing the gravity of his conduct with Sheriff Anthony Grell and after informing him that I intended to report and recommend to you the institution of proceedings for his removal from office, he indicated a desire to resign.

'In view of his action, I am reporting this matter to you at this time with the recommendation that upon receipt of word that he has

Draining Lake in Levine Mystery

Officials Act on Note Despite Suspicion of 'Cruel Hoax'

New Rochelle, N. Y.—(AP)—Tense silence settled over the home of 12-year-old Peter Levine, suspected kidnap victim, as New York city police began draining a Bronx lake today in a search for his body.

Three anonymous telephone messages from widely scattered points in Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx sent police to Indian lake in Crotona park, where, partly covered by snow on the bank, they found a note reading:

"Find Levine boy in middle of lake."

A crudely drawn arrow pointed toward the indicated spot.

Although acting Captain William J. Sullivan said it might be a "cruel hoax," he decided to drain the lake.

Secluded in his suburban home here, the missing boy's father, Murray Levine, anxiously awaited the outcome of the search. He kept the telephone wire clear for a call from the kidnapers, who have been assured their demand for $30,000 ransome would be met.

Levine, a New York lawyer, disclosed yesterday that one attempt to pass the money had failed. The abductors, apparently fearful of a police trap, fled at the approach of the intermediary.

Relief Applications Decrease in Milwaukee

Milwaukee —(AP)—Applications for direct relief showed a monthly decrease in February of 1,182 compared to January, Benjamin Glassberg, superintendent of the Milwaukee County Outdoor Relief department, announced today. It was the first month-to-month decrease since June, 1937. Glassberg said the figures indicated private industry was "leveling off." The February figures were 5,333 applications; for January, 6,515.

Yale Professor Offered Job as Cummings' Aid

Attorney General Hopes 'Good Friend' Will Accept Position

JACKSON IS APPROVED

Senate Confirms Solicitor General by Vote Of 62 to 4

Washington —(AP)— Attorney General Cummings said today he had offered the post of assistant attorney general to Prof. Thurman Arnold of the Yale Law school. Thurman would succeed Robert H. Jackson, formerly in charge of the justice department's anti-trust division, who was sworn in today as solicitor general.

Cummings made the announcement to those assembled in his office to witness Jackson's oath-taking.

The attorney general said Arnold "is an old time good friend of mine, and I sincerely trust he will accept the appointment."

Washington —(AP)— Speculation on a successor to Robert H. Jackson in the administration's trust-busting job centered today on Brien McMahon, head of the justice department's criminal division, and assistant Solicitor General Golden W. Bell.

Also mentioned as probabilities on the list from which President Roosevelt will pick a new chief of the anti-trust division were assistant Attorneys General James W. Morris and Carl McFarland.

McMahon has yet to lose a case before the supreme court.

Morris has served as chief of the claims division and now heads the tax division.

McFarland, who collaborated with Attorney General Cummings a year ago on an exhaustive history of the justice department, recently reorganized the lands division.

Senate approval of his nomination by a 62 to 4 vote advanced Jackson yesterday to the important post of solicitor general. "Nay" votes came from Senator King (D-Utah) and three Republicans —McNary of Oregon, Austin of Vermont and Hale of Maine.

Succeeds Reed

The 46-year-old Jackson, who has risen swiftly in the councils of the New Deal, succeeds Stanley F. Reed as solicitor general. Reed now is a member of the supreme court.

Jackson recently told the Young Democratic club of New York that should he be confirmed by the senate his responsibilities "will be more exclusively professional and will not permit me the luxury of political controversy."

His statement aroused especial interest because there has been talk he may become a candidate for governor of New York, and possibly a 1940 Democratic presidential possibility.

Senator Norris (I-Neb.), urging confirmation of Jackson's nomination, told the senate he regretted the nomination was not for the supreme court and added:

"I should be delighted to see him or someone who entertains the ideas so ably stated by him ... in the White House as president of the United States."

Mineral Point Man Is Named as Loomis Aid

Madison —(AP)— Attorney General Orland S. Loomis announced the appointment today of Newell S. Boardman of Mineral Point, who has been counsel and director of the federal resettlement administration for two years, as chief assistant attorney general of Wisconsin.

Boardman will handle appeals from orders of the public service and tax commission for the state. He placed first with an average of 99.5 in a civil service examination held recently.

In May, 1937, after Boardman had served as counsel for the resettlement administration for a year, President Roosevelt named him director of the Wisconsin-Michigan-Minnesota region, with headquarters in Milwaukee. He remained as director when the farm security administration replaced the resettlement administration.

Boardman was graduated from the University of Wisconsin Law school in 1922. He served as district attorney of Iowa county from 1923 to 1926.

Boileau May Offer Amendment to Continue Data on Large Salaries

Washington — (AP)—Representative Boileau (P-Wis.) said today he might offer an amendment to the tax bill to continue publicity for corporation salaries over $15,000 a year.

Boileau said he agreed entirely with President Roosevelt's assertion at his press conference yesterday that such publicity was a matter of "simple morality." Pending legislation which revises the tax system does not include a provision for the publicity.

Contending that some corporations pay directors and vice president salaries ridiculously higher than their services warrant, the Wisconsin representative added:

"It is a racket. It is a graft. And I think the one way by which to abolish that racket, that graft, is to give it publicity."

Even though Mr. Roosevelt has spoken out strongly for the provision, some prominent Democrats suggested he might not get it, because the house voted a year ago for repeal of the present law requiring such publicity. The senate never acted on the repeal measure.

Statement Enters Debate

Republicans quickly brought the president's statement into house debate on the tax bill yesterday.

Waving a newspaper carrying the president's press conference remarks, Representative Hoffman (R-Mich.) arose to assert:

"If it is a question of public morals, we ought to have it in this tax

Fear Additional Rains In Flood Areas as 104 Bodies are Recovered

Sleet Endangers Traffic in Large Portion of State

Snowfall Fairly General Over State, Weather Bureau Reports

By the Associated Press

Highways in the southern and central sections of Wisconsin Saturday were treacherous from sleet which followed an average snowfall of 2 inches

Farther north in the state, snowfall was between 3 and 4 inches, but reports available at the Milwaukee Motor club said roads were being cleared and traffic had not been greatly hampered.

Snowfall was fairly general over the state, Eau Claire having about 3 inches, Green Bay 2, and Wausau 3. There was precipitation also at Superior, Madison, LaCrosse and Park Falls

Road conditions were particularly bad in the vicinity of Beloit, the motor club said. As in Milwaukee, snow turned to rain and glazed windshields and pavements.

10 Persons Hurt

Ten Milwaukeeans were injured in various accidents. Three were hurt when an automobile skidded into a stop-and-go light abutment, and four were hurt in a head-on collision.

In the extreme southern part of the state, higher temperatures turned snow to slush.

Park Falls' 14 degrees was the coldest official temperature reported.

Meteorologist Frank Coleman, Milwaukee, predicted generally fair and lower temperatures for Saturday night and Sunday.

Detroit — (AP) — Snow, freezing rain and fog harassed Michigan residents today, impeding motor traffic and causing injuries to numerous pedestrians who slipped on icy sidewalks.

Snow was forecast for tonight with colder weather and snow flurries Sunday.

Snow was falling today in some sections of the upper peninsula. At Marquette, fresh snow was falling on top of a 21-inch snow blanket left by previous storms.

4 Killed, 17 Hurt In Brewery Blasts

Exploding Pitch Dust Believed Responsible For Tragedy

New York—(AP)—Investigators today blamed exploding pitch dust for four blasts which leveled sections of a three-story Harlem brewery yesterday, killing four persons and injuring seventeen.

Six of the injured, struck by falling debris, were in a critical condition.

About three fourths of the block long brick plant of the Horton Pilsner Brewing company was destroyed with damage unofficially estimated by firemen in excess of $1,000,000.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey and police and fire department officials said the explosion had been caused by "pitch dust suddenly ignited in the boiler room." The dust apparently had been touched off, they said, by sparks from an electric welding machine.

President Approves Badger WPA Projects

Washington—(AP)—Members of the Wisconsin congressional delegation received notification today the president had approved works progress administration projects as follows:

Sturgeon Bay, $4,938, to make Bang's disease tests; Milwaukee, $39,940, index circuit court files; Manitowoc, $7,074; cataloging text books; Merrill, $24,896, streets; Coon Valley, $7,705, sidewalks; Lynxville, $8,197, streets; DePere, $50,270, streets; Antigo, $7,815, storm drains; Langlade county, $14,730, cutting timber for distribution as fuel; Fond du Lac, $13,570, riprap on shore of Lake Winnebago; Manitowoc, $22,757, improve park; Siren, $7,472, construct fire station and jail; Sheboygan county, $23,264, correct county maps.

Question of Trial For Dinneen to be Decided March 18

Judge to Hear Arguments On Whether Ex-Commissioner Will Face Action

Madison— (AP)— Superior Judge Roy H. Proctor will hear arguments March 18 before he decides whether William M. Dinneen, now a central figure in the B. E. Buckman case, will be held for trial on a charge of hindering state investigation of the bankrupt Madison securities firm.

The state rested its case yesterday in a preliminary hearing against Dinneen, former secretary of the public service commission accused of delivering confidential information to Buckman officers.

At the same time, in a separate hearing, B. E. Buckman, president of the investment house, denied flatly that he had "tried to bribe Dinneen" in connection with the proposal by the city of Superior to purchase the Superior Water, Light and Power company.

Buckman testified his company had hoped to underwrite $4,500,000 of bonds to finance the Superior deal, but had to withdraw because of a lack of funds. He said that when his company vice president, Louis C. George, wrote him a memo saying that "Mr. X"—Dinneen—had been "eliminated in the final payoff," George was only trying to be funny.

Suit Is Pending

Buckman contended his company had dropped out of the Superior case before George wrote that memo to him.

Searchers Expect To Find Wreckage

Clearing Weather Helps in Hunt for Missing Airliner

Fresno, Calif.—(AP)—Aerial searchers, spurred by predictions of success within a few hours, mapped new courses today over rugged mountains where a big airliner vanished with nine persons in a storm Tuesday night.

Clearing weather was in prospect to aid the searching planes.

A trip on foot and horseback yesterday by B. M. Doolin, superintendent of the San Francisco Municipal airport, and William Coyle, chief pilot of the TWA western division, turned the hunt to the snow-covered region 45 miles northeast of here.

The pair interviewed 10 residents of the area, 30 of whom said they heard the plane. Two said they saw it.

Doolin said he was certain the ship came down near Bass lake and that he could fly to the spot today.

"It appears certain the plane crashed 10 minutes flying time northwest of power house No. 3," said Coyle, who planned to fly over the area today with Doolin. The power house, a hydro-electric plant, is about 45 miles northeast of Fresno.

Eleven planes covered hundred of miles in a fruitless search yesterday.

The plane disappeared while seeking an emergency landing field after turning back while enroute to Los Angeles from San Francisco.

Low Pressure Zone Off Coast Offers New Threat

$50,000,000 LOSS

Death Toll Expected to Show Considerable Gain

Los Angeles —(AP)— Reports of a new low pressure area forming off the Pacific coast cast the shadow of another storm threat on devastated southern California today as it counts its deaths in the hundreds and its flood damage at more than $50,000,000.

L. D. Daingerfield, government meteorologist, warned that the atmospheric condition might bring additional rain.

"We will get by Sunday without any rain," he said, "but beyond that our forecasts do not go."

Bodies of 104 victims have been found, 77 of them identified. More than a hundred still are missing and some of these persons may never be heard from again, authorities feared.

The death toll is expected to be considerably swelled. Surrounded by yellow flood waters are farmhouses as yet inaccessible. Fate of the inhabitants is still guess-work.

The laborious, slow removal of thick carpets of flood silt and debris continues to swell the count of victims.

Nor will the damage—caused when prolonged, torrential rains caused southern California's customarily thin, gentle rivers to swirl over their banks—be estimated for some time.

Preliminary estimates by officials, however, indicated that the havoc wreaked upon public property will exceed $50,000,000 in the four of the five affected counties of Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange.

No Damage Estimate

No estimate has been hazarded as to the damage done to homes and crops.

The worst damage and most fatalities were recorded along the Santa Ana river, which runs out of the Sierra Madre mountains above San Bernardino and flows to the Pacific through rich citrus lands.

Many thousands of persons were made homeless in this region. Muddied flood waters still lay in wide stretches over the farm land.

Communications and transportation were slowly brought back toward normalcy.

Highways were being opened, enabling traffic to move all directions out of Los Angeles, with occasional detours. Landslides still blocked the coastal road north, but the inner route to San Francisco was open, as were highways east and south to San Diego.

Resumes Bus Service

Bus service was resumed on highways to the north, east and south. Train service was partially restored from San Francisco to Los Angeles over the southern Pacific tracks. The Santa Fe railroad, its tracks impassable, used buses to carry passengers to and from Barstow, where its trains were halted.

At Claremont, 300 men worked to keep the rebellious San Antonio river from sweeping through the town.

National guardsmen cooperated with police in Anaheim to prevent looting. The measures were prompted by thefts from a liquor store.

Airplanes dropped food to persons marooned in the Sierra Madre mountains. Four hundred pounds of food were flown into the isolated spa of Palm Springs, sunning place of film celebrities and society folk.

500 Cabins Destroyed

Rescue workers who emerged from the Camp Baldy region brought out dramatic stories of how a huge wall of water, carrying boulders, roared down the slopes, sweeping all before it.

It was reported 500 mountain cabins were destroyed. So was a hotel at Camp Curry and a new tavern. Many were marooned in this sector, but only one death was reported, a woman. A man was missing.

Several towns in the flood area still were without telephone ser-

Physician Expects General Pershing To Conquer Illness

Tucson, Ariz.— (AP)— General John J. Pershing, 77, can look forward to "a comfortable life during the coming years," Dr. Roland Davison said today.

"It appears certain the plane crashed 10 minutes flying time northwest of power house No. 3," said Coyle, who planned to fly over the area today with Doolin. The power house, a hydro-electric plant, is about 45 miles northeast of Fresno.

For the first time since the World war commander became critically ill Feb. 5, Dr. Davison said he "anticipated recovery."

Pershing's progress has been so great he "can help himself some and his strength has improved until he can turn himself in bed," the physician announced. "He is eating light food, enough to keep him going, and is taking all nourishment through the mouth."

60 Organizations Give Support to State Safety Plan

Permanent Safety Councils To be Set Up in Every County

Madison—(AP)—The state highway commission's "Wisconsin plan" to reduce street and highway accidents had the support today of 60 statewide private organizations interested in promoting safety.

Officers of the organizations met with commission officials here yesterday to discuss the plan, which provides for creation of permanent safety councils in every county of the state, many of which already have been set up.

The commission plans to split the program into "projects" which will be assigned to private associations. Groups represented at yesterday's meeting included labor and employer organizations, fraternal societies, civic and women's clubs, police officials, teachers and private industries.

"The fruitful results of our combined educational activities will be shown in the generation now in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades of our schools," said Thomas Davlin, chairman of the highway commission.

Need Sustaining Interest

"Many associations have aided the safety movement, but there has been too much sporadic enthusiasm. Safety efforts sprang up, were fostered for a short time and then after three months, went into oblivion. We must have a sustaining interest in safety.

"I am convinced that the one real essential is education. It is necessary that safety be built into our highways. We need adequate and impartial enforcement of traffic regulations. We believe we are not securing sufficient enforcement. But the ultimate solution is not engineering or enforcement, but education."

Fred W. Braun of Wausau, who set up the first Wisconsin Highwas Safety department, praised the newspapers and schools for "bringing before the public the economic wastes and slaughter of lives on our highways."

Outlines Projects

Safety Director West A. Burdick outlined some of the projects which may be assigned to private associations. They include: Schoolboy patrols, essay and poster contest, parades, distributing of posters, studies of local traffic ordinances to revise or strengthen them, membership campaigns for safety councils, maintenance of spot maps, junior safety clubs, bicycle clubs and creation of public sentiment against traffic ticket fixing.

Mayor J. H. Wallis, president of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities, expressed disappointment that the 1937 legislature killed the bill for a state traffic patrol, declaring that a lack of adequate traffic police is a stumbling block in the path of the safety movement.

Snow, Sleet Hit City and Vicinity

Colder Weather Tonight, Weather Bureau Reports: 20 at Noon

A heavy snowfall that started early yesterday afternoon and changed into sleet in the early evening clothed Appleton and vicinity in winter apparel again.

Although the snow did not stop traffic in city or county, the sleet which followed froze on the windshields of cars and on the highways making driving difficult and dangerous.

Cloudy and colder tonight, with fair weather tomorrow, is the forecast issued today by the Milwaukee weather bureau. For the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning, the coldest temperatures in the city was 16 and the warmest 25, according to records at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant.

At noon today the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building registered 20 degrees above. No snow fell during the morning, but the sky was overcast.

Abilene, Tex., with 88, was the hottest city in the nation yesterday. Moorhead, Minn., reported six above.

Pension Costs in County Decreased During February

Old age and blind pensions and aid to dependent children during the last month amounted to $22,673.58 in the county, a slight decrease from the preceding month when the total paid out was $22,911.21, according to a report of T. S. Davis, pension director.

Fifty-five blind cases, the same number cared for in January, were given aid amounting to $1,198.49 during February.

Old age pensions amounted to $12,148.74. A total of 633 cases were given aid, 11 new cases being added to the list and seven discontinued.

Aid to dependent children amounted to $9,326.35. During the month 304 cases including 752 children were given aid. Four cases including ten children were added to the list, and eleven cases including thirty-three children were dropped from the list.

Foor Named Head Of Committee for Wild Life Exhibit

Select Tentative Dates for Display at Pierce Park Pavilion

F. M. Foor, 1008 E. Wisconsin avenue, was elected chairman of a committee, composed of representatives of 21 civic and service organizations, to make arrangements for a wild life, floral and park exhibit last night at the Appleton Y. M. C. A.

The central committee tentatively selected May 13, 14 and 15 as the dates for the exhibit which will be displayed at Pierce park.

E. W. Shannon was elected secretary and a finance committee, composed of Lyall Stilp, Neenah, and Frank Taylor, Appleton, was named.

To get the exhibit to Appleton, an outlay of $450 would be required, Foor told the committee last night, and $300 of the amount would have to be deposited with the Wisconsin Conservation department before transportation of the exhibit. A portion of the expense money would be refunded by the conservation commission, it was explained. Plans to raise the money were discussed but no decision was reached.

The committee decided to train a number of Boy Scouts and members of the Neenah Boys Brigade to guard the cages and serve as guides. The Junior Izaak Walton league will exhibit sand table models of old fashioned farms with an abundance of wild life as compared to models of modern farms.

Conservation movies will be secured from the state and will be shown at Pierce park pavilion during the exhibit.

Groups represented at last night's meeting follow: Veterans of Foreign Wars, Appleton Y. M. C. A., Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Junior Izaak Walton leagues, Appleton Chamber of Commerce, Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce, Appleton Woman's club, Business and Professional Women's club, Rotary club, Lions club, Kiwanis club, Lawrence college, Appleton public schools, county schools, American Legion, Knights of Pythias, county park board, Appleton Park board and the Senior Izaak Walton league.

CARS SMASHED AS FLOOD WRECKS BRIDGE

Battling against fury of flood, two men attempt to salvage cars that tumbled into river when the bridge at Del Mar, Calif., was wrecked by the worst flood in the history of Southern California. Millions of dollars in damage was caused and the death toll rapidly neared the 150 mark.

WATERS RECEDING

Fresno, Calif.—(AP)—Subsiding waters in the Herndon canal allayed fears of a new flood here today.

At midnight police had warned residents of the canal district they should be prepared to move to safety.

The north bank of the canal broke, releasing backed-up water from the Figarden area into the canal. Workmen reinforced the south bank and allowed the flood to spread over open fields.

The Figarden section has many expensive homes, from which owners were forced to flee as the water rose and poured on into the canal, only protection for the major part of the city.

Fresno State college was threatened by the flood.

Army and Navy Revive Argument Over Ability Of Plane to Sink Ship

BY DEVON FRANCIS
AP Aviation Editor

If an airplane can sink a battleship, defense of America's coastline would appear to be a simple matter. If it can't a lot of energy is being wasted on that argument again.

While the navy's battle wagons conduct their annual maneuvers in the Pacific, a tidy plan for stopping an invading fleet in its tracks is being evolved by the Army Air Corps.

Both Make Good Cases

Army bombers, as a new "first line of defense," would wing far to sea to engage the fleet. At best the invader's warships would be sunk or disabled. At worst, they would be put at a disadvantage.

The Aid Corps makes a good case for itself.

But so do champions of the warship, insistent that the navy still is the nation's first line of defense.

Little has been added to available knowledge in the Battleships-vs.-Aircraft argument by the Ethiopian, Spanish or Sino-Japanese wars. No modern bombing plane has been tested against a modern warship.

Partisans of the airplane say Italy won the first air war in history without firing a shot—by threatening to sink the British fleet in the Mediterranean if the Suez canal were closed during the Ethiopian excursion. But the facts are not public.

A Deep Secret

Still a deep secret among military men were the results of the "bombing" of the battleship Utah by army planes last year, several hundred miles off San Francisco's Golden Gate. They were impressive. Dropped from an average of 12,000 feet, "water bombs" peppered the deck and the water near the vessel.

The army argued that the direct hits with real bombs would have sunk or crippled the Utah; that near-hits would have opened her seams.

The answer to the planes' accuracy was a new, secret, bomb sight.

It is all theory, of course, and the rebuttal of the navy adds up to an equally logical conclusion that for offence, the airplane is as effective as a gnat on an elephant's hide.

Battleship Protection

Modern battleships, they point out, are armor-plated above the water line and that bulges or "blisters" below it absorb the shock of explosions.

Even the value of torpedoes against modern men-of-war is questioned. At Jutland the warship Marlborough was torpedoed, but not disabled.

The Spanish Insurgent battleship Espana was sunk by a chance hit down a funnel. The gunboat Panay, sunk in China, was meagerly equipped for combat.

Alone among high navy officials, Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, has conceded publicly that an airplane might be able to sink a battleship.

Let's enter a hypothetical war. An enemy is approaching our shores. A warning has been sounded.

The Carrier's Brood

Ashore are the Air Corps' heavy bombing planes, the largest capable of flying 1,500 miles, unloading several thousand pounds of "eggs" and returning without refueling.

Cooperating with the defense fleet are the navy's slower, heavily armed patrol bombers. On cruisers and battleships of each fleet are nests of scouting and observation planes, and on aircraft carriers are several hundred combat observation, and light bombing machines.

The usefulness of the carriers' brood may be discounted beyond 300 miles from their base. Exceptionally vulnerable to attack, the carriers will remain far behind the zone of battle.

With the enemy still a thousand miles out, a dozen Air Corps bombers take off to meet him.

But, the navy interposes, how is the army going to find him? Well, runs the answer, the Utah was found in a search of 90,000 square miles of ocean; to find a whole fleet should be easy.

All right, say the navy. The enemy has been spotted, but the enemy also has spotted the army, and a swarm of fighting planes is raising from every ship.

A "curtain" of anti-aircraft shells is being thrown athwart the bombers' line of flight.

A New Idea

Not so fast, says the army: (1) Enemy observation units are off on missions and the surprise is complete; (2) Only a few enemy combat planes are in the air, and the rest are being launched too slowly to worry about; (3) The carriers, looming like the broadside of a barn, can be dispatched quickly; (4) Anti aircraft fire is innocuous at 10,000 to 12,000 feet.

Very well, retorts the navy with deadly finality, but the airplanes can't sink the battleships; and as for "harassing" the enemy, submarines and torpedo boats can do a better job.

The Air Corps recently pulled a new idea out of its sleeve. How about laying down a blanket of deadly gas, it asks, and let the elaborate ventilating systems of enemy ships suck in the fumes?

The navy, which can give as well as take, will have an answer to that one soon.

Municipal Court Receipts Total $411 for Month

City Fines Amount to $165, Report of William R. Kreiss Shows

Fines, fees and costs collected in municipal court during February amounted to $411.10, according to a report drawn by William R. Kreiss, municipal court reporter for Judge Thomas H. Ryan. State fines totaled $25, city fines $165, county fines $75, court costs $93.20, officers' fees $18.05, fees to city $5.30, civil actions $27.75 and miscellaneous $1.80.

Nine vagrancies led the list of causes for action in state cases. Others were: compulsory school attendance 2, having no transfer of title 2, drunken driving 3, larceny 2, non-support 1, drunkenness 4, illegitimacy 1, violation of game law 1, embezzlement 1, failure to stop at arterial 1, failure to have license 1.

Causes for county actions were: reckless driving 3, drunken driving 1, failure to stop at arterial 7 and violation of zoning ordinance 1.

Charges in city actions included drunkenness 5, drunken driving 2, failure to stop at arterial 4, disorderly conduct 1, speeding 4, overtime parking 1, failure to have operator's license 1, and failure to stop for automatic traffic signal 1.

4 Pastors to Hold Panel Discussion On Church Unity

Program Will Feature Meeting of College Women's Forum

A panel discussion in which four pastors of local Protestant churches will participate is scheduled for the meeting of College Women's Forum of First Congregational church at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the church. The subject will be "Can There be One Unified Christian Church?" and those who will take part are the Rev. John B. Hanna, pastor of the host church; Rev. William J. Spicer, rector of All Saints Episcopal church; Dr. Harry C. Culver, pastor of First Methodist Episcopal church; and the Rev. Robert K. Bell, pastor of Memorial Presbyterian church. The meeting will be open to all college students.

At the morning service at the Congregational church the Rev. Mr. Hanna will preach on "The Call of Christ."

High School Epworth League of the local Methodist church and the Kaukauna Methodist church will have a joint meeting and social hour at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Appleton church, followed by a lunch at 6:15 and devotional period at 7 o'clock. Dr. Harry C. Culver, pastor, will preach at the morning service at his church on "Jesus Preaches in His Home Town."

The every member canvass committee of Memorial Presbyterian church will meet at 8 o'clock Sunday night at the home of Dr. H. K. Pratt, 122 N. Lawe street. At the morning service the Rev. Robert K. Bell will speak on "The March of the Immortals."

Communion Service

A communion service will be held at the morning worship period at 11 o'clock Sunday at First Baptist church. The Rev. R. H. Spangler, pastor, will preach a sermon entitled "The Measure of a Church." St. Matthew Lutheran church will celebrate communion Sunday also, the German service to be held at 8:30 and the English at 10 o'clock. The sermon by the Rev. Philip Froehlke, pastor, will be on "Jesus Only."

The annual memorial service for members who died during the last year will be held during the 10:30 service Sunday morning at Emmanuel Evangelical church. Flower girls will place a flower in a vase as each name is called. The sermon theme of the Rev. G. H. Blum, pastor, will be "What Must I Do Without Jesus?"

"God's Eternal Counsel Unto the Salvation of the World" is the subject of a sermon to be given by the Rev. T. J. Sauer, honorary pastor to St. Paul Lutheran church, at that church Sunday morning. At St. John Evangelical and Reformed church a play will be given at 7:45 Sunday night in the church auditorium, the title being "The Lost Church." It will be repeated next Wednesday night. At the morning service Sunday the Rev. A. Guenther will preach on "The Stillness in God's Presence."

"The Church at Ease"

The Rev. D. E. Bosserman, pastor of Trinity English Lutheran church, will speak Sunday at his church on "The Church at Ease," while at First English Lutheran church the Rev. F. C. Reuter will preach on "The Warning Cry of Jesus." Holy communion will be celebrated at 7:30 Sunday evening at the latter church.

A holy communion service will be held at 10:45 Sunday morning at The Gospel temple. Mrs. John S. Lincoln, Des Moines, Iowa, will be the special speaker at both morning and evening services. At New Appleton tabernacle Erwin Brueckner, Ridgefield, Ill., will speak before the adult class in the morning on "Many Crossed the Red Sea but Few Crossed the Jordan." Missionary Sunday will be observed and a communion service will be held. In the afternoon Mr. Brueckner will speak on "Launched Out Into the Deep," and in the evening his subject will be "Who is My Neighbor?"

"Man" is the subject of the lesson-sermon for Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist.

COMMITTEE TO MEET

The executive committee of the county board will meet at 9:30 Monday morning at the courthouse. Bills will be allowed and other routine business transacted.

2,500 Children Placed In Foster Homes Growing Up to be Good Citizens

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—In more than 2,000 foster homes in Wisconsin today almost 2,500 young children, denied through the incompetence of their parents or other circumstances a place in their natural homes, are growing up to be normal, useful citizens.

Through the joint efforts of counties, the state welfare agencies, and private school service agencies endowed by private philanthropy, unfortunate children in every county in Wisconsin are being given an opportunity for healthful development.

Thus may be counted up the results of the foster home program which was adopted by the state nine years ago when the legislature adopted a children's code making such a program the responsibility of the state board of control.

The problem of the care of such children has been one which has plagued social welfare workers for many years. Historically the solution was institutionalization. Later an unrelated foster home program grew up. In Wisconsin it was realized a decade ago that neither program was sufficient alone. So a joint institutional and private fosterhome program was developed.

Money Only Problem

Today both private and public children's institutions are caring for orphans and those unfortunate youngsters whose parents should not, will not, or cannot care for them. The only problem remaining is that of money, according to board of control officials. All of the neglected children in Wisconsin are not yet being taken care of, despite creditable work by numerous private organizations.

The state's foster home program, in effect, is supervised by the board of control while actually carried out by licensed private agencies. Among such agencies now functioning,—there are 46 in the state—are the Bethany Children's Home at Waupaca, the Children's Country Home at Winneconne, the Crippled Children's Home at New Franken, the Green Bay Diocese Apostolate at Green Bay, the Homme Orpan Home at Wittenberg, Shawano county, the Monastery of Our Lady of Charity, Green Bay, the Odd Fellow's Home, Green Bay, St. Joseph's Asylum at Green Bay, and St. Mary's Mothers' and Infants' home at Green Bay.

Such agencies, which frequently maintain children's institutions of their own, carry out the foster home program by the authority of the board of control. They investigate complaints, but which most frequently come from the parents themselves, doctors, nurses, relief workers, police officers, teachers, or any others.

Attempt Readjustment

Frequently, according to Miss Elizabeth Xerxa, director of the state foster home program, family difficulties can be patched up by consultation, encouragement, or readjustment of relief or pensions payments. It is the policy of the state to discourage the removal of children from their own homes whenever possible, she pointed out, and since the recent increases in public expenditures for pensions, relief and other public welfare services, the number of recommendations that children be taken from their parents have dropped markedly.

In those cases in which trained welfare workers determine that the child's best interest dictates placement in a new home, committment is ordered by the county juvenile court to a household which holds a permit issued by the board of control. At present there are 2302 such homes in Wisconsin.

Of these homes there are three kinds. The "free home" is the one in which the foster child is taken in without compensation, almost like an adopted child. Another type is the boarding home, where the foster parents are paid, either by the county government or by the private welfare agency. A third type is the work-wage home, in which the foster child earns his own support by working.

Start Moves for Trial of Boy Who Killed His Mother

Youth Confesses Fatal Stabbing After Victim Shook Him

Chicago—(AP)—Prosecutors began moves today to bring a 16-year-old boy to trial for the mortal stabbing of his crippled mother.

Assistant State's Attorney Morris G. Meyers said the youth, Theodore Danielsen, Jr., had confessed plunging a 10-inch bread knife into his mother's throat because she shook him for playing hookey from school. Meyers said he would seek a grand jury murder indictment.

Theodore Danielsen, Sr., a sports goods salesman, listened with bowed head at a police station last night while his remorseful son told his story in halting sentences amid bursts of tears.

The elder Danielsen discovered his wife's body when he returned from work Thursday night. It lay sprawled on the kitchen floor with the knife embedded to the hilt in the throat.

A search for the youth ended 16 hours later when detectives found him at a cheap hotel. He was seated on a bed, reading newspaper accounts of the crime.

Brooded Over Absence

Prosecutor Meyers said the lad had been brooding over his absence from high school, where he was a sophomore, and had decided to confess his truancy to his mother. Meyers quoted him as saying:

"I told her about my absence from school. She was mixing cherries for a pie and pudding, working at the table. I told her I had lied all along.

"She said 'Oh!' and was very angry. She started to shake me and scold me bad. She said I was useless, and shook me up again. Her voice was rising higher and higher. Then I lost control of myself. I grabbed the knife.

Fed His Dog

"I jabbed it in and cut until she fell down and lay there. I pulled the knife out, then I went over to the sink and washed it. When I finished I leaned over and felt mother. She was still warm and suffered so I stuck the knife back in her neck. Then I went downstairs and fed my dog."

Meyers said the youth packed two suitcases, took $5 from his savings bank, $5 from his mother's purse, some pictures and trinkets and left the house.

Father and son embraced in a dramatic meeting at the police station.

"Remember son, that in spite of all this, I am still your friend," the elder Danielsen said. "I will stand by you. Bear up now — you are all I have left."

Dr. Paul Schmitt, coroner's physician, said the 48-year-old mother had been stabbed 11 times.

Revoke Licenses of 62 Autoists in Month

Sixty-two motorists in the state had their driving licenses revoked during February, according to a report of the department of state received by Chief of Police George T. Prim. Eighty-six others had their licenses suspended and eight licenses were taken up for an indefinite period. Thirty-two reinstatements were made. During the month 13 cars were reported stolen and 17 stolen automobiles were recovered. License plates of six cars, eleven trucks and four trailers were stolen during February.

ing order fixing $4,625,000 as the price Superior should pay for the utility property. A suit by Alderman John Green of Superior to restrain the purchase is pending in Dane county circuit court.

The hearing in the utility case and the preliminary hearing for Dinneen—each an outgrowth of state investigation into the ramifications of Buckman affairs—were going on simultaneously yesterday.

After the three members of the public service commission and one former member had testified before Judge Proctor that they never authorized anyone to deliver commission documents to the Buckman company, the state suddenly rested its case against Dinneen.

Those who testified were Commissioners Fred S. Hunt, Robert A. Nixon and R. Floyd Green and former Commissioner Andrew R. McDonald.

Refer To Letters

In questioning them, special state attorneys referred to numerous letters from investors and inter-office communications of the commission which had been found in the files of Buckman and George.

Dinneen's attorney, Ray McCann of Milwaukee, said he would not present any evidence, but wanted to argue a motion to dismiss the charge of criminal fraud against his client on the ground the state had not shown that commission documents reached the Buckman company through Dinneen.

Judge Proctor announced he would hear arguments on the motion at 10 a. m. March 18. He said if the motion should be denied he will be ready to hear any testimony the defense wishes to present.

William H. Spohn, special state counsel, objected to such procedure, but was overruled.

but he thought any investigation should be made by the trade commission rather than a senate committee.

Would Accept Resignation?

"I don't think any non-partisan investigation can be made by congress," Norris said.

The statement of Norris, a close adviser of President Roosevelt, that it would benefit TVA for Chairman Morgan to resign indicated to some informed persons that the administration would accept, without reluctance, any decision by Morgan to quit.

Under the Tennessee Valley authority law, the president could not remove Morgan, members of the board being removable only by a concurrent resolution of the senate and house.

Whether any move for such a resolution will be made was said by informed persons to be dependent on the findings of an investigation of the TVA.

Mr. Roosevelt was represented as determined that internal dissension should not be allowed to imperil the success of TVA, designed as a broad experiment of his power and social programs.

The president evidenced that he was following the situation closely when he made public yesterday the suggestion of Director David Lilienthal and Vice Chairman Harcourt A. Morgan that Chairman Arthur E. Morgan retire.

Two days earlier, Chairman Morgan had sharply criticized his colleagues and, in effect, had said the TVA could get along better without them. He also demanded a sweeping congressional investigation of the agency. Several proposals for such an investigation have been made.

Dispute Over Power

While Chairman Morgan said the differences went far deeper, the outward manifestations of the dispute have been largely over power. In this, the clash has been principally between Chairman Morgan and Lilienthal.

Dr. H. A. Morgan, whose forte is agriculture, has not taken the initiative on this question, but has sided with Lilienthal.

The latter has sought to keep the TVA as aloof as possible from private power interests in the Tennessee basin, whereas his colleague-adversary has counselled more cooperation and a long-range program for joint distribution of power produced at TVA dams.

Two years ago there were reports Chairman Morgan had asked President Roosevelt not to re-appoint Lilienthal and, when the request was denied, threatened to resign himself. A year ago Morgan issued an individual statement of policy advocating the idea of cooperation with private power interests.

One result was that the TVA was reorganized, John B. Blandford Jr., becoming general manager and the board becoming more of a policy-making body than an administrative one.

bill the same as we did last year. Why isn't it there?"

"The ways and means committee," Representative Vinson (D-Ky.) replied, "bows to the will of the house. We would have been in an awkward position if we had included it in this bill, after the house had voted for repeal."

Opponents of publicity contend its chief result has been to furnish promoters and the criminally-minded with a list of persons of large income.

As the house approached a vote on the tax measure, there were increasing reports that the senate might revolt against some portions of the house bill.

Would Repeal Tax

Sentiment—its strength as yet undisclosed—has been indicated in the senate for complete repeal of the undistributed profits tax and elimination of a proposed new tax on family-owned or closely-held corporations.

The house bill would make extensive alterations in the undistributed profits tax, while retaining its principle for corporations with incomes in excess of $25,000 a year.

When the house recessed until Monday, Democratic Leader Rayburn of Texas failed, because Boileau objected, to obtain an agreement designed to assure a vote late Wednesday afternoon.

The senate had a Saturday holiday after having confirmed, 62 to 4, yesterday the nomination of Robert H. Jackson for the position of solicitor general and debated the government reorganization bill.

Wage-Hour Question

With a day off, legislators were considering the possible implications of the president's assertion that he hoped for wage-hour legislation this session, but that it might not be possible to obtain action.

House leaders in recent discussions have omitted a wage-hour bill from their list of measures which must be passed before adjournment.

Most members interpreted the president's statement as indicating he was reconciled to the fact that a labor standards act might not be placed on the statute books for another year.

Douglas County Sportsmen Protest Closing of 10 Miles of Brule River

Madison—(AP)—Protests from Douglas county against closing of 10 miles of the Brule river, famous trout stream, to all except fly fishermen will be considered at a conservation commission meeting here March 5.

After telegrams and letters of protest, mostly from Superior, arrived at the department headquarters, Director H. W. MacKenzie made arrangements last night to take them before the commission at its next regular meeting.

The order doesn't go into effect until March 15 and the fishing season on the Brule doesn't open until May 1 so there is "no great hurry" about getting reconsideration, the department said.

Superior—(AP)—Sportsmen said today more than 100 petitions were in circulation protesting the closing of the Brule trout stream to all but fly fishermen.

Petitions will go direct to Governor LaFollette and not to the state conservation commission, circulators said.

Assemblymen Michael Hill and Elmer Peterson, and State Senator Phillip Nelson also were being petitioned to ask the commission to withdraw the order.

The petitions charge the order was issued under a "cloak of secrecy" by inserting paid legal notices in Superior and Sheboygan newspapers without benefit of public hearing or publicity. The petitions demand withdrawal of the order immediately.

The Douglas county fish and game committee, named each year by sportsmen to serve in an advisory capacity with the conservation department, last night discussed its functions. The committee said it had no knowledge of the Brule closing, and members said they felt they should have been consulted.

Duty of Congress To Conduct Probe In TVA Situation

Investigation Not One for Trade Commission, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — This is a tale of tragedy. It is the story of the death of an ideal. It covers not the loss of money or material things, but the evaporation of a lofty purpose—the theory that government, in some things at least, could be non-political, and non-bureaucratic, impersonal and high-minded, and not selfish or scheming.

Lawrence

The revelation comes not from the mouths of the political demagogues nor from the confessions of the partisans. It comes from a man, Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee Valley authority, who thought that government could be decent and honest because he himself was decent and honest, who thought government could be unselfish and conscientious because he himself was unselfish and conscientious.

The tragedy is no less easy to bear because Senator George W. Norris, radical of radicals, liberal of liberals, was the father of the TVA and fought with might and main to keep the new agency free from the spoils system and sordid machinations of the politicians. He wrote into the law clauses that commanded the merit system to be applied. He insisted on high standards in selecting personnel.

Partisan

But Mr. Norris, like many reformers, forgot that human nature is not abolished when the law says its greedy hand must be kept from public authority. He forgot, too, that there were other ways for people to become partisan besides affiliating with either of the major political parties or classifying themselves as Progressive or Conservative.

Dr. Morgan now calls for a congressional investigation of the whole TVA. He hints at scandal and lack of integrity. His statement comes just after a special commission had refused to entertain the claims of a United States senator for hundreds of thousands of dollars of compensation for marble resources in and around TVA.

That there has been division in the board of directors of the TVA for several months is well known to the public, just as is the fact that Dr. Morgan has been crying alone in the wilderness for congress to take a good look at the TVA. His exact words in his open appeal this week to congress for an inquiry are worth quoting:

"To a steadily increasing degree, I have contended with an attitude of conspiracy, secretiveness and bureaucratic manipulation which has made the proper and effective conduct of TVA business increasingly difficult.

Mislead Public

"During this period, the public has been steadily and I believe purposely led to believe that the difficulties within the TVA have been due primarily to differences as to power policy, or to just another 'family quarrel.'

"The real difficulty has been the effort to secure honesty, openness, decency, and fairness in government."

Now, who is Dr. Morgan? He is no tool of the "power interests." He has believed and now believes in the basic purpose of the TVA. He has for years been president of Antioch College of Ohio. He has what might be called liberal views that border on the socialistic. But, above all, he is an idealist, almost a purist in his belief that democratic government—the people's government—can be and should be honest and decent.

When Dr. Morgan, a member of the directorate of three which manages the TVA, calls on congress to investigate, his charges cannot be swept aside as those of an "economic royalist," or a "money-changer" or even one of the sixty families, for Dr. Morgan neither by inheritance nor by occupation can be classed as a rich man. He is not even a man of modest means.

Thorn In Side

The administration has known for some time that Dr. Morgan was a thorn in its side, but has preferred to temporize with the situation, hoping that the good doctor would get tired and quit. Today, the intrigue sponsored by the administration and its henchmen in congress is to switch the inquiry to the presidentially controlled Federal Trade commission, where the whole thing can be hushed up, or, at least, maneuvered so that it does not do the administration any publicity damage.

But the mere fact that the administration wants to hush somehing up and is afraid of a congressional inquiry is in iself suspicious. Even Senator Norris of Nebraska now is said to favor an inquiry only by the Federal Trade commission instead of by congress. But it will be recalled that, in 1928, when the inquiry into public utilities was first suggested by the late Senator Tom Walsh of Montana, Mr. Norris and others felt that a committee of congress would do a better job than would the Federal Trade commission. The utilities, on the other hand, believed that a congressional committee would not be as much in their interest as would be a Federal Trade commission inquiry.

Executive Agency

Certainly, so far as giving the inquiry a bi-partisan handling so that all sides may be represented, an investigation by a senate and house committee would be decidedly in the public interest. But there's another reason. The Federal Trade commission is an executive agency. Its members are subject to presidential appointment and removal. One executive agency ought not to be asked to investigate another executive agency.

To investigate executive agencies is plainly the duty of congress, which created the Tennessee Valley authority and is being asked now to vote millions of dollars for more and more public ownership projects. It surely would seem that, if there is nothing to hide, the administration would not care who conducts an inquiry to find out whether there can be decency and honesty and fairness in government.

Kaukauna — Alma Renn led all ladies' league keglers last night at the Schell alleys by cracking the maples for a 509 series on counts of 155, 167 and 187. In spite of her score, her Renn's dropped two of three games to the Tittmans. Eva Zuelszke led the winners with a series of 472 on games of 161, 144 and 167.

The Lucky Strikes, led by Maude Van Abel with 403 on 158, 130 and 155, swept three games from the Schell's. Ann Wolf's 389 on 134, 121 and 134 led the losers.

In other matches the Goldin Stars took two from the Ristaucrats and the Badgers took two from the Kalupas. Eleanor Dietzler hit 137, 142 and 187 to lead the Ristaucrats, with Germaine Kalupa's 385 on 144, 125 and 116 topping the Goldin Stars. Marie Biese's 411 on 123, 156 and 132 led the Badgers, and Esther Kalupa's 394 on 122, 154 and 118 paced the Kalupas.

Weyauwega Band Gets Ready for Tournament

Weyauwega—A new phonograph record of one of the tournament pieces, "The Calif of Bagdad" has been purchased for the high school band. This week the band studied the primary essentials of marching. With both junior and senior band members present and the help of five boys training for drum majors, Director Howard Chase showed members how to stand erect, mark time and stop. This is the beginning of practice which will continue from now until May 19, when the Weyauwega championship band will go to the New London tournament.

New Chairs Ready for Council Spectators

Kaukauna — Citizens who attend council meetings will in the future be more comfortable, for 36 new upholstered folding chairs have been placed in the chambers, replacing the wooden ones formerly in use. The chairs were purchased by the utility department.

LIONS MEET TUESDAY

Kaukauna—The Kaukauna Lions club will meet at 6:45 Tuesday evening at Hotel Kaukauna. An educational program will be presented.

Second Game in Title Series to Be Played Sunday

Win for Brewer Five Will End Play for Cage Championship

Kaukauna—City league basket ball fans may have their last opportunity to see league competition tomorrow afternoon when the Mellow Brews and the Pantry Lunch five clash in the second of their two out of three game playoff for the city championship. A win for the Brews, who copped the first contest last Sunday, 18 to 13, will give them the city title. A win for the Lunchers would necessitate the playing of a third game next Sunday.

The game, scheduled for 3:15, will be preceded by a clash between the Kaukauna Merchants, girls' team, and the New London girls' team.

By virtue of their win last Sunday the Brews must be installed as favorites tomorrow. For three quarters it appeared as if the Lunchers would coast to a win but the Brews rallied in the last period for their victory.

Charley Bloch and Busse will be at the forward posts for the Mellow Brews, Ed Bloch at center and George Bloch and Ralph Wurdinger at guards. For the Pantry quintet, it will be Dix and Koehne and forwards, Arnold at center and Farwell and Walsh at guards.

New Election Officers To be Named in Village

Manawa — A. Sturm, president of the village of Manawa, said Friday that he would reappoint election officials for this village on the basis of the supreme court decision at the meeting of the local board of trustees to be held Thursday night, March 17. Board members were appointed Feb. 3 in Manawa on the basis of the vote for governor two years ago in accordance with the recent ruling of Attorney General O. S. Loomis.

In Manawa, the decision will mean three changes on the election board, according to Mr. Sturm. A. G. Brown and Mrs. Paul E. Roman were appointed inspectors as Republicans and Mrs. J. Pidde as a Progressive. Mrs. Karl Sturm and J. C. Kinsman were named as the Progressive and Republican clerks of election, respectively. Mrs. Charles J. Deckert, Progressive, and Mrs. Frank Smith, Republican, were appointed ballot clerks. The new supreme court ruling means that Mrs. Pidde, Mrs. Sturm, and Mrs. Deckert will be replaced by Democrats.

Manawa Prom Is Set for April 22

Junior Class President Appoints Committees for Annual Event

Manawa — Juniors of Manawa High school have voted to hold their annual promenade on Friday evening, April 22, a date that does not conflict with any of the neighboring schools. Mark Fitzgerald, class president, has already appointed his committees. The orchestra committee is headed by Lola Patton, assisted by Edward Nolan and Harold Fietzer. The invitations will be handled by a group composed of Rose Kielpinsky, chairman, Ethel Lange, Nelva Wohlrabe, and Lois Bauer. Ione Dain is chairman of the refreshments committee, and she will be helped by Elsa Hetzel and Lorraine Forsythe. The decorations are in charge of chairman Margaret Jensen, Velda Handrich, Eunice Fenske, Corwin Randt, and Arnold Thomack.

Although the number of entries in forensic events at Manawa High school is not large, a capable group representing each class will take part in the preliminaries. The freshman class has entered four speakers. Gordon Barrington will take part in extempore speaking; Floyd Esche in oratory with the selection, "We're Trying to Buy Peace at Half Price;" Bernice Miller in extempore reading, and Violet Schultz is working on a serious declamation entitled, "The Condemned." Ruth Lindsay, a sophomore, is the only representative in humorous declamation with the selection, "Brotherly Love." The juniors are represented by Mildred Patri in extempore reading.

Three seniors will be represented. George Brooks has entered extempore speaking. Ruth O'Donnell has selected a serious declamation, "Room in the World," and Wally Wandtke is out for oratory with the selection, "What Youth Seeks Today Is Security." On March 18 these contestants will appear before the student assembly. This will be a preliminary in preparation for a conference contest to be held at Amherst, Tuesday, March 22. All six schools in the Central Wisconsin conference, Amherst, Iola, Manawa, Waupaca, and Weyauwega, will compete.

$77,961 of Tax Roll Paid in Waupaca City

Waupaca — Mrs. Ella Hinchey, city treasurer, reports that $77,961.31 of the tax roll of $103,213.27 was collected by March 1, just three-fourths of the entire amount. Saturday, Feb 26 was the record day, more than $10,000 being brought in that day.

Jens P. Olson has announced his candidacy for alderman of the Third ward, opposing A. C. Looker, incumbent, and his papers were being circulated Friday. Retired, Mr. Olson is running on the theory that he has ample time to give to the office.

Alderman Willys Holmes of the First ward has changed his mind and decided to run again for alderman of the First ward. Holmes has served in that capacity for two terms.

'Buick and Pontiac Dealer Prepared To Trade': Loehn

Member of O. R. Kloehn Company Tells Policy On Car Deals

"We're trading", was the comment today of Walter P. Loehn, member of the O. R. Kloehn firm, local Buick and Pontiac dealer, on the condition of the used car market here and the outlook for new car sales in this territory.

Mr. Loehn said that the used car volume in January compared very satisfactorily with that of a year ago and that there has been a decided improvement in both new and used car sales since the first of the year.

"We are doing as good a used car business as we did last year and we are not over-loaded", he said. "Our sales have been better than normal, and as a result we are in a better position to accept trade-ins on new Buick and Pontiac cars For that reason, I say: 'We're trading'".

The dealer pointed out that sales of the new 1938 Buicks and Pontiacs have been exceptional since their announcement last fall, with this make standing in fourth place in national registrations for the last four months, being outsold only by the three lowest priced makes of cars.

According to analysis by the factory sales department, he said, one of the reasons for this is the fact that Buick and Pontiac dealers throughout the country have merchandised their used cars along with their new car business and have kept a proper balance between new and used car stocks.

"That analysis fits our local situation", Mr. Loehn said. Naturally, this places us in a strong position to handle new car business since we are able to handle trade-ins on new cars on as good if not a better basis than at this time a year ago.

"There has been a lot of talk about a used car 'jam' in the automobile industry. While this has served to emphasize used car values, it likewise has caused many a prospective new car customer to wonder whether now is the time to make a trade-in on a new automobile.

"I want to dispell any doubt in this connection so far as we are concerned. We are doing business on the same basis we have always done it. We are not overloaded with used cars and we look forward to an increasingly good used car market as we go into the spring and summer months."

Mr. Loehn said that to further new car activity in this connection a special campaign of appraisal and new car demonstration has been launched here.

Lutz Sales Head Is Pleased With New $50,000 Movie

Lutz Ice Company to Present Free Show Here Tuesday Morning

"The picture business certainly has plenty of angles to it that an ice man couldn't be expected to know," said Herb Lutz today, "but we are all set for the showing of our $50,000 movie 10 a. m. next Tuesday, and I'll guarantee that whoever sees it will be well entertained."

Mr. Lutz, sales manager of the company, has temporarily forsaken the ice business to become a theatrical impresario. The picture, "Husbands Are Good For Something," which will be shown at the Appleton theater 10 a. m next Tuesday, has been brought here through the courtesy of the Lutz Ice company.

"You may wonder why an ice man is involved in the picture business," continued Mr. Lutz. "When we got the chance to show this picture, we snapped it up because we felt there were many women who would like to see an actual cooking demonstration on the screen. While the 4 reels of this feature picture are not entirely devoted to cooking, there is enough of it to make it distinctly worthwhile for every person interested in the subject to see it.

"The picture has plot too. Eileen Harrison, a typical young wife without too much money in her budget, learns to cook for two mighty good reasons: to keep her husband happy and to humiliate a rival.

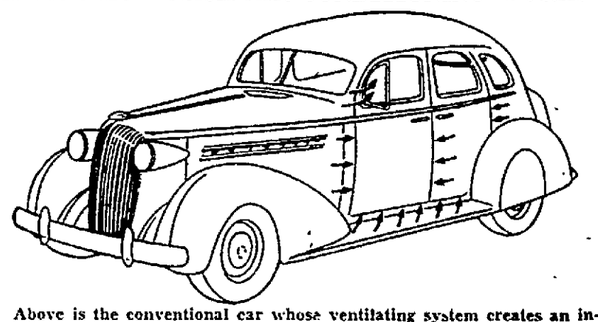
"I want to extend my personal invitation to every woman who reads this to be our guest at the movie. Free tickets may be obtained from your ice serviceman or by calling the Lutz Ice company."

Joint Meetings Planned At 2 Waupaca Churches

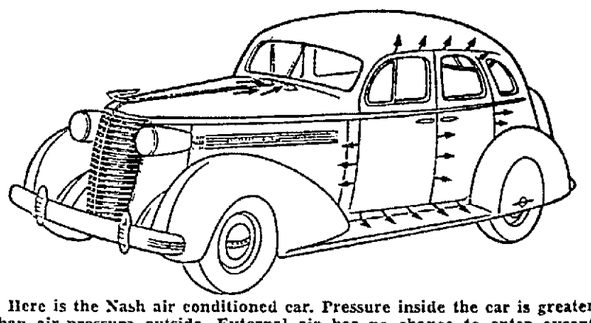
Waupaca — The Rev. Lawrence Siersbeck, pastor of the Kingo Evangelical Lutheran church of Milwaukee, will be the guest speaker at joint meetings in Holy Ghost and Our Saviour's Lutheran churches Sunday through Thursday.

"Missionary Journeys of the Apostle Paul" will be the topic of the Rev. Mr. Siersbeck's lectures and the schedule of meetings is as follows: Our Saviour's church Sunday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 7:45 p. m.; Holy Ghost church Monday and Thursday, 7:45 p. m.; afternoon meetings: Wednesday, 2 o'clock Holy Ghost church, and Thursday, 2 o'clock, in Danish, Our Saviour's church.

HERE'S HOW NASH AIR CONDITIONING WORKS



Above is the conventional car whose ventilating system creates an internal vacuum while in motion, sucking in icy drafts and bringing in dust, dirt, and fumes.



Here is the Nash air conditioned car. Pressure inside the car is greater than air-pressure outside. External air has no chance to enter except through the cowl ventilator which scoops it into the conditioning system. The great 1938 Nash with its air-conditioning system may be seen at the Auto Sales Co., 124 E. Washington street.

Perrigo Mattress Company Re-Opens For Business; Prices are Moderate

The Perigo Mattress Company, 129 Canal street, Neenah, well-known as one of the chief contributors of restful sleep in the Fox river valley, has re-opened for business for the spring, summer, and early fall season. This company has consistently proved that it can rebuild an old mattress like new for a remarkably low cost and that it can make an innerspring mattress out of one of your old mattresses with the same degree of success. The charge as quoted for mattress rebuilding is $4.50 and the cost for making a mattress into the most modern type of innerspring is $9.95.

The long experience of this company and its extensive list of satisfied customers warrants your investigation and serious consideration of enlisting this firm's services. Check over the mattresses in your home today, particularly those which are old and worn, or mattresses which are less frequently slept upon because they are uncomfortable. Then call the Perigo Company at Neenah, 44, or if you happen to be in Neenah, stop by at the concern's headquarters. You, too, will appreciate the high quality of its work and consequently enjoy healthier, more restful sleep and pay very little for all of this.

Already, many people who are previously acquainted with this firm's work and have waited anxiously for Perigo's to resume its annual Spring operation of its plant, have already taken advantage of its services and are having additional mattresses rebuilt. Its scores of satisfied customers testify as to the quality of the work and the great saving made possible by rejuvenating old and worn out mattresses in this economical and satisfactory work.

Van Rooy Capable Of Handling Print Capably, Speedily

Candidates Turn to Appleton Firm for Effective Printing

The late worm won't be missed . . . for the early bird, the saying goes, has the pick of the pack. The pick of the prospects, in other words, always goes to the early arrivals which is another reason why advertising printing must be out on time to bring best results. Fast service and consistently good results account for the selection of the Van Rooy Printing Company's printing service by scores of local firms.

You can't stump the Van Rooy Printing firm, customers say, because it is able to do practically any sort of job printing work. Its fine equipment is capable of turning out the finest quality printing promptly and neatly, guaranteeing dependability, doing the job right, exactly as you want it, and at a reasonable price always. Van Rooy's appreciate how important it is to its customers to fill their order promptly and for this reason make every effort to keep all promises in this respect.

Political candidates and businessmen alike recognize the difference that good printing makes in their particular line of endeavor. They realize that clean, sharp, well-planned printing can add a great deal of dignity and forcefulness to their sales campaign.

A political candidate, after all, is interested in selling himself and his printed card and circular forms are two very important methods of promoting this campaign. That is why many political candidates at this time are again turning to the Van Rooy Printing Company, 127 N. Appleton street in the Hotel Appleton building, for work of this type. They have found that not only does Van Rooy do precisely the type of printing they want but its prices are so reasonable as to help keep campaign costs at a sensible low figure.

These same factors apply to both business and personal cards. Any salesman who uses his card as his introduction to a prospect can tell you how important it is that these cards do justice to the man who presents them and to the firm he represents.

Make Van Rooy's your headquarters for your printing needs. A telephone call to J. M. Van Rooy at 1054 will bring you infromation and estimates of your work without obligation

Consult Twin City Monument Firm For Memorials

All Phases of Memorial Work Handled by Firm in Neenah

If you are interested in securing a memorial of the very finest type —a memorial beautiful in appearance, outstanding in quality, guaranteed to endure — at a price eminently fair and reasonable, to be completed and erected before Memorial Day, you will find the Twin City Monument Works, 301-307 Main street, Neenah, ready to serve you. It is necessary, of course, to make your decision soon, to make certain the completion of your memorial before this eventful day.

This Twin City firm reminds you that there is no more logical time in securing a memorial than during the spring season before Memorial Day. Through prompt action it is possible to secure a memorial which will exactly fill your needs and which can be erected in the cemetery on time.

You will find, through personal investigation of this firm's services, that it is able to handle with unusual satisfaction any type of memorial assignment or any work of related nature. It produces memorials of any type, size, or proportions and from any desired material. Special memorial factors such as bronze or metal are available. Every phase of monument work from designing to installation is included in its service. Special departments are also maintained for such tasks as the cleaning of old monuments and carving of tributes on memorial already erected.

Most people, it is true, have some knowledge of the qualities of monumental stone. But most people to know that there is a difference of work, appearance, in coloring, and in durability.

If you are anxious to secure a selection from a wide range from the finest materials in the world, you will find this firm able to serve you. If you wish to secure a memorial which is not ordinary but that bears the unmistakable stamp of excellence and refinement, then the products of this firm's modern methods and expert craftmanship will definitely appeal to you.

If you are looking for an economical memorial that will give you the greatest return for your investment, whatever the amount may be, then the Twin City Monument Works is your logical choice. Inquiries are invited and no call will obligate you. Its offices may be reached by 'phoning Neenah, 930-W.

$74,838 Increase In Net Income of Appleton Utility

Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. Files Report With State Commission

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—Net income of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company, which serves a considerable part of the northeastern Wisconsin area, increased $74,838 during 1937 over 1936, while gross operating revenues of the company during 1937 rose $233,239 over the previous year, the company disclosed in its annual report filed with the public service commission this week.

Gross operating revenues of the utility for the year ending December 31, 1937 were reported as $3,411,429. Of this $2,998,041 was accounted for by electric service, $298,240 by gas, and $115,147 by auto transportation.

Wisconsin operations of the company represented $2,546,053 of the gross revenues, while the balance came from Michigan operations.

The 1936 gross income of the corporation was $3,178,190, its officers reported to the commission.

Net income for the last year was $762,056, of which $746,558 was listed under dividend appropriations, and $15,498 was transferred to surplus.

The 1936 net income of the utility was $687,218.

The statement on file with the commission listed S. B. Way of Milwaukee as president, and W. E. Schubert of Appleton as general manager. According to the company's statement, the utility is owned and controlled by the North American Edison company, which owns a controlling interest in the common capital stock.

Directors, whose terms will enpire March 17 are Way, Ralph E. Moody of Racine, F. J. Boehm, J. D. Shaw, G. W. Van Derzee and A. J. Whitcomb, all of Milwaukee, and J. D. Mortimer of Belfast, Maine.

The company has 23,940 electric customers, including residents of Brown, Calumet, Florence, Forest, Marinette, Oconto, Outagamie, Shawano, Vilas, Waupaca, Waushara and Winnebago counties in Wisconsin. Largest single group of customers is in Appleton, which accounts for 8,133.

The company maintains power generating plants at Weyauwega and at Appleton, and at nine points in upper Michigan. It supplies power to the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company, the Wisconsin Power and Light company, the Wisconsin Public Service corporation, and several smaller utilities in Wisconsin, the city of Kaukauna, New London, Shawano, Norway, Crystal Falls and the village of Florence.

Madison May Get U. S. Laboratory

Agriculture Department Studies Wisconsin as Probable Location

Washington — Madison's chances of being chosen as the locale of one of the four agricultural research laboratories authorized in the new agriculture bill will depend upon the results of analyses to be made by the department of agriculture in careful studies of the four major producing areas, according to a letter from Secretary of Agriculture H. A. Wallace received by Congressman Harry Sauthoff.

"Since one and only one laboratory is to be established in each major producing area and the entire United States is to be considered in four major producing areas," Secretary Wallace said in his letter, "we feel that the first responsibility of the department is a careful study and appraisal of the many farm commodities and their products and byproducts which should be considered in accordance with the authorization."

That each laboratory can be located where there is greatest opportunity to serve each of the major producing areas, is the hope of the department, Secretary Wallace said.

Great interest in the research laboratories has resulted in many inquiries as to the location, Wallace added, and a number of states and some localities have already submitted statements presenting their analysis as to the problems of such a laboratory and the advantages of their particular state or locality as a location.

Schedule Clinic April 2 For Crippled Children

An orthopedic field clinic will be held April 2 in Appleton by the crippled children division of the state department of public instruction.

The clinic, sponsored by the Outagamie County Medical society and the state department, will serve children from Outagamie county. Children from surrounding counties whose physicians wish to have them attend the clinic will be permitted.

Miss Lois Mitchell, field worker from the state department, will be in Appleton and vicinity later this month to make arrangements for holding the clinic.

Outline Policies Between College And Fraternities

Lawrence One of Schools To Adopt Set of Principles

Lawrence college is one of the 190 colleges and universities throughout the country included in the Magna Carta of college and fraternity relations recently adopted by a joint committee from the Association of American Colleges and the National Interfraternity conference, according to an announcement made today by Dean John S. Millis.

Policies of the plan, which Dean Millis, said, Lawrence college has followed for several years, will take effect immediately.

President Thomas N. Barrows of Lawrence college, George Banta, Jr., Menasha, a trustee, and Dr. Henry M. Wriston, former Lawrence head who is now president of Brown university, are members of the committee.

The first section of the document as drawn up by the committee concerns the obligation of the college to the group and its members. "Student group life is an essential feature of the education process; it should be recognized as such, and as large a degree of responsible control as possible should be delegated to it."

Stating that self-government is a primary objective of college training, the document goes on to say: "The work of the college will be strengthened by utilizing the fraternity to this end. . . . The college may delegate responsibility to the fraternity, but is thereby not absolved from its own responsibility. . . . The college should insist upon the financial integrity of all student undertakings."

On the matter of the obligation of the group to the college, the new Magna Carta of relations points out that the fraternity is "responsible to the college" and should maintain proper social standards, wholesome conditions of living, and that it should "either control its members or return them to the control of the college."

The fraternity has no immediate responsibility for scholarship, but should "maintain conditions that promote the individual's best development in every way," the document states.

"The individual's right of self-expression is limited by his obligations to the group and to the college. Compulsion is a poor substitute for cooperation."

Of relations between alumni and college, it is stated: "Alumni membership is an opportunity to serve youth, and give the alumnus no other privilege or right. The undergraduates are responsible to the college for the chapter; alumni must always respect this responsibility."

400 Dog Owners Buy Tags Up to March 1

More than 400 dogs owners in Appleton paid for their dog tags up to March 1 when the collection was turned over to the police department, according to Joseph A. Kox, city treasurer. Revenue from licenses collected during January was turned over to the county treasurer. The remainder of the money will go into the police pension fund.

Literary Magazine Will Be Published at College

The staff of the Lawrentian, Lawrence college weekly, is sponsoring the publication of a literary magazine which will contain best pieces of student prose and verse submitted. The deadline for copy has been set at March 15.

Three students, Jane Wood, Wauwatosa, Everett Bauman, Joliet, Ill., and Robert Mott, Neenah, will decide what manuscripts will be printed in the magazine.

The Dog Owner and His Dog

—BY ALLAN KERR—

Lovers of sporting dogs, who attended the Oshkosh meeting of the Northeastern Wisconsin Kennel club at the Hotel Athearn on Tuesday March 15, are due for a rare treat. At least that is our opinion after being advised of the nature of the program that will be presented by a very capable committee consisting of Dr. John E. Rogers, S. C. Taub and Stanford Whittaker of that city.

Those who have attended previous meetings may have noticed a rather quiet, unassuming gentleman who had little to say unless called upon, but who spoke with authority when the occasion demanded. His name is Hollis Wilson, and he is considered one of the best known handlers of show dogs in the middle west.

Mr. Wilson will bring a friend to the Oshkosh meeting; a very young friend, who has been introduced to only a chosen few, but who has won the heart of everyone who has laid eyes on him. He is a beautiful English setter, and through his veins course some of the finest blood in the whole world of sporting dogs. Although he has never been entered in a dog-show, there is a standing offer of $500 for him, by one of the country's leading dog judges, any time the owner wishes to let him go.

The setter is to be handled before the audience of dog folks just as he would be shown in the judging ring of a high class bench-show. That he will be well handled, we have no doubt, for Wilson has been handling setters since the day he reached a chubby hand out of his crib and stroked the well groomed coat of one of his father's fine bird-dogs. You'll have to ask Hollis how long ago that was. We do know that the Wilsons have been dog people for a great many years.

Handling Champions

Some idea of the type of work that Wilson is doing may be gained from the fact that he is now handling the great Irish setter, Champion Rosecraft Dawn, owned by Ken Parker of the well known Parker pen Parkers at Janesville. His own fine dogs must remain idle in the meantime, for he will not let them compete with dogs he is handling for someone else. It may be some time before this new young setter gets an opportunity to make a circuit and show its stuff.

The club program committee promises to have a prominent licensed dog judge on hand to score the Wilson setter, so that the dog group may see at close range just how this difficult job is expertly accomplished. The name of the judge will be announced when final arrangements have been completed.

English setters are familiar to nearly everyone who is even slightly interested in dogs. They have been romanced in poem, picture and story, and there are few who have not seen illustrations of the beautiful, statue-like creatures poised with one up-raised forefoot, head out-thrust, body tense, and feathered tail rigid. Those who have not witnessed this sight under actual field conditions have missed one of the greatest thrills in dogdom.

White seems to predominate in the medium length coat of the English setter, although other colors are allowable, including blue, black, liver, tan, orange, lemon in various combinations. Solid black is out, but solid white is O. K. About 22 to 25 inches is the right height, and 50 to 75 pounds is the weight allowed by the standard for these great sporting dogs.

If you don't care to become a dog owner, be careful never to gaze into the big, brown, soulful eyes of an English setter; else you may find yourself the junior member of a happy partnership.

February Circulation At Library Shows Gain

Circulation at the Appleton Public library during February showed a gain of 9,387 books over the corresponding period in 1937, according to the monthly report of Mrs. Nancy B. Thomas, librarian.

A total of 34,655 volumes were circulated last month compared to 25,268 books in February, 1937. Of the total there were 11,088 circulated in the adult section, 4,704 in the children's department and 18,861 circulated to the public, parochial and county schools.

Adult borrowers added during the month numbered 343 while 89 juvenile borrowers were added making a total registration of 13,362 at the end of the month. Volumes added during the month numbered 148 in the adult section and 109 in the children's department. Withdrawn from circulation were 57 books making a total collection of 38,643 on the library shelves.

Goerl Selects Captains For Boy Scout Campaign

Peter Goerl, a major in the Appleton district boy scout drive which will be held this month, has announced the names of five captains who will work under him. Each captain will select a team of five men.

Goerl's captains are Ralph McGowan, George E. Johnson, Fred Bendt, Phil Jacobson, and William L. Crow.

Regional Scout Head to Talk at Valley Meeting

C. J. Carlson, Chicago, Will Be Speaker at Banquet March 31

C. J. Carlson, Chicago, regional scout executive of Region 7 including Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin, will be principal speaker at the annual valley council meeting Thursday night, March 31, in the new Menasha High school gymnasium.

An Eagle scout himself, Carlson entered the professional service of the Boy Scouts of America in 1920 when he became scout executive at Riverside, Calif. He then served on the staff of Region 12, comprising Arizona, California, Nevada, Utah, and Hawaii, for a year before becoming scout executive at Long Beach, Calif. He was named executive of Region 12 in 1927 and served in that capacity nearly 11 years before being appointed head of Region 7.

The region which Carlson supervises is the largest of the nation's 12, both in number of local councils and scouts. In 1936, it had an enrolment of 110,437 scouts, 14,271 cubs, and 32,893 scouters.

A veteran woodsman, Carlson has conducted scout camps which have earned Grade A certificates. He planned the building and development of the Long Beach, Calif., scout camp.

Born in Sweden April 20, 1879, he came to New England with his parents when he was an infant. He was educated in the public schools of Brockton, Mass., and went to work when a young boy, continuing his education in night school. For 10 years he was in the shoe business, working his way to an executive post. Later he was in the grocery business and in California became a newspaper man. During the war he served as chief of police of a California city.

An active church man, Carlson is a Rotarian. He has served as a member of various community chest boards and helped organize and headed the council of social agencies at Long Beach.

200 Business Men Will Hear Stock Exchange Expert

Westerfield Will Talk at Third Forum Meeting Monday Noon

With nearly 160 reservations already made, a crowd of at least 200 of the city's business men is expected to hear Jason Westerfield, special representative of the New York stock exchange, at the chamber of commerce forum meeting Monday noon in the Conway hotel.

Members of the chamber, Rotary, Kiwanis, Exchange, and Lions clubs will attend the meeting, third one to be arranged this winter by the forum committee headed by Dr. Carl Neidhold.

A graduate engineer, Westerfield has had 20 years experience on the exchange. The title of his talk will be "The Stock Exchange from Within" Before he entered his present work, he was affiliated with the automotive and aviation industries.

Long experience in both industry and finance qualify him to speak intelligently on the relationship between the two and to demonstrate the interdependence which exists between production and distribution of goods and the functioning of the machinery of finance.

President Clarence Dykstra of the University of Wisconsin and President Thomas N. Barrows of Lawrence college were speakers at the two previous meetings.

Cub Packs Will Hold Annual Rally April 2

Cub packs from Appleton, Neenah-Menasha, Shawana, and Clintonville will participate in the mid-winter cub rally which will be held in Alexander gymnasium Saturday night, April 2.

Members of cub packs are boys from nine to 12 years of age. Cub leaders from the various cities in which packs have been organized are as follows: Shawano, Otis Thomas; Clintonville, Joseph Hough; Menasha, Louis Hafermeister, Ralph Thompson, and David Lenz; Appleton, Robert Errington.

THE REPUBLICAN TARIFF

If the Republican leaders are truly looking for the light, as Glenn Frank and Colonel Knox so strongly maintain, and particularly in relation to that party's ancient rule concerning high protective tariff's they should read with particular care the address of Henry F. Grady, of San Francisco, vice-chairman of the Tariff Commission, delivered before the National Republican Club in New York. Said Mr. Grady:

"In 1929 prices and wages were higher in the United States than in most foreign countries. Yet our exports of finished manufactures amounted to two and one-half billions. How, may I ask, can the ability to sell the world's market, where we must meet competition of the same countries that sell in our market, be explained if our costs, due to high wages, are higher than in other countries? The answer is elementary—our wages are higher, but our wage costs are not. Every industrialist knows the difference between these two things.

"We have developed high efficiency in production, largely because of our mass-production technique. Our automobile industry, for example, pays wages far higher than wages paid in automobile industries in any other country, and yet this industry could sell possibly twice as much as it is now selling if other countries were not drastically restricting the sale of American cars on the ground that their producers cannot compete with low-cost American factories! What is true of the automobile industry is true of a number of other industries, such as rubber tires, refrigerators, radios, office equipment, machine tools, etc.

"It is not correct to assume that the more protection an industry has the higher wages it will pay. It is industrial efficiency that makes possible high wages and our export industries are naturally our most efficient and, on the whole, least protected groups. A recent analysis of average wages in 12 export industries showed that they were much higher than the average in 12 selected 'protected' industries. The average wage per wage-earner in the 12 export industries was $1603 in 1929 and $1364 in 1935. In the 12 'protected' industries the average wage was only $1025 in 1929 and $827 in 1935."

No more ringing speeches about the protection of the American working man will do. Tariffs, their size, and their effect upon our country's prosperity are all matters for a cost accountant. Our attitude must ultimately depend upon the facts in each industry, the nature of its competition abroad and its ability to meet or overcome that competition.

And that is precisely why the Roosevelt method of dealing through treaties, made as carefully as a great industry orders its moves, is the sound method, even though in some instances treaties may have been mistakenly made.

For the Republican party to butt its head against one of the truly great accomplishments of the Roosevelt administration would be worse than unfortunate. It would be an invitation to political defeat, and, what is even worse, further confusion in an already highly complicated situation.

BUILD AMERICA

The "Build America" slogan is a good one. It tells tersely what this country needs most, for business revival and decent living. And it is beginning to take hold in city after city, as patriotic and enterprising building men and realtors plan spring construction programs.

Some of them are large-scale housing plans, and some are small, but they all look to more modern construction and pleasanter living than our people have been accustomed to. Here will be an impressive demonstration of progress, and a rapid renewal of prosperity, if the movement can be got under way rapidly, on a broad enough scale, with enough working capital.

Two things, however, seem essential. You hear of them in every serious discussion, public or private, of the principles of building revival. Public men say it, business men say it, economists say it. Building material prices and the wage scales of building trades must come down. These two cost revisions together, in proper harmony, could and would start a building boom.

Economists agree that neither of the two groups concerned should lose by such procedure. The building materials people would have so much better market at lower prices, and the workmen so much more work at lower hourly wages, that both would make more money per year. And the push they gave to business would benefit everybody.

DECALOG OF TOLERANCE

If there is one thing this uneasy world needs today more than another, it is tolerance for people unlike ourselves. That would make the world livable. And if to such a passive quality we can add the positive virtue of good will, we have a start toward the Golden Age.

A fine contribution along this line is made by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, which proposes these ten resolutions:

1. I will honor all men and women regardless of their race or religion.
2. I will protect and defend my neighbor and my neighbor's children against the ravages of racial or religious bigotry.
3. I will exemplify in my own life the spirit of good will and understanding.
4. I will challenge the philosophy of racial superiority by whomsoever that philosophy may be proclaimed, be these persons kings, emperors, dictators, or demagogues.
5. I will refuse to join or be identified with any organization that has for its purpose the spreading of anti-Semitism, anti-Catholicism or anti-Protestantism.
6. I will do more than live and let live; I will live and help live.
7. I will protest against every manifestation of racial or religious prejudice.
8. I will, until my dying day, establish comradeship with all those who seek to exalt the spirit of love and reconciliation throughout the world.
9. I will not be misled by the lying propaganda of those who seek to set race against race or nation against nation.
10. I will be all things to all men; to the Jew I will be a Jew; to the Christian, a Christian; nor will I be divorced from this purpose by threats of personal violence or social ostracism; so help me God.

CHILDREN'S BIRTHRIGHT

There is one good way to combat any alien propaganda attempted in this country. That is to give our children their American birthright—"care, consideration, education and a hopeful outlook for maturity."

"Today's children are tomorrow's citizens," says a speaker at an American Legion dinner. It is more important to rescue them from extreme poverty and lack of opportunity than to suppress the teachings of Nazi or Fascist or Communist leaders.

The verbal attempts to destroy American institutions can do no harm so long as these institutions are supported loyally. That means we must manage somehow to guarantee our youth freedom, education, and a self-respecting job.

If our growing boys and girls have these things they will continue living in the American way, making changes in the social and governmental systems slowly and thoughtfully and in harmony with the principles of democracy.

"AWFUL" AMERICA

The dean of Pennsylvania State College finds "90 per cent of city, town and countryside" in the United States "awful to look at."

There are farm slums as well as city slums. There are unsightly and unlivable shacks in mill towns and mining districts.

"There is little difference between various parts of the country," he says, adding that each "has a few show spots in the form of fine residential districts."

Slum clearance is just getting started in this country. The "Build America" movement, wider in scope, is now taking hold. Annual spring "clean-up week" for many communities is just around the corner on our calendars. These are all intended to make ugly places less ugly, to beautify neglected areas, to create pleasant and healthful dwellings in attractive surroundings. Mostly they represent unrelated and temporary activity.

Perhaps some coordination of these sporadic drives can be worked out to make them more effective and continuous. The estimate of 90 per cent "awfulness" is surely too high, but there is more of it than a country of the wealth and ability of the United States should tolerate.

Opinions Of Others

WHITEWASH—AS EXPECTED

After a study of the souvenir book deal which enabled the Democratic national committee to blackjack businessmen into paying some of the party debt, Attorney General Cummings has discovered that criminal prosecution "would not be warranted." He bases this decision on the fact that the book was sold after the election and not before it and as such the transactions did not violate the corrupt practices act. That his conscience is a bit troubled, however, is indicated by his recommendation that the law be amended to make a repetition of the incident impossible.

New Dealers, including even those who go about the country inveighing against the morals of industrialists and the "60 families," will probably accept this as a complete exoneration of their party leaders. For ordinary Americans, however, the only thing settled by the attorney general's opinion is that a way has been found to turn black into white. Still in question are the ethics of charging $250 for a book which, despite the president's autograph, was nearly worthless, of inducing corporations to buy hundreds of copies and of permitting solicitors to tell company officials that large-scale purchase would gain for them the administration's favor.

At the very best, the attorney general's award of a clean bill of health to the Democratic national committee is based on a technicality. Obviously there was a violation of the spirit of the law which prohibits contributions by corporations in connection with any election to any public office. The corporations themselves knew perfectly well why they were being asked to buy the souvenir books and why they bought them. Several of them, through their representatives, testified that they regarded the purchase as an investment in immunity.

From beginning to end, it was a tricky business. No amount of word juggling by the attorney general can wash out the facts that a political party, aided and abetted by the administration, engaged in a practice which no industrial concern could follow without feeling the full force of the Roosevelt-Jackson-Ickes calumny.—Boston Transcript.

It is estimated that a million miles of territory in South America still await the eye of the explorer.

JUST as we might have suspected—this business of kidding California about the heavy dew was bound to have its kick-back . . . yup, the weatherman heard about it and turned on the snow just to prove we haven't any monopoly on moderate weather . . . reminding me that I haven't seen a Florida paper, but I can just imagine what treatment the California flood has been getting down THERE! . . . there probably isn't much else to be found in the peninsula papers . . . opponents of the move to Hollywood on the part of the radio programs probably got a great deal of satisfaction out of the NBC antics Thursday night — which is a big Hollywood night on NBC . . . the rebroadcast from the San Francisco pickup (wires were down in Los Angeles) had its sour moments . . . but I can recall hearing programs from Hollywood sputter out every so often under normal conditions when "circumstances beyond our control" interferred . . .

It seems to be a sure thing that Mr. Roosevelt will get his new battleships at our expense. Now, if Mr. Martin produces a plane such as he has mentioned, and it proves capable of blasting a battleship out of the water, Mr. Roosevelt would be somewhat embarrassed. It makes a great theory, and might hold up except that he undoubtedly won't be on the job when the new battleships are all completed, anyway.

In any event, the army seems to be getting the short end of this deal and I presume that the army resents it.

I understand that teaching the alphabet as I learned it is now passe' in public schools and that the new method involves associating words with the proper animal, vegetable or mineral. The new system no doubt has much to recommend it as the proper method of improving on reading habits, but it must be tough for the modern youngster to figure out a filing system where things are done alphabetically. (The educators will please not take me too seriously.)

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

EVENING AT HOME

I wish that I could capture this bright hour
Of home's stability and lamplit peace.
From the piano comes a golden shower
Of melody . . . My problems find release
Beneath the spell of music . . . At the door
The collie scratches . . . In the dining-room
Our small boy toils as he has toiled before
Over his lessons . . . In the gathering gloom
Of night this scene is etched in countless houses . . .
Somewhere, no doubt, a gayer crowd carouses,
But never with the riches and content
We find—bound by home's priceless sacrament.

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO

Saturday, March 3, 1928

Senator Walsh of Montana had announced he would be a candidate for Democratic nominee for the presidency. Secretary Hoover asked that his name be withdrawn from the Wisconsin primary as a Republican candidate.

The Milwaukee Association of Commerce was taking action to help Appleton secure an air-mail route through the Fox river valley.

Mrs. E. L. Bolton was elected president of the P. E. O. Sisterhood at a meeting at the home of Mrs. H. C. Humphrey.

Appleton high school basketball team lost to Manitowoc the previous evening, 29 to 17. Appleton was in fourth place in the Valley conference.

Leap-year children were born on Feb. 29 to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Fish, Appleton, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Nytes of Kaukauna, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pasch, Appleton.

The G. and Q. Electric Co. has rented offices in the Bijou building and is ready to begin business here. The company recently was organized.

County highways were closed Friday night by a heavy wind, and plows were attempting to open them for traffic.

25 YEARS AGO

Saturday, March 8, 1913

Progress was being made in negotiations between the Knights of Pythias and the committee formed to organize a Y. M. C. A. relative to acquisition of the Pythian's option on the Pardee property. The Pythians had planned to remodel the Pardee house into a clubroom but apparently were willing to give up this plan to make room for a Y. M. C. A.

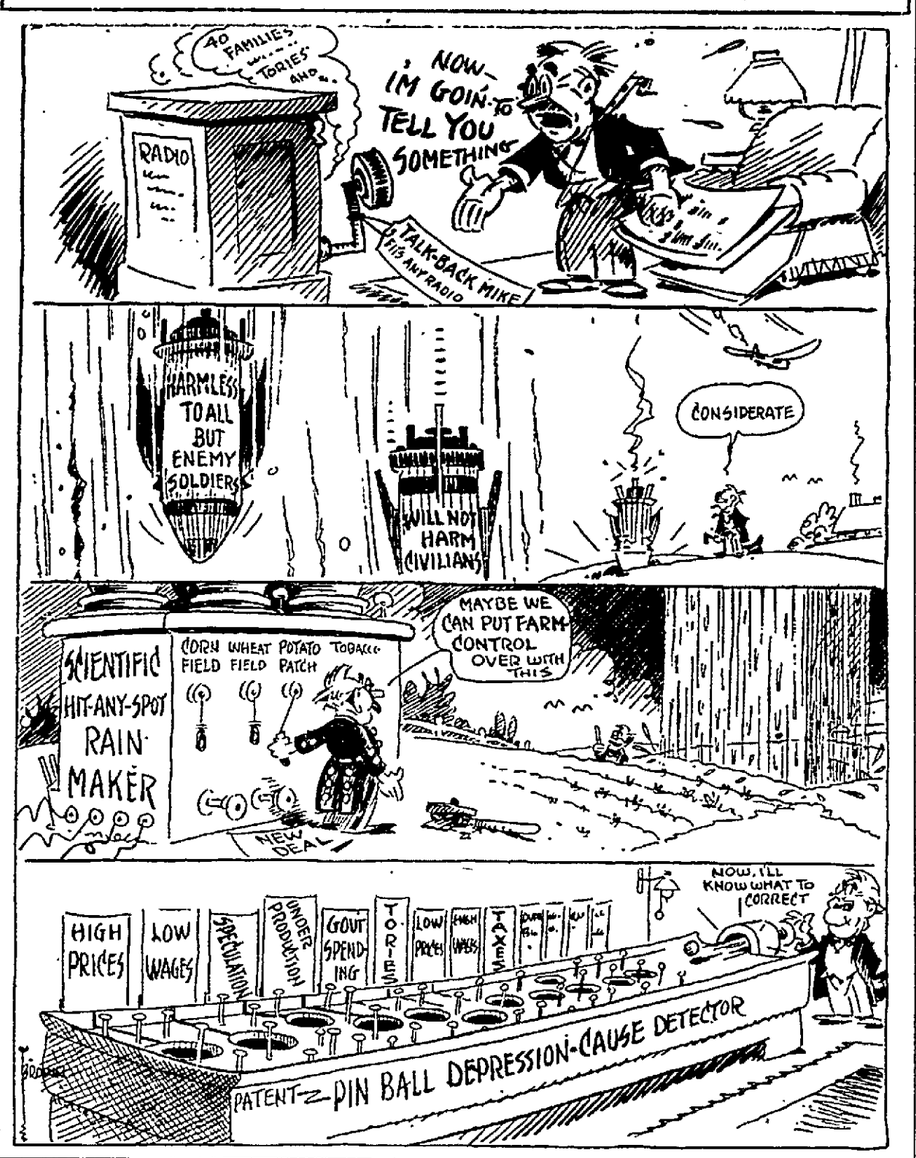
Mrs. M. A. Wertheimer gave a lenten reading this afternoon at a meeting of St. Agnes guild at the home of Mrs. Bertin Ramsay.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Killen left for West Baden where they expected to meet their daughter, Margaret, who was enroute home from Smith college.

Announcement was made that John McCormack, noted Irish tenor, would sing in the Armory about the middle of March.

Harry Sylvester, who was with the Chicago White Sox on their training trip to California, was hitting the ball hard in practice games. He had made seven hits in two games playing with No. 2 team against the regulars.

SCIENCE STILL HAS A LONG WAY TO GO



Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

BANDAGE FOR KNEE

A great many people walk gingerly because of derangement of the knee. Some past sprains or injury of the knee is the cause. A cartilage is partly torn from its fastenings and is left loose so that it may slip out of place and be pinched by some slight movement of the joint. In some instances there is no clear history of injury, but only of inflammation — synovitis or arthritis—long ago, or perhaps such trouble of long standing, which has caused enlargement, thickening or hypertrophy of synovial fringes in the joint (edges of the lining membrane which is a closed sac containing a few drops of synovial fluid or serum that serves as a natural lubricant), and these thickened synovial fringes move about and occasionally become pinched.

When the knees locks, in some instances it is possible for the patient himself (or less often herself) to get it unlocked by prompt manipulation with the aid of the hands, or better with the aid of another person pulling on the leg. In other instances it becomes necessary to anesthetize the patient — ideally with nitrous oxide (laughing gas) or with ether and reduce the partly dislocated joint or the dislocated cartilage or loose body by manipulation when the spasm of muscles is relaxed. In such a case the reduction occurs with a slight snap which may be felt by the operator or perhaps heard by those close by.

In all cases of derangement of the knees the problem is (1) to prevent recurrence of the dislocation by wearing some form of support, splint, bandage or brace which guards against other than essential hinge action in the joint, and (2) to decide whether or when to resort to surgical treatment, that is, opening the joint and anchoring or removing the loose body.

Most supports or devices for the first purpose are only moderately effective. The knee is a large, strong joint and nothing less than a strong and cumbersome brace or splint can limit its action to any extent. As for the question of surgical treatment, that rests with the intelligence and character of the patient. Some people prefer to drift along into permanent semi-invalidism or half-crippled state rather than to undergo a clean operation which, today, is practically certain to bring complete and permanent cure.

With knee flexed 15 degrees apply a layer of 3-inch knitted elastic (not rubber) bandage from 4½ inches below to 4½ inches above the knee cap, with moderate traction. Then place two pieces of sponge rubber ¼ inch thick, 8 inches long, 2½ inches wide on either side of knee cap, with small crescent cut out of each piece of rubber to fit the sides of the knee cap, and fix these elastic splints in place by bandaging them in with the rest of the bandage.

QUSTIONS AND ANSWERS

Nocturnal Leg Cramps

Please tell me what remedy you recommended or the relief of painful cramps in the legs at night. (Mrs. A. W.)

Answer—Calcium lactate, ten grains after food, three times a day, or thirty grains after food once a day, for a period of eight or ten weeks, together with a daily ration of vitamin D to promote utilization of calcium (from food or medicine). For further instructions, and stamped envelope bearing your address. Excessive use of soda (saleratus, sodium bicarbonate) for stomach acidity, etc., is a cause of adult tetany in some cases—which manifests itself in such painful nocturnal cramps in legs and perhaps cramps in the wrists too.

Wild Eye Lashes

Please state the cause and cure of wild eyelashes. (Mrs. L.)

Answer—One or more eyelashes turned in so that the lash rubs on the cornea and causes irritation. Usually result of scar of old lid injury, burn or inflammation, sometimes of trachoma. Repeated epilation or pulling out with suitable tweezers (the lashes grow again) sometimes corrects trouble. In persistent cases electrolysis to destroy the lashes is necesary.

Your Birthday

"PISCES"

If March 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m., until noon; from 2 to 4 p. m., and from 8 to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a. m.; from 4 to 6 p. m., and from 10 p. m., until midnight.

Inattention will be extremely offensive this day, and bring about many a warranted rebuke. Many a person will try to conceal sarcasm with sugar-coated witticism. Tardiness in keeping appointments, is apt to start many of this day's quarrels. You may be agreeably surprised by a bit of strange news this day. There may be rumors, which, if repeated without being verified, are liable to involve persons in a world of trouble. Modesty is a virtue that can make one greatly admired, or appear ridiculous through the false assumption of it this day. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who have matrimonial hopes and ambitions, must refrain from trying to force their individual opinion upon others this day, if they wish to keep from stirring up a hornet's nest.

If a woman and March 6 is your birthday, you may be too much hesitant in expressing yourself freely when you should. You might make the mistake of confiding too much in strangers. Your fondness for social activities must not be permitted to take too much of your time, for many Pisces people have their home life disrupted by their urge to be constantly on the go. You probably love to tease relatives and friends, but when they try it on you the chances are that you do not take it graciously. Through work of an educational, literary, missionary, artistic, musical or theatrical nature your financial returns ought to be large, and well deserved reputation is likely to give you a sense of great satisfaction. Your matrimonial prospects seem to be fine.

The child born on March 6, frequently requires tactful handling and plenty of encouragement if good results from home and school work are expected of it.

If a man and March 6 is your birthday, you possibly express your feelings too vigorously, so if you wish to advance your interest, be considerate of the fellows who are less fortunate than yourself. Through some agricultural, mining, theatrical, manufacturing or literary pursuit you may make money and an unqualified success.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York — Doing a figure "8" with Sonja Henie, the Norwegian Swan:

Box-office. . . . She'll make $800,000 this year. . . . She is the greatest box-office "draw" in the history of sport . . . This has been indisputably proved by 35 personal appearances during which not one single seat remained unsold. . . . Her film contract calls for $200,000, and Broadway show men agree that this is "dirt cheap.". . . . But it was signed before she became a star.

Petty cash. . . . Soon the stores will have "Sonja Henie" dolls, like the Mickey Mouse and Shirley Temple dolls. . . . The Swan got $47,000 for this trick, and a lot more for indorsing other items of manufacture. . . . But it all goes into the petty cash box, with the coffee and cake money. . . . Sonja no longer is interested in coin.

Personal. . . . She owns only two pairs of skates, both of a Bavarian pattern. . . . At the last Olympic games many skate makers urged her to use their wares, but she refused. . . . She likes only the ones you saw in New York, or in Miami, or wherever it was you saw her. . . . Meanwhile, Hollywood watches this tour with an anxious eye. . . . It fears the rage created by Sonja in the flesh will hone the edge off her film appeal. . . . It offered her a flat $200,000 if she would agree to abandon the tour. . . . Sonja refused.

Chaperone. . . Everywhere she goes her mother goes with her. . . . Sonja's mother is a strikingly beautiful woman. . . . But she is weary of chasing around. . . . "I'm tired of this circus life," she said in New York the other day, "let's go back to Norway."

Marquee lights. . . . But Miss Henie is in no hurry to go home or to Hollywood. . . . They work you too hard out there. . . . Recently she passed a Broadway theater where her newest picture was in its fourth week. . . . "Does it thrill you to see your name up in lights?". . . . "Not very much," she replied, "In Germany your name covers the side of a house. . . . It's the only thing I know that Europeans do better than Americans."

Sphinx. . . . Hugo Quist is the Finnish Sphinx of American Promotion, and he is Miss Sonja's mentor. . . . He it was who took The Swan to Hollywood and compelled film executives to recognize her as a potential gold mine. . . . Mr. Quist is one of those blond, pinch-cheeked Scandinavians who doesn't use two words a day . . . There is a story, which I won't swear by, but it illustrates the point admirably.. . . . It seems The Sphinx and a companion were en route to the coast, and as the train left Chicago the friend said, "Look at that cow." . . . Two days later as they rolled into Los Angeles Hugo inquired, "What cow?" . . . . Then he berated his pal for being overtalkative.

Note: Two years ago Miss Henie told reporters: "My ambition is to do with ice-skating what Fred Astaire has done with tap-dancing."

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—We went over to the internal revenue office to see if income tax collectors have any heart, and it seems they have — at least by their own testimony.

Most surprising thing we discovered, though, was that Washingtonians are habitually late in paying their income taxes. It would seem that people who live in Washington—right at the fountain head of things — should get their business with the government done on time, but they don't. Whole colonies of them sometimes are left standing in line at midnight March 15, when penalties start.

The bureau occupies a whooping building just off famous Pennsylvania Avenue. It is a part of the treasury, but its building is larger than the treasury building — and newer.

Tax Collector's Plaint

Congress has blown first hot and then cold on publicity about anything in connection with the income taxes, so most officials, as a matter of policy, play safe.

They refuse to let anything get out of hand unless it is approved by Mr. Gaston, who is assistant to Secretary Morgenthau. We were turned loose in some department files only on condition that if any question arose as to whether such and such an item might be used it would be settled by Mr. Gaston. He approved everything we had.

First, we found a plantive note from an internal revenue agent urging the public to believe that the agents are human, have children of their own, go on Sunday picnics—and fret about their reputations for hard dealings with taxpayers.

Taxpayers go right on making the same mistakes year after year, we learned also. So does the bureau. Each year about 150,000 of the 2,000,000 or more taxpayers send too much to the government. Where overpayments are found, refunds are made. The bureau, in turn, is forever asking some maiden lady to account for her husband.

Old Story

The oldest and most told story in the bureau is about a foreign-born taxpayer living in this country who figured that he had earned about $2,600 for the year and sent a check for the whole amount to the government. A tax agent returned the check — the fellow didn't owe anything.

"My son told me to pay it all," the puzzled alien-born explained. "That's how much good is an education."

LAW ON TOLERANCE

Editor Post-Crescent — The action of a neighbor-city hotel in registering a man on its own supposition that he was a Hindu, and then evicting him on finding him actually to be a Negro, has given new impetus to the discussion of racial discrimination in various and sundry groups throughout the city.

There seems to be amazing misinformation and lack of information on the part of interested people as to the legality of such action in our state. For the benefit of many who are questioning, I quote the law, Wisconsin Sec. 340.75:

"Any person who shall deny to any other person, in whole or in part, the full and equal enjoyment of the accomodations, advantages, facilities and privileges of inns, restaurants, saloons, barber shops, eating houses, public conveyances on land or water, or any other place of public accommodation or amusement, except for reasons applicable alike to all persons of every race or color, or who shall aid or incite such denial, or require any person to pay a larger sum than the regular rate charged other persons for such accomodations, advantages, facilities and privileges or any of them, or shall refuse to sell or furnish any type of automobile insurance or charge a higher rate for damages shall be fined not less than five dollars with costs, and shall also be punished for every such offense by fine of not more than one hundred dollars or be imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment; provided, that a judgement in favor of the party aggrieved or the imposition of a fine or imprisonment shall bar any other proceeding."

The statute was first enacted in 1895 and the item regarding automobile insurance was added in 1931.

Several cases have been tried under the law. In one case, that of Brian vs. Adler, 96, Wis. 124, the Supreme Court held that an employer is liable for the neglect of his employee to serve a customer in a public restaurant solely because the customer was colored, notwithstanding that the employee refused in direct violation of his employer's command. This is a matter of record.

May we have more understanding and tolerance!

Beery Stars in Story of Arizona

'Bad Man of Brimstone' Is Current Attraction at Appleton Theater

One of the year's most outstanding spectacles will be shown for four days, starting Saturday, March 5, at the Appleton Theatre when Wallace Beery storms to the screen in one of his most colorful roles, portraying "Trigger Bill" in "The Bad Man of Brimstone." It is a heroic drama of Old Arizona; a story of Civilization's march on the last frontier; a saga of fearless men and indomitable, lovely women.

"The Bad Man of Brimstone," while it is laid in pioneer times, is not to be confused with Western drama. Its locale is anywhere west of Kansas in the days when it was said, "There is no law west of Kansas." Stagecoach robberies, mining raids, corrupt politics, elections won at the point of a gun and all the rest of the lawlessness of the day are shown.

The picture brings to prominence Dennis O'Keefe, sparkling new cinematic find, in the role of an Eastern prizefighter, who swings into cleanup action on Beery's gang controlled town, spurred on by bewitching Virginia Bruce, daughter of Lewis Stone, Brimstone's Justice of the Peace.

A large assisting cast includes Joseph Calleia, Guy Kibbee, Bruce Cabot, Cliff Edwards, and hundreds of others.

Filmed on an epic scale against the background of the West's wide National forest country, "The Bad Man of Brimstone" and its hard riding, hard shooting crew of top-notch players offers comedy, romance, and gripping drama.

And that's not all! The companion feature on this program is "Here's Flash Casey." This second smash hit is the story of a daredevil candid cameraman, Eric Linden, who risks his life for Front Page Scoop. Boots Mallory heads the supporting cast.

BOOKED AT RIALTO

'The Buccaneer' Opens At Rialto Next Week

Fredric March plays the part of the swashbuckling pirate king, Jean Lafitte, the man whose devotion to the United States helped win the War of 1812, in "The Buccaneer," the Cecil B. DeMille epic production which opens at the Rialto Theatre, Kaukauna, for a 3-day run Tuesday.

Movie-goers who are accustomed to soul-stirring history on the broadest possible canvas and sweeping spectacles of soaring brilliance and splendor in DeMille productions will not be disappointed in this epic of America's struggle for survival during the trying days of the War of 1812. It takes its deserved place among the greatest historical dramas ever brought to the stage or screen.

Rio Now Showing 'Goldwyn Follies'

Bergen and Charlie McCarthy Head Cast of Technicolor Picture

All the greatest entertainers of the stage, the screen, the radio, the dance and grand opera put on the greatest show the screen has ever shown in Samuel Goldwyn's glorious technicolor screen musical, "The Goldwyn Follies," which is playing at the Rio theater thru Tuesday.

Offering a cast headed by Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, radio's No. 1 stars, Adolphe Menjou, The Ritz Brothers, Zorina, the beautiful young premiere ballerina of the Ballet Russe, who is a splendid actress as well as a great dancer; Kenny Baker, Helen Jepson, the lovely Metropolitan Opera star who makes a brilliant film debut; Andrea Leeds, Phil Baker Ella Logan, Bobby Clark, Jerome Cowan, The American Ballet of the Metropolitan Opera and the gorgeous Goldwyn Girls.

The last, and what sound like the greatest music of the late George Gershwin, finds a fitting setting in this glorious picture. The hit songs include "Love Walked In," "I Was Doing All Right," "I Love To Rhyme," "Love Is Here to Stay" and "Spring Again," the last-named written by Vernon Duke who completed Gershwin's unfinished score. The lyrics are by Ira Gershwin.

Two outstanding featurette attractions are being presented on the same program. The Dionne Quintuplets are featured in "Quintupland." Nearing their 4th birthday, they sing, dance, ski, and warm your heart with their mirthful frolics.

The latest release of "The March of Time" depicts the rapid recent rise of the paper and pulp industry in the South. This is of unusual interest to our own community because of its possible future effect on the leading industry of the Fox River Valley.

Color Film, 'Ebb Tide,' Is Coming to Appleton

The most successful color film that has yet reached the screen in the first Technicolor sea story, "Ebb Tide," will open at the Appleton Theatre, Saturday 12, for a 4-day run. There has been no setting so far which shows itself so perfectly adapted to Technicolor photography as the South Seas locale of this story by Robert Louis Stevenson and Lloyd Osbourne.

The cast of "Ebb Tide" is headed by Oscar Homolka, Frances Farmer, Ray Milland, Lloyd Nolan and Barry Fitzgerald.

"Ebb Tide" tells the story of four strangely assorted lives that are entangled on a little South Sea island as a result of a death outside the group; and are separated at last by violence and murder in a forsaken trading post run by a sadistic madman.

Homolka, a broken sea captain, Milland, an expatriate Englishman, and Fritzgerald, a conniving Cockney, all go aboard the schooner "Golden State" when her captain dies at sea. Frances Farmer is the daughter of the dead captain, who is aboard the ship when Homolka decides to steal the boat and cargo. Milland protests, but is overruled by his companions. The ship is almost lost in a storm before the quartet lands at a little island where Lloyd Nolan holds sway. Nolan attempts to keep Miss Farmer on the island, and kills Homolka and Fitzgerald when they attempt to rob him. Milland overpowers the maniac, and puts to sea again with Miss Farmer, planning to start a new life for the two of them.

The lush tropical vegetation, the bright blue of Pacific skies, and the watershading of the South Pacific all needed to be filmed in color, and in Ebb Tide" all their beauty is recorded to the best possible advantage.

As the associate feature on this big program is "Penrod and His Twin Brother". This brings to the screen both of the brilliant 13-year-old Mauch twins. This story is altogether different than that of "Penrod and Sam" but the boys with their "Junior G-Men" organization have quite as many and quite as thrilling adventures as before.

SINGING STARS IN 'THE FIREFLY'

Jeanette MacDonald has a new singing sweetheart in the person of Allan Jones in "The Firefly," M-G-M's filmization of the celebrated Otto Harbach-Rudolf Friml operetta which comes to the Elite screen for 3 days starting next Wednesday. Jones, last seen in "A Day at the Races," plays his most important screen role to date as the dashing Don Diego who pursues the elusive "Firefly" (Miss MacDonald) throughout a series of turbulant romantic adventures in the new musical hit.

Arsene Lupin Story Heads Midweek Bill

Maurice Le Blanc's famous characters of detective fiction, Arsene Lupin and Detective Guechard, are brought back to the screen in "Arsene Lupin Returns," which plays Wednesday and Thursday at the Rio Theater.

Melvyn Douglas, Virginia Bruce and Warren William head the top-notch cast in the new picture, with prominent supporting roles filled by John Halliday and Nat Pendleton.

The plot tells of the international pursuit of Arsene Lupin, the famed gentlemen crook, following the theft of a $250,000 emerald owned by Miss Bruce. A romantic narrative is woven into the thrilling and sometimes spine-chilling events of police work on two continents.

Arsene Lupin is the second character of mystery fiction to play a return engagement in a motion picture, following close upon the success of "After the Thin Man," the picture which continued the adventures of the popular "Thin Man" detective.

Columbia's little child star, Edith Fellows, proves the surprise of the year as a result of her singing role in "Little Miss Roughneck," which is the added feature on the same program.

Supporting little Miss Fellows is Leo Carrillo, who, with his usual inimitable performance, would steal the show were it not for the superb work of the child star. Other outstanding performances are contributed by Scott Colton and Jacqueline Wells, who portrays the romantic leads, and the always laughable Margaret Irving.

As the story opens Edith is a stage brat you love to hate. To further a chance acquaintance with Miss Wells, Colton, a movie agent, offers to take the entire family to Hollywood and put the youngster in films. Her adventures in Hollywood are nothing short of hilarious.

The river Jordan has never been navigable.

Newspaper Story Stars Pat O'Brien

'Back in Circulation' Will Be Shown at Elite Monday, Tuesday

Nobody plays a fast-talking, wise-cracking newspaper man like Pat O'Brien, it has been conceded ever since he did Hildy Johnson in the classic "Front Page."

But he has a feminine rival for these honors in "Back In Circulation," the Warner Bros. comedy-drama at the Elite Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, Bargain Days. And the rival is none other than Joan Blondell, who is co-starred with him.

"Back In Circulation," which was written by the eminent author, Adela Rogers St. Johns and directed by Ray Enfight, sees Pat as managing editor of a sensation newspaper which will halt at nothing to increase its circulation, and Joan as his star reporter.

The story has to do with the mysterious death of a millionaire, which Pat and Joan solve—as well as rescue from death or life imprisonment the man's widow, who has refused to save herself from conviction for murder. Miss Blondell is said to give one of her most realistic performances as a sob sister who stops at nothing to get her story.

A high-class cast supports the team of stars, including Margaret Lindsay, John Litel, Regis Toomey, Craig Reynolds, and George E. Stone.

'Alcatraz Island' Now On at Elite Theater

America's most widely publicized penitentiary, that "Big Rock" situated in the chill waters of San Francisco Bay, is brought to the motion picture screen for the first time in "Alcatraz Island," a thrilling melodrama presented at the Elite theater today and Sunday.

Grim but fascinating is this story of men who live outside the law, and of the men whose duty it is to apprehend and convict them. Every moment is loaded with thrills as this drama moves swiftly to an unexpected and exciting climax.

But "Alcatraz Island" is more than a story of crime vs. law and order. It also carries a splendid human story of love—both romantic and parental—and of exciting adventure on the mainland.

John Litel is featured as a racketeer who is, despite his business, rather likeable. Income tax evasion catches up with Litel just as it did with Al Capone and other real-life racketeers. Gordon Oliver, a government attorney, procures his conviction. He is sent first to Leavenworth. There, in a fight with a lesser gangster which is forced upon him he is pronounced incorrigible and transferred to Alcatraz.

An amazingly dramatic sequence of events, occuring behind the walls of Alcatraz while the trial is going on, bring out the truth concerning the murder, and real justice has its way.

ROBERT TAYLOR PICTURE COMING TO RIO

Robert Taylor is co-starred with Lionel Barrymore and Maureen O'Sullivan in "A Yank at Oxford," coming to the Rio theater for five days starting next Friday.

The added feature on the same program is "Paradise for Three," featuring Frank Morgan, Robert Young, Mary Astor, Edna May Oliver, Reginald Owen, Herman Bing, and Florence Rice.

'Big Town Girl' Will Be Shown at Kaukauna

When a girl with a past steps into the spotlight of fame anything can happen—and for Claire Trevor it happens all at once in "Big Town Girl," the exciting new Twentieth Century-Fox picture which opens next Friday at the Rialto Theatre Kaukauna.

Three men—Donald Woods, Alan Dinehart and Alan Baxter—provide the background for Claire's adventures. One wants to share her life, one wants to take her life and one wants to write the story of her life!

Balmy Late Winter Days Help Boost Bird Records

BY CLARA HUSSONG

Those of us who are keeping records of birds observed during the different seasons will find these balmy late winter days of great help in swelling the numbers on our lists. Both the regular winter birds and holdovers from the summer are more numerous this winter than they have been for a number of years. By the time the spring migration is under way we should have quite a sizeable list as a starter.

Clara Hussong

Recently I received a letter from a woman in Menasha who is a regular reader of this column in the Appleton Post-Crescent. In commenting on my review of the Christmas bird census published in "Bird-Lore," she writes:

"Reading the poll of different birds in different places I thought I would send a list of those seen from our windows. The Flicker has been seen all winter, the Downy and Hairy Woodpeckers, White-Breasted Nuthatch, Chickadee, Starling, Blue Jay, Cardinal and three pairs of Pine Grosbeaks.

Come Here in Winter

"This afternoon there was a flock of perhaps ten birds, feeding on our evergreen trees, (cedars), and I cannot find out what to call them. I could not trace them in my books. The male was very beautiful, a red spot on his head and a rosy breast over a background of light gray striped with black. The back was striped, black and gray. The birds, about the size of song sparrows, were friendly and not easily frightened."

These sociable little birds are Red-polls, members of the finch family and, like many in that group, breed in the far north and visit us in winter. The best place to look for them is at the edges of woods or in weedy thickets where they feed upon cones of cedars, tamaracks, birches, and alders as well as on weed seeds.

In "Birds of America," (Garden City Publishing Company), J. Ellis Burdick says of them: "The Red-poll is very unsuspicious and often allows a person to approach very closely without taking alarm. Should one stand still near where they are feeding they will come closer and closer, as they feed without a sign of fear."

Still further proof of the trusting nature of these rosy little "Linnets," as they are sometimes called, can be seen in the following incident related to me by a friend. During a late winter blizzard a flock of about 35 Redpolls were seen near her home in the country and members of her family began feeding them. They came back morning after morning for about a week, each morning becoming a little tamer. Before the week was over several in the flock had been induced to take food from their hands.

Starting to Sing

Horned Larks, Longspurs, Pine Siskins, the two Grosbeaks and Tree Sparrows are other winter visitors who will leave us when our summer birds arrive. If you've missed them so far this year hike out to a sheltered spot, such as a weed-grown ravine or brushy edge of wood. On warm, sunny days you may hear them chirping and trilling, often singing a shortened version of their regular spring songs, which are usually saved up until they reach their nesting sites.

Some of our common permanent residents are becoming more musical as the days grow warmer. Have you heard the Starling's repertoire of songs? Besides his usual wheezy whistles and grating call-notes he is favoring us with a variety of beautifully whistled songs. I watched a flock of them sunning themselves in the tops of tall trees yesterday.

Like the Red-winged Blackbird, they have a habit of assuming ungainly attitudes by stretching out their necks and hunching up their shoulders as they perch. All through the sunning and stretching they kept up a constant stream of song, often mimicking other birds. One of these songs was the clear, melodious whistle of the meadowlark and another the cat-call of the Catbird. Once I thought I heard a Robin but I discovered that a versatile Starling was the author of the sound. This was not the "Cheerio" song of the Robin but the reiterated clucking note which a Robin most often utters at twilight.

Still Need Food

During the last few days I have heard the two spring songs of the Chickadee, whistled notes unlike the familiar "Chickakee-dee" call. One of these songs consists of two notes: "Sweet Sue," the second note several notes lower in pitch and the entire phrase somewhat resembling a Phoebe's call. The second song, still more melodious, is a three-note phrase uttered in a descending scale. To me it sounds like "Phoebe-lee," sung in a sweet leisurely manner.

Even though the days are getting warmer, remember that the birds still have hard "pickings," so don't forget to feed them for a few more weeks.

PLAY LEADING ROLES IN 'STAND-IN'

Joan Blondell and Leslie Howard as they are seen by the well-known New York artist, Irving Lane, in the leading roles of "Stand-In," Walter Wanger's merry comedy which opens at the Appleton Theatre Wednesday, March 9, for a three-day showing.

The most hilarious romance that ever came out of Hollywood—because it shows you the side-splitting comedy Hollywood knows best! See how movies are made—and laugh yourself blue in the face! It's from the grand Saturday Evening Post story by the author of "Mr. Deeds" and "Cats-paw"—about the unsuspecting bank teller who tried to teach sanity to the movie moguls—and found it (in two words) im-possible! A great comedy! A great love story! A great picture!

Also on the same program we are showing Preston Foster and Sally Eilers in "Everybody's Doing It."

Perhaps you have the same problem as Eileen—pretty, artistic Eileen who, the gossips said, would never learn! How she fooled her critics, amazed her husband is unfolded in this absorbing, real-life story.... ADULTS ONLY. This subject will not interest children.

A slim jacket frock to brighten a weary winter wardrobe and do service in the spring is designed of men's wear gray wool flannel. Its neat jacket, of peasant inspiration, is trimmed with a green saw-tooth edging and flower buttons. Note the sliding adjustable chin-strap on the tasseled black pillbox worn with it.

Overindulgent Mother May Cramp Girl's Style

BY ANGELO PATRI

"Why don't you ask Sara Anne to go with you, Jerry?"

"Too much mother."

"What do you mean? That's one of the finest girls in this town, or anywhere else. Worth a dozen of others I won't mention."

"You're perfectly right, mother. I agree with you. Sara Anne is the best-looking and the finest dancer and the best all-around girl in sight. I'd like nothing better to take her to the dance. And she'd be glad to go with me. But it's no use taking Sara Anne and having to take her mother along too."

"You don't mean that Mrs. Chetwinn would go along too? To the dance?"

"Yes, she would. To the dance. And what's more, I would have to dance with her, and see that she had a seat where she could see us every minute of the time. And I'd have to see that she had someone to talk to, and that she had refreshments at the proper time. And I'd have to take her home early enough so that she would not be overtired. You see I've had some experience with Mama Chetwinn. Sara Anne is all right, but I can't see her mother. Especially at the class dance."

"Suppose I go over and hint around a little and see what I can do. You say you would both like to go together?"

"We'd be in seventh heaven. But there isn't a chance."

And mother found that there wasn't a chance when she began hinting around. "You see, my dear Mrs. Boyer, my daughter is my world, my whole life. No sacrifice is too much to make for her. Now take the class dance. Of course she will be asked to go and I shall go with her and stay as long as she wants to stay. I'd much rather be at home with my books, but where Sara Anne's pleasure is concerned I'm perfectly delighted to make the sacrifice."

"But couldn't Sara Anne go with some nice boy that you know and save you that exertion? It does seem too bad that you have to stay up late, and dress and all that when there are so many nice boys that could take her."

"No, no, my dear. No matter what it takes I'll go with her. Not that she can't be trusted. Not my daughter. But I want to show the world that she is shielded and beloved, a precious charge. Nothing is too much for me to do for her. I assure you I thoroughly enjoy doing it."

Of course she enjoyed doing it. So does the father who seats himself, cigar in evidence, in the big chair in the corner of the living-room and stays there as long as the boy stays. "I like to see young people enjoying themselves," says he. "And I am host in my own house."

"Fiddlesticks," say I. Young people who are old enough to enjoy each other's company, old enough to go to class dances and theatres and concerts with each other, have to be old enough to be trusted in each other's company. And they are entitled to enjoy their association without too much mother or too much father.

Chaperones are needed occasionally. Girls are not to be turned out like stray cats. But—and this is tragically important to the young girls just going out—they must have some measure of independence. Remember the case of Sara Anne and think twice. How much chaperonage is too much?

Cautions Against Pyschic Bid

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The "social bridge player" who enters fast company in duplicates, tournaments, or club games for the first time should keep his suspicions alert against psychic or "phony" bidding. It is one thing to know what Mrs. Jones would bid on a certain hand in the Thursday afternoon game. It is quite another to place credence in the bidding of an unknown opponent. After all, the opponents are not there as guides or good Samaritans. Deception is their meat. The thing to do is to be sure you don't bite on it, as West did against a tricky pair in a recent tournament.

SOUTH
♠ K 8
♥ A 6
♦ A K Q J 10 5 2
♣ A J

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 no trump	Double	4 spades	Pass
4 no trump	Double	Pass	Pass
Redouble	Pass	Pass	Pass

As may be seen, South was so anxious to befuddle the opponents that he passed up a perfectly sound two diamond bid in order to start with a psychic spade. Let it not be thought that I approve of this practice. In my opinion there is entirely too much danger that partner will persist with the first bid suit, but I cannot deny that, against certain gullible opponents, and especially at match point scoring, this type of psychic often is successful. That the North-South bidding was entirely ethical was manifested by North's innocent four spade rescue after three no trump was doubled. When South took this rescue back to four no trump it was, of course, apparent to North that something funny was going on. But West who had even more grounds for suspicion, probably had tasted blood and now was straining for the kill. At any rate, he walked into the parlor with another double, and South, the spider, promptly swatted him with a redouble.

It was a thoroughly uncomfortable hand for East and West. West, torn between a heart and a club lead, finally decided on the heart jack. Dummy's queen was played, and held. All seven diamond tricks then were rattled off. Coming down to five cards, West held grimly to the spade ace-queen, the heart king, and the king-nine of clubs. Declarer cashed the heart ace, then exited with the spade king. West collected the ace and queen, but then had to lead a club to declarer's tenace, thus presenting him with an overtrick on the redoubled contract.

My Neighbor Says—

Earthworms are beneficial to the soil in which they live and no effort should be made to remove them. If considered troublesome, lime water will bring them to the surface.

Souffle will not fall so quickly after it has been removed from the oven if ½ level teaspoon of baking powder is added to every 4 eggs when mixing the souffle.

If you have been unsuccessful in growing delphinum from seeds, try soaking seeds for four or five days before planting, in a piece of damp cheesecloth, being careful not to let cloth get dry. Seeds treated in this way will come up in a week after they are planted.

Always remove the oil sack from a chicken or turkey and draw the tendons in the legs. This makes them more tender.

Cooked corn, beans and peas added to white sauce and poured over toast make a good luncheon dish. A garnish of crisp bacon adds flavor and nutrition.

Uncle Ray's Corner

A Little Saturday Talk

Now I want to tell a little adventure which befell me as I was about to sail from Singapore.

All my baggage was on board the steamer when I left it to go to a store and to post some air mail letters. The center of Singapore is about two miles from the docks, but it seemed I had plenty of time to get back before 12 o'clock noon, the time for sailing.

I really did have enough time, but there were two or three delays along the way. The driver of my taxicab could understand only a few English words, but he could misunderstand many of them!

Turning back, at last, toward the dock, it seemed I had just enough minutes left to get there before the big "stairway gangplank" was lifted. As it turned out, however, I was two minutes late. The gangplank had gone up on the stroke of 12. The ship officers did not know a passenger was missing, or else they would have waited a few minutes for my return.

The steamer had not started to move away, but its side was about four feet from the edge of the deck. I shouted, "Wait a minute!" and in a few seconds a ship officer called down to me:

"Can you climb a rope ladder?"

"I think so," I replied, and waited until it was lowered.

I looked at the rope ladder with some care, for I did not want to risk my life to catch the boat. The ladder, however, had wooden rungs between the side-ropes, and seemed safe enough.

The lower end was swung over, and I asked two men on the dock to hold it tightly while I climbed. Then I took firm hold, and began to make the upward journey of 20 or 25 feet.

I did not know it then, but several years ago, in Singapore harbor, a young man had tried to climb aboard a vessel with the help of a knotted rope. He had slipped and fallen. It is believed he struck his head on the edge of the concrete pier. At any rate he went down into the water, and was not seen again. Hungry sharks may have dragged him down — there are many of these ugly fish in Singapore harbor.

My rope ladder was a better one. As I climbed each rung, I took a new firm grip on the side-rope. In a few minutes I was up on the deck. Hundreds of people on the boat had watched the event, and a crowd had gathered on the dock. A cheer went up when I got safely aboard, but I am sure that next time I shall not be late for the boat!

Marriage Without Love Bound to End in Divorce

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I have discovered that my husband is carrying on a clandestine correspondence with a woman he used to know. She is a school teacher more than 35 years old and he has not seen her for twelve years or more. I accidentally opened one of this woman's letters and was quite amazed to find that she was quite critical of me, whom she has never seen. Evidently my husband had discussed my faults with her. One was that I was a penny-pincher, which I had to be during the first years of our marriage as he only made a very small salary. My husband states that he has not had any particular feeling for me for the last couple of years. However, it has only been the last few months that I have noted any difference in his attitude toward me. I think the woman is trying to get him to divorce me as she asked him in the letter if he had seen a lawyer yet. What shall I do? H. H.

DOROTHY DIX

Answer:

Send your husband to see the woman. The one infallible cure for an old love is to get a cold appraising look at it after the lapse of a number of years.

It is human nature to glorify the past and to look back upon it through a rosy mist of memories. The old home town was the most beautiful and picturesque spot in the world and we wonder why we left it. All of the people we knew in our youth were good and kind, witty and entertaining. Our first sweethearts were glamorous creatures who possessed every charm of mind and heart and body.

And then sometimes we are foolish enough to go back to the old home town and we find it a decrepit little village, with the palings falling off the fences, the gates askew and every house needing paint. We find that the people we had remembered as so brilliant are as dull as dishwater and that they haven't had a new idea or heard a new story since we left twenty years ago. Our early loves are fat and frowzy or skinny and bony and commonplace—not at all the Greta Garbos and Robert Taylors that we have been pining for and with whom we had been invidiously comparing our mates. Probably no man and woman ever meet their first sweethearts without giving thanks for their deliverance.

A very common thing has happened to your husband. He has reached midchannel, so to speak, in marriage. The first romance and thrill have gone and he hasn't yet settled down into a contented acceptance of it as a good working partnership. Hence his mind has gone back to this woman as a romantic prospect, commercially speaking, and so he has got into this correspondence with her and is having a little flirtation.

He is thinking of the teacher not only as she really was when he saw her last, but exaggerating her charms and virtues. Distance of time is lending enchantment to the view.

But he hasn't seen her for twelve years and twelve years do awful things to a woman when she is getting fortyish. We don't notice how people grow older when we are with them every day, but when we meet after long parting we are shocked ow they have aged. After we have asked about their health and whether they are married and how many children they have and how they are getting along in business, we find that there is no one to whom we have so little to say as we have to our old friends. Your husband, like the remainder of us, would be bored to tears if he tried to take up the threads of an intimacy that was broken off long ago.

My advice to you is to tell your husband to go and look over this lady before he commits himself any further. The chances are a thousand to one he will come home madly in love with you.

Dear Miss Dix — About three months ago I married a girl whom I do not love and I am finding the situation growing worse all the time. I had gone with her steadily for three years and during that time I had serious doubts as to whether I cared for her. In fact I was virtually certain that I was not in love with her, but I lacked the nerve to tell her. I tried to two or three times, but just couldn't. I thought maybe I could learn to love her after marriage, but I like her less every day and simply can't stand it. What must I do?

THOMAS

Answer:

Screw up your courage to the sticking point and come clean with your wife. Tell her how you feel toward her and ask her to release you from a marriage that you find intolerable. She certainly won't want to keep you tied to her when she knows that you married her out of pity and that you find her repulsive. A marriage like that is bound to end in divorce and it is a good thing to end it before there are any children to complicate the situation.

Why any man thinks he is doing a woman a favor to marry her when he even suspects that he doesn't love her, only masculine vanity and the feeling that he is such a good thing that a girl would like to have him at any price, can explain. Malice itself could invent no crueler trick to play upon a woman because no man can be a good husband and treat a wife as she deserves to be treated unless he loves her.

Use Oil to Take Curl Out of Hair

BY ELSIE PIERCE

Too Curly Permanent

Mary Jane writes: I had a permament wave about a month ago and it is altogether too curly. Would excessive brushing and combing tend to take some of the curl out. Also what would I do to make my hair thicker?

Brushing will help somewhat. Oil treatments will help a good deal. In beauty parlors corrective treatments often consist of warm oil applications followed by a half hour under the steamer. You might try several hot towel applications following a warm oil treatment. Then, after the shampoo set your hair with waving lotion in deep, wide waves. There are special treatments to take out excess kink. Why don't you go back to the salon that gave you the wave and insist that they undo some of the damage. Brushing, massage and hot oil applications should help to encourage the growth. Try half olive and half castor oil.

Prominent Veins

H. M. B. writes: Is there anything I can do to improve my hands which I can't help but be ashamed of because of the veins being so prominent. I suppose the veins have been enlarged from housework, but I know plenty of others in similar situations and much older who have hands that are firm and smooth. In my work my hands are constantly in public view. I keep the skin soft and when I hold my hands up the veins disappear entirely with the exception of the faint blue lines under the skin but, of course, I can't keep them up all the time. I am considerably underweight and hoped that I might gain enough to help my hands also, but am afraid that is out of the question. Please help hands that look sixty. I am in my thirties.

First, do try to gain weight generally and your hands will get their share. You say "that is out of the question." Not if you have a physician tell you why you are underweight and how to gain. Exercise your hands and arms and keep them up several times a day. Massage with a rich nourishing cream or cocoa butter every night should help keep the skin soft, and may even help to develop the hands a little, though general weight gain is my first recommendation.

SMOKING DURING MEALS

Dear Mrs. Post: Do you think it an evidence of slipshod manners to let the men smoke in the fraternity dining room during their every-day meals? A group of the men think that perhaps we are all letting ourselves get into bad habits, which, after college is over, will be hard to break. Other men say that there is no impropriety ever, anywhere, to smoke during family meals and that the fraternity house is after all the men's college home. After expressing your feeling about this, will you then tell us what we should do about smoking when we are having a "company" dinner.

Answer: I think smoking throughout meals is always an evidence of slipshod manners, no matter where. A family that smokes at table right straight through dinner lacks the distinction of a family table at which smoking is not permitted. There is no doubt about this. The fact that many families DO permit smoking from beginning to end of every meal, the fact that many people light a cigarette the instant they are awake before they have even lifted their heads from their pillow, and keep on lighting cigarettes one from the other until they go to sleep at night, is still no evidence that this behavior is admirable. Plenty of families have extremely bad table manners in many other respects, plenty of families never dress for dinner, plenty of families sit down to tablecloths with spots on them. In fact, everyday charm has reached about as low an ebb as the stock market. On the other hand, if there is one place when smoking might be permitted at all times and hours, it is in a man's club, and the only point against it is the one that you yourself make—that of letting yourself get into slipshod habits. It is so much easier to get into them than out of them. Unfortunately, the manners of the young women of today are quite as slipshod, if not more so, than those of the men. Therefore your "company" — supposing it to consist of young women—are even more likely to begin smoking before they taste their soup than you are. But if you want to behave with propriety, then you should begin to smoke only after the dessert has been passed.

Dear Mrs. Post: I heard some one say the other day that a gentleman should follow a lady up the stairs and precede her down them. This is news to me. I've always been brought up to believe that a gentleman follows her both ways. Will you discuss this change in manners?

Answer: There are only two exceptions to the rule that he follow her. The first is, he gets out of a conveyance first and then helps her to alight; the second one is that he goes does ahead of her when the stairs are rickety or the way is otherwise dangerous, the idea being that he be ready to catch her should she trip. In the present day of athletic young women, the idea that he should be prepared to catch her is rather amusing, but the convention still holds.

HOLLYWOOD LIGHTS! CAMERA! ACTION! HAPPENINGS

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—The time is ripe for a duplication of the hoaxes that brought Margaret Lindsay and Robert Cummings to Hollywood as "foreign stars."

Both Miss Lindsay and Cummings, Americans, sojourned in England and got their "breaks" here through posing as English players. Cummings advised Miss Lindsay on the procedure, then followed his own advice with equal success.

To say that Hollywood again has gone loco over foreign talent would be misleading. The foreigners are but part of a widespread influx of new talent, including many Americans, being drafted by various studios. This new year should be, decidedly, a year of "new faces." The urge to experiment with star material is dominant.

Many Europeans Waiting

Still, the American-born would-be star, if overlooked as an American, might try the Lindsay-Cummings route to movie attention. Hollywood's curiosity is invariably aroused by a name that smacks of distant lands. Curiosity often leads to a contract, and a contract—often but not always—to a chance to let the public decide.

Metro has a dozen Europeans here waiting for their first screen opportunity in Hollywood. This studio—because Mr. Louis B. Mayer took a trip abroad—leads in the number of new foreigners on its lists. The Italian Elena Quirici, Anthony Novatny of Czechoslovakia, Konstantin Gorian of Yugoslavia, the Hungarian Steven Bekassy, the Viennese Hedy LaMarr (who was Hedy Keisler of "Ecstasy") are among the reserves.

From France have come Ariane Borg, Miereille Balin, Jacqueline Laurant. Viennese Della Lind is cast in "Swiss Miss" with Laurel and Hardy, Hungarian Ilona Massey already has scored in "Rosalie," and Viennese Rose Stradner aroused studio enthusiasm in "The Last Gangster." From England there are Peter Bull and Don Stannard. Miliza Korjus, Hungarian singer, has been here many months, still has not appeared in a picture.

'No, Thank You' To Some

Paramount has hopes for Franciska Gaal, already studio-approved in "The Buccaneer," and for Olympe Bradna and Rigaud and Isa Miranda. New Warner importations are chiefly English—Isabel Jeans, Melville Cooper, Bruce Lister and James Stephenson. Universal has its French Danielle Darrieux (proved in foreign films) and 20th Century-Fox its equally approved Annabella, with Scandinavian Osa Massen newly added to the roster. This studio, with Sonja Henie and a singing Simone freshly triumphant, probably has more reason than others to look abroad for "discoveries," although Hollywood's records prove that the public always has picked its favorites, not by nationalities, but by individual personality appeal.

With the fans, it hasn't seemed to matter where a star came from. For every Garbo, Luise Rainer, or Charles Boyer that the movie-goers have welcomed, there is a Lilian Harvey, a Henri Garat, or a Lil Dagover to whom the American box-office has said, in its forceful, direct and uncompromising language, "No, thank you."

Lenten Menus Bring A Challenge Every Home Cook Should Welcome

BY MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer

Restrictions that Lenten observances impose on meals are a challenge to the cook. But the housewife who prides herself on her table takes it in her stride.

If she can't serve meat she makes a dish of creamed eggs, brightened with green pepper, sprinkled with paprika, and garnished with parsley. It pleases the eye and the palate and it fills the men folk's stomachs as well as a steak would have.

For another dinner it may be broiled mushrooms, big round chunks of goodness perched on golden slices of toast. Squeeze a little lemon juice on them for tartness and you couldn't ask for a better Lenten "meat."

MODERN HOT CROSS BUNS
This version of the traditional Lenten food is varied by the addition of Brazil nuts.

1 yeast cake
1 cup milk, scalded and cooled to lukewarm
½ cup granulated sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg, well beaten
4 cups flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup melted butter
1 cup chopped Brazil nuts

Crumble yeast cake into a bowl. Add milk and stir to dissolve yeast. Add sugar, salt and beaten egg. Mix flour with cinnamon and add half of this mixture to the first. Mix, then stir in rest of flour. Add melted butter and mix well. Turn out on floured board and knead until dough is smooth. Put in a bowl. Cover and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk. Turn on floured board, knead in Brazil nuts until well distributed. Form into buns. Arrange on a greased baking sheet. Cover and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk. Brush buns with egg yolk, which has been diluted with water and bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees F., until light brown. Remove from oven and cool. Make a cross on top of each bun with confectioners' frosting, made by mixing confectioners' sugar with enough water to make a thick, smooth paste.

Consider The Cheeses

The possibilities are not restricted by any means. There are many combinations to be made with macaroni or noodles as a base, cheese, tomato sauce and vegetables for the variations. There are so many possibilities for variety in just cheese itself, so many different flavors and colors from mild cottage cheese and its aristocratic sister, cream cheese, to the pungent vigor of Roquefort or gorgonzola.

Nuts, too, are a sturdy means of varying Lenten dishes. Add peanuts, almonds or pecans to the savory sauce served with broccoli, onions, celery, turnips, spinach or asparagus. Mix more nuts into salads and vegetables before they are cooked.

Main Dish Suggestions

Here are some added menu changes:

Scoop out the centers of tomatoes. Half fill them with a savory stuffing or corn and top them with uncooked eggs. Bake until the eggs have "set." (About twenty minutes.)

Add half cup of grated cheese to a cup and a half of white sauce. Add four sliced hard-cooked eggs, a cup of cooked corn and half a cup of rice, noodles or macaroni. Bake the combination for fifteen minutes in a shallow buttered baking dish.

Add chopped pickles, chili sauce, browned mushrooms, cooked vegetables, bits of fish, nuts or cheese to scrambled eggs—or spread any of them over the top of an omelet when you are ready to fold it over.

Select two one-pound slices of fish steak. Cover one slice with a thin layer of savory stuffing to which some chopped sweet pickles have been added. Cover with the other slice and sprinkle with melted butter and a little chili sauce or catsup. Bake for fifty minutes in a moderate oven.

Neenah Students In Play Tryouts

Cast of 10 Will be Named For Thespian Society Production

Neenah—Nineteen Neenah High school students participated in final tryouts for roles in the Thespian Dramatic society production, "Skidding," Friday afternoon. Final choice of the cast of 10 characters will be announced soon by Miss Ruth Chaimson.

The group of 19 was selected from more than 100 who answered the first call for candidates. However, it may be necessary to call for more candidates, Miss Chaimson said, as there are some roles in the play which cannot be filled satisfactorily by any of the final group of 18.

Neenah Delegates Will Go to V. F. W. Gathering

Neenah — Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kemps will be among the 200 delegates to attend a conference of the Eighth district council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and auxiliary at Kaukauna Sunday. Delegates will be present from Manitowoc, Green Bay, Oconto, Appleton, Marinette, Black Creek, Kaukauna, New London, Lakewood and DePere.

Complete Sewer Work On Riverlawn Avenue

Neenah — Sewers on Riverlawn avenue and Jackson street were completed today, according to City Engineer A. G. Prunuske. Laying of sewers on Doty avenue and Church street will start Monday.

About 800 feet of sewers were layed on Jackson street, and 650 feet on Riverlawn avenue. There are 92 men working under WPA on the sewer project.

School Board Needs Best Talent Available, Club Told

Menasha — Urging insistence of the best talent that could be drafted for personnel of the Menasha school board and a more balanced emphasis on extra-curricular and academic activity within the school system, George Banta, Jr., Menasha, told members of the Menasha Economics club at the Twin City Y. W. C. A. Friday afternoon as he discussed "Looking Backward and Looking Ahead in Menasha" that the "future welfare of our children and our city demand that we stop having our school board used as a political football."

"I have been accused of meddling in something that does not concern me when I have expressed these opinions before but even if I did not have a deep sense of loyalty to Menasha, I do have a selfish interest in seeking a sound educational system. I have charge of an industry in Menasha that if it is to employ local people must have a highly trained type of personnel and the schools must produce it. I do not think that request is an unreasonable one because I believe our industry is an important one to Menasha, we make regular improvements on our buildings and we pay our share of the taxes."

"Fortunately," continued Mr. Banta, "Menasha has made considerable improvements in its educational facilities before the high school fire. Jefferson school is a model school from the standpoint of planning and equipment. The other schools are modern and well-equipped. Our new high school has been designed with the needs of the future considered, an important factor, but now we must secure a teaching program that stresses the fundamentals and strives for culture initiative in order to develop leadership that the future will require."

Conditions Complex

Mr. Banta prefaced his discussion on "looking ahead" with the remarks that while some of his discussion might include some measure of idealistic thinking, cognizance must be taken of the fact that living conditions today are more complex and problems of government are more complicated, therefore demanding a more intelligent citizenry of a more advance type that we have now. To do that he contended, Menasha as well as thousands of other "Menashas" must put its house in order to try to produce intelligent voters who will send more intelligent representatives to Madison and Washington, D. C. This can be done, he stated, not by having a larger city but by having a much better one.

"We must keep more of our people who earn their living in Menasha, in Menasha as residents. We must make our city as attractive physically and culturally as it is possible. Physically this is being attempted with a program to restore much of the natural beauty of the city itself. River banks are being improved and beautified. A large park is being developed in the Fifth ward where a large boat harbor is planned for residents to enjoy fishing and yachting. A park may be established in the northwest part of the second ward on Little Lake Buttes des Morts. A year round recreational program is also planned.

Cautioning his audience to remember during his talk that it was non-political, non-partisan and entirely impersonal, Mr. Banta pointed out at the beginning of his discussion that if he appeared to criticize individuals, his listeners must realize that he was not criticisinz any individual but only the system.

Relates History

Menasha has its share of fortune and misfortune, he stated, and some times the misfortune was so serious that less heartened people would have given up in despair. He discussed the geographical advantages and disadvantages of Menasha and presented some of the early history of the city as well as explaining the inception of the rivalry between Neenah and Menasha. He traced the early history of the Menasha Woodenware company which was started by E. D. Smith, the only Menasha man who ever gave substantial financial gifts to the city, and the nationality make-up of the population.

He pointed out that the early settlers of Menasha made no pretense of architectural beauty in either their homes or their industrial plants. There was little or no money in the county and there seemed no conscious need to recognize beauty as a part of life. "Perhaps I should not talk so much about the dark surroundings of our industrial plants when our own business place is not anything of beauty but we would have made considerable improvement if it had not been for the surplus tax. However, the Gilbert Paper mill and the Marathon mill have done much to improve their plants and grounds and we can point with pride to the splendid thing which they have achieved. It is a challenge to us in Menasha when we think what we have done to our heritage.

Urges Sound Planning

Mr. Banta also deplored the lack of planning in Menasha and declared that this too can be remedied by a sound planning for city finances and industry.

During the open forum discussion which followed Mr. Banta's talk, members of the club expressed opinions that women should also be allowed membership on the school board and that it should be an elective group.

Mrs. H. J. C. Rosenow sang three selections, "The Slave Song," "When I'm With You" and "A Birthday." Miss Ruby Hart accompanied her at the piano.

Scouts Will See Electrical Show

Troop 9 of Menasha Will Be Host at Meeting Monday Night

Menasha — Boy Scouts of the Twin Cities have been invited to be guests of Troop 9, sponsored by the Menasha Wooden Ware, at 7:30 Monday night at the Nicolet school when an electrical demonstration will be presented by the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company.

A whole truck load of equipment will be used in presenting the many interesting electrical experiments and phonomena that have been prepared by Carl Schafer, who will give the talk, and James Dunham and Clarence Schultz, who will take care of the demonstrations.

Because of the wide scope of interest in the subject of electricity and its uses to young and old, the scouts have been asked to invite their fathers and friends to the demonstration.

The program will be similar to one presented at Appleton. Among the things to be explained and demonstrated are the power-arc, safety in use of electricity, telsa coil, stroboscope, electric eye, cathode ray and lights without filament.

Storm Is Blamed for Two Auto Accidents

Menasha—Two accidents attributed to the snowstorm yesterday were reported in the Twin City area today. Cars driven by Morris Zimmerman, 308 Central avenue, Oshkosh, and Morris Strike, 513 Tayco street, Menasha, collided at 6:15 last night on Highway 114 a mile east of Menasha. Both cars were badly damaged.

A car owned by Chester Redlin, 940 Third street, Menasha, was damaged on the front end when involved in a collision with the rear of a city snow plow in the 900 block of Third street. The accident occurred at 1:55 this morning. Evan Baldwin and John Rappert, city employes, were handling the truck.

Menasha Personals

Miss Marshallette Arnett, 318 Abbey avenue, Menasha, is confined to her home with a sprained ankle, a severe cut over the right eye and bruises received in an automobile accident last Saturday evening.

Mary Fahrenkrug, 514 Lush street Menasha, was admitted this morning to Theda Clark hospital.

Walter Prahl, 325 Lisbon avenue, Menasha, had his tonsils removed this morning at Theda Clark hospital.

Prunuske Leads St. Mary Cage Scorers for Season

Menasha—Reuben Prunuske, St. Mary High school basketball center, led the team in scoring in the season just completed with 137 points. In 19 games he collected 56 field goals and 25 free throws for an average of better than seven points a game.

Second scoring honors went to William Resch, sophomore guard, with 120 points on 45 field goals and 30 free throws. Between the two, they scored 257 points, over half of the total of 470 points scored by the Zephyrs during the season.

St. Mary cagers outscored their opponents by 71 points during the season, 470 to 299. They scored 178 field goals and 114 free throws in 19 games. The Zephyrs fouled 193 times for an average of 10 a game. Opponents fouled 204 times.

The Zephyrs averaged 24.7 points per game and 9.3 field goals and 6 free throws per game. Opponents averaged 21 points a game, leaving a spread of over three points per game in favor of the Zephyr offense.

Eugene Laux, who was third high in scoring with 54 points, fouled 35 times during the season. Prunuske was one behind with 34 personals.

Won 12 Games

During the season the Zephyrs won 12 games and lost seven. They won the Fox Valley Catholic conference crown with an undefeated record in eight starts and then placed second in the tournament at DePere. In non-conference games the Zephyrs won two out of eight games.

The complete record for the season in non-conference games shows that the Zephyrs defeated St. Lawrence Junior college of Mt. Calvary twice, 15 to 14 and 30 to 17. They lost games to Manitowoc, 22 to 18 and 20 to 15; to Kaukauna, 35 to 24 and 25 to 23; and to Neenah, 34 to 23 and 28 to 25.

In the conference the St. Mary team defeated all opponents twice, the closest games being with St. Mary of Oshkosh, 22 to 18 and 26 to 24. Other victories were over St. John, 39 to 11 and 21 to 16; St. Peter, 19 to 10 and 36 to 25, and St. Norbert, 32 to 22 and 29 to 18.

At the tournament at DePere the Zephyrs defeated the St. Patrick team of Eau Claire, 19 to 14, and St. Norbert, 29 to 14, before losing to St. Stanislaus in the finals, 32 to 25.

The complete individual scoring record of all St. Mary players follows. The first column indicates the number of games in which the player participated while the fourth shows total points scored.

The race will be held on the lake just off Irving street near the Island, Mr. Poeske said.

Prizes offered include a white sweater with emblem for first; a case of dog food for second, and a dog harness for third.

Record Entry List Assured for State Bowling Tourney

Twin Cities Have 411 Teams Ready to Compete in Meet

Neenah — A new world record in entries for state bowling tournaments is assured for the Wisconsin State Bowling association's tourney which will start March 18 in Neenah and Menasha, according to A. A. Hennig, general chairman of the tournament.

Hennig and Joseph Muench of the Neenah alleys were in Milwaukee Thursday and preparing the tournament schedule. Although all figures weren't available, it was learned that enough teams have entered to assure not only a state record but a world's record.

The Twin Cities' total entry has been boosted to 411 teams, 310 of which are booster teams and 101 are regular teams.

It also was learned at the Milwaukee meeting that a larger representative of cities will be assured for this tournament, small cities never having competed in state tournaments before having entered this meet.

Reconditioning of the Neenah and Menasha alleys for the tournament will start next week, and Clarence Jonen, Milwaukee, state secretary of the association will be in the Twin Cities next week making final preparations for the opening of the meet.

Teams bowling the first shift at 8 o'clock on the opening night will be made up of city officials from both cities, and teams bowling in the second shift will be made up of service club members.

Schedules for the tournament will be printed Monday.

BONUS FOR EMPLOYES

Beloit—(AP)—Officials of the Fairbanks-Morse company announced yesterday $106,114 has been set aside as a bonus for company employes. The distribution will be based on earnings of employes during the calendar year of 1937.

Fairbank-Morse reported net income for 1937 of $2,148,432, or $3.48 a share.

Hitler Has Built 1,266 Miles of New Automobile Roads in Last Four Years

Berlin—(AP)—In another six years Hitler plans to have Germany covered with a web of double-track motor speed roads. At the end of 1937, after less than four years' effort, 1,266 miles of special roads have been opened. Hitler has told his 95,000 road builders he wants to add 625 miles this year.

By the end of 1938, motorists should be able to travel straight from the Baltic port of Stettin to Berchtesgaden, in the Bavarian Alps—497 miles—on the first consecutive stretch of the new highway system.

Sections of the "autobahns" (motor roads) are to be found all over the country now. Each of their tracks is 22 feet in width. A strip of land, varying from 10 to 16 feet, separates the tracks and is planted to trees, shrubbery and grass. This intervening hedge is more than a landscaping project; it cuts headlight glare at night.

The road is built of concrete, plain and reinforced, with slabs eight inches thick. The cost of the project is stupendous. But Hitler, viewing it as part of his job-creation program, believes it will pay for itself in the long run. No figures on the costs are published.

Since cars leaving the speedway travel faster than those entering, the ramps are not equal. Those for leaving have a curvature of not less than 150 feet, but those for joining have a radius as short as 75 feet.

And of course, the roads have a strategic value. Cars can travel three abreast, either way. It has been estimated that, at an average speed of 40 miles, soldiers can be moved past a given point at the rate of 70,000 an hour.

Governor Meets Second Group of County Leaders

Progressives Talk Over Political Prospects With LaFollette

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—If you class yourself a local leader of the Progressive party, if you are a member of either the state or county Progressive committee organization, or if you have ever taken part in the party's campaigns, it is probable that you will be invited to a free lunch by the governor of Wisconsin during the next few months.

The second batch of "rank and file" leaders of the Progressive party talked over party affairs, plans and policies with Governor LaFollette at his office here Thursday and in the spacious "throne room," adorned with a large bronze bust of "Old Bob" LaFollette, sat down to a meal provided by the state's chief executive.

It was the second of what will be a series of conferences extending over three or four months at which Governor LaFollette says he will try to get the attitude of the rank and file on his future political plans.

About 60 leaders, most of them from central and western Wisconsin spent the afternoon with Governor LaFollette yesterday. Next week another group will come, and so the party referendum will continue until summer, when it is expected that Governor LaFollette will run for governor, for the United States senate, or for no office at all, according to his advisors.

The delegation Thursday included some of the party's county chieftains in the northeastern section, among them Henry Danes, J. C. Hallett and Mrs. Eva Pasch of Calumet county, Guy Gibson and Hugo Muerche and Mrs. E. J. Allen of Oconto county, and Herman Kronschnabel of Forest county.

Eert Sanderson and William Moore of Door county, John B. Chase and Bernard E. Brandt of Oconto county sent their regrets. Brown and Outagamie county leaders were not on the invitation list this week.

Hallett, whose home is in Sherwood and who is the chairman of the Calumet county committee, was reported as saying that he expects to get his county organization functioning for the 1938 campaign very soon.

Danes, one of the party's farm leaders, expressed the opinion that the party will ask Governor LaFollette to run for a fourth term as governor and will favor the candidacy of Representative Gerald J. Boileau of Wausau for the United States senate.

AAA Leaders to Hold 8 Meetings

Outagamie County Farmers Invited to Regional Gathering at Green Bay

Wisconsin AAA leaders will hold eight district meetings throughout the state from March 7 to March 11, and it is expected that full details of the 1938 federal farm program will be available at that time, according to information received by R. C. Swanson, county agricultural agent.

The district meeting which will include Outagamie county will be held at Green Bay on Wednesday, March 9. Other counties in the district are Fond du Lac, Sheboygan, Manitowoc, Calumet, Winnebago, Brown, Kewaunee, Door, Oconto, Marinette and Florence.

Waupaca is included in the district which will be represented at a meeting at Stevens Point on March 10.

County allotment committees, county AAA chief clerks and county agents have been invited by the Wisconsin Agricultural Conservation committee and the Agricultural Extension service to attend. At the regional conferences the additions to the original 1938 agricultural conservation program will be explained and discussed.

Laura Huber Talks on Fellowship as Churches Join in World Prayer Day

Neenah — More than 200 persons attended the interdenominational World Day of Prayer program Friday afternoon in Immanuel Lutheran church. Mrs. Clarence Weinke substituted for Mrs. E. C. Kollath as leader. Mrs. Henry Schultz was chairman of the program.

Miss Laura Huber, general secretary of the Twin City Y. W. C. A., as guest speaker, discussed the true mean of fellowship and the possibilities of building fellowship with the people with whom one works and lives.

Mrs. Richard Roth, St. Paul's English Lutheran church, sang "My Prayer" and Mrs. A. S Mac Arthur of the First Methodist Episcopal church played violin selections.

Mrs. William Pearson of First Methodist Episcopal church and Mrs. E. E. Beeman of St. Thomas Episcopal church presented the prayers in conjunction with the program.

Mrs. Harold Brown of First Evangelical church, Mrs. Clarence Weinke, Immanuel Lutheran church; Mrs. Leslie Johnson, Whiting Memorial Baptist church and a representative from First Presbyterian church presented the mission projects. Ushers were Mrs. Ferdinand Diesterhaupt and Mrs. Mary Webster, First Methodist church and Mrs. Ernest Block, Immanuel Lutheran church.

Members of Young Women's Missionary society of First Methodist Episcopal church and Immanuel Lutheran church acted as ushers during the service.

Other churches who joined in the World Day of Prayer service included First Congregational church of Menasha, St. Paul's English Lutheran church, First Evangelical church, Our Savior's Lutheran church and First Fundamental church of Neenah.

200 Persons See Basketball Game, Boxing Exhibition

Sodality Club Sponsors Program at St. Mary School Gymnasium

Menasha—A crowd of nearly 200 persons attended the basketball game and boxing exhibitions sponsored by the Sodality club of St. Mary High school at the school gymnasium Friday afternoon. For the basketball game, the varsity and reserve squads were divided into Sodality and non-Sodality teams, with the Sodalists winning, 18 to 12.

Prunuske topped the Sodalists with six points while Coenen contributed the same total for the non-Sodalists. The game was played at a furious pace with numerous fouls. Laux collected five points before getting his fourth personal while Hopfensperger also scored five points.

Exhibition boxing bouts were staged between A. Schuler and T. Schuler at 110 pounds; Coopman and Garrigan at 120 pounds; Johnson and Burghart at 130 pounds; LeMay and Ebben at 142; Rieschl and Wagner at 140 and Schmaltz and Graff at 145.

The boxers have been training for the opening of the regular season next Friday evening with the strong St. John boxing squad of Little Chute. The Zephyrs have a group of veterans from which Coach Marvin Miller will build his team.

Between halves of the basketball game, the Rev. Joseph Becker and G. W. Unser challenged Coach Marvin Miller and his assistant, Sam Kraus to a game of "21", long shots counting two and short shots one. The combination of Father Becker and Unser won.

The box score of the basketball game:

Sodalists—18	G	FT	P.	Non-Sodal.—12	G	FT	P

Minneapolis—A "cupid's cubicle" designed to protect blushing couples from the public eye while they apply for marriage licenses was set up at the county building. The first couple to seek its refuge, however, had their pictures taken by newspaper photographers.

BOOK REVIEW

Maurois Puts Vigor and Life Into Study of History

By Jean Wiley Thickens

THE MIRACLE OF ENGLAND
By Andre Maurois

Andre Maurois has added "another star to his crown" of literary fame with his recently published "Miracle of England". This versatile author has volumes of fiction, biography, political science and history to his credit. The secret of writing a readable history is not to produce a formidable tome bristling with dates but rather a concise, authentic record of the great men and events which shaped the destinies of the nation under discussion. The chapters in "The Miracle of England" are brief, (none longer than three or four pages), the chapter headings are intriguing, and the pages are enriched with frequent references to the amusing idiosyncrasies and failings of these great characters of history and legend which tend to bring them closer to us and make them seem very real and human men and women. To learn that William the Conquerer did not like women (with the exception of his wife Matilda) while his grandson, Henry I had an inamorata in every castle, village and farmhouse (and even worked the convents, tho without much success); that Richard the Lion Hearted shrinks into mediocrity when one learns that he was a traitor to the king (his father) as well as a Crusader who spent a good share of his time singing romantic ditties beneath the windows of fair damsels when he was supposed to be wrestling Christian shrines from Islamic infidels; that Queen Elizabeth kept dozens of wigs curled and ready to change several times each day; all these mundane facts serve to make Mr. Maurois' history read like the most amusing fiction.

The first part of the book is an interesting and informative account of the successive invasions suffered by England over a period of five centuries, beginning with the Romans under Julius Caesar in 55 B. C. No longer need one feel vague and uncertain as to whether King Canute was a Danish king or a troubador (that is if one happens to care about the matter at all) nor does one need to wonder who was the first Prince of Wales, or what was the method employed of selecting English kings during Anglo-Saxon times.

The book follows several lines of development concurrently without becoming involved or confused in any way. The spread of the Christian church in pagan Britain, the evolution of the present system of parliamentary government from its beginnings as the Saxon Witan, England's Colonial policy, and the rise of political parties in England, all are told in a simple and readable fashion. It is a far cry from the bloody Plantagenet rulers of the twelfth and thirteenth century who believed implicitly in their divine right to rule (or misrule) to the gentle, law-abiding King George VI who rules (those he does not actually govern) the greatest democracy on earth.

"Respect for the past is widespread in England and their history, crystallized in numerous customs, lives in their midst. On sea, on land and in the air England has great armaments but the real strength of her people springs equally from kindly, disciplined, and tenacious characters molded by a thousand years of happy fortune."

If volumes similar to "The Miracle of England" were utilized as text books for history students today, there would not be so many of them earning a flunk at the end of the college year, for Andre Maurois makes history a living, vital science instead of a dry-as-dust record of battles and invasions.

Cast, Backstage Crews Busy Preparing for Lawrence Theater Presentation of 'First Lady'

Today the Post-Crescent photographer takes you backstage with members of the Lawrence College Theater as they prepare for the forthcoming production, "First Lady," which will be presented the evenings of March 17 and 18 at Lawrence Memorial chapel. Just to prove that staging a play is not all basking in an amber spotlight or taking bows and curtain calls on the night of the performance, we present workshop scenes giving an inkling of the hard work which goes into the making of a play before it is ready for the public. In the center is a scene from the play itself, showing several of the principal characters at a tea party being given by Lucy Chase Wayne, wife of the secretary of state, played by Miss Betty Ann Johnson, Mayville, left. The hostess and Irene Hibbard, portrayed by Betty Bosser, 221 E. Lawrence street, second from right, exchange polite social slurs for the duration of the party, while Charles, the butler, played by Robert Collins, 310 N. Richmond street, second from left, and a congressman's wife, Florence Perry, 818 E. Minor street, extreme right, look on and listen in.

Hoffman is Councilorof UCT Group

A. W. Hoffman is new senior councilor of the Appleton council of the United Commercial Travelers and Mrs. L. J. Micheln is new president of its auxiliary as a result of elections held last night at Odd Fellows hall.

Other council officers elected were Ralph Hubbell, junior councilor; H. E. Helbing, past senior councilor; W. L. Swartz, conductor; Merrick Nelson, page; Willis Elsner, sentinel; H. L. Dietz and Louis Micheln, members of the executive committee; Lafayette Zeh, chaplain; and E. W. Schueler, secretary-treasurer.

New officers of the auxiliary, in addition to Mrs. Micheln, are Mrs. A. A. Krueger, vice president; Mrs. H. E. Helbing, past president; Mrs. W. B. Thompson, secretary; Mrs. G. W. Kuehnel, treasurer; Mrs. C. J. Hanlon, conductress; Mrs Ward Swartz, page; Mrs. Willis Elsner, sentinel; Mrs. Nellie Carey, chaplain; Mrs. Charles Maesch, pianist; and Mrs. Joseph Kox, Mrs. Max Bauer and Mrs. Leo Zilske, members of the executive board.

Both the council and the auxiliary also elected delegates to the grand convention to be held at Manitowoc the first week in June. Mrs. Michelm, Mrs. Helbing and Mrs. E. P. Grignon were named auxiliary delegates, and Miss Laura Fischer, Mrs. Anne Meidam and Mrs. M. B. Elias, alternates. Council delegates are A. W. Hoffman, W. E. Rollinson, H. E. Helbing, Jack Cornell and Clyde Lathrop

About 140 persons were served at the pot-luck supper which preceded the business sessions of the two groups. Members of the losing team in a recent attendance contest sponsored by the auxiliary were in charge of the supper. Mrs. M. B. Elias was chairman, and on her committee were Mrs. Leo Zilske, Mrs. George Buth, Mrs. R. C. Breitung, Mrs. George Limpert, Mrs. William E. Rollinson, Mrs. H. K. Pratt, Mrs. Delmar Peterson, Mrs. A. A. Krueger, Mrs. H. Wickert, Mrs G. W. Kuehnel, Mrs J. C. Reed, Mrs. H. E. Dahl and Mrs. Robert Schmidt, Jr.

After their separate business meetings members of the council and auxiliary came together again for cards and a social hour. Twenty-two tables were in play, with honors going to Mrs. J. A. Kox, Ward Swartz, Mrs. L. T. Benson, Charles Olson and Mrs. J. C. Reed at bridge and to Mrs. A. A. Krueger and Harry Dietz at schafskopf. The hostess committee consisted of Mrs. E. E. Cahail, chairman, Mrs. J. Bon Davis, Mrs. Leo Zilske, Mrs. Max Bauer, Mrs. George Nolting and Mrs. Mabel Shannon.

The organization is planning a special afternoon and evening program for March 26. Initiation of candidates will take place in the afternoon, followed by a past councilors' dinner at 6:30 and cards and dancing in the evening.

Vanda Christianson Is Married to Charles Drude

J. O. CHRISTIANSON, Neenah, gave his daughter, Vanda Evylin, in marriage to Charles L. Drude, son of C. E. Drude, 1436 W. Prospect avenue, Appleton, at 12:30 this afternoon in St. Paul's English Lutheran church of Neenah as the Rev. Samuel H. Roth read the service. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Christianson, 225 Third street, Neenah.

As matron of honor, the bride had her sister, Mrs. J. C. Hrubecky, Neenah. Miss Elinor Foth and Miss Loris Schmidt were bridesmaids. Clement Rossmeissl was best man and ushers were J. C. Hrubecky, Roland and Gordon Ische and William Laabs, the latter three of Milwaukee. Miss Mildred Schmidt played the wedding march and Mrs. Howard Canfield sang.

A wedding dinner was served the guests in the mirror room in the Valley Inn and a reception was held in the ballroom later. The young couple left on a wedding trip. Out-of-town guests included relatives and friends from Duluth, Minn., Green Bay, Appleton, Oshkosh, Milwaukee, Chicago, Flint, Mich., and Florida.

Talk on Missionary Work Is Feature of Prayer Day

HOW Christianity works hand in hand with social reforms in the Moslem world was described by Mrs. T. Cuyler Young, a missionary teacher of Resht, Persia, in a talk before the large group of women who gathered Friday afternoon at Memorial Presbyterian church in observance of the annual World Day of Prayer.

She told, for instance, how most of the adult inhabitants of Persia are pockmarked, not so much because of ignorance of methods of preventing smallpox, but because the Moslem religion is based on "submission to an absolute and impersonal will of an aloof, impersonal God." Fatalism, she pointed out, is the warp and woof of Moslem culture, and when a person became afflicted with some disease, he believed God had sent it and he would be interfering with the will of God if he tried to do anything about it.

For an understanding of the Moslem problem, Mrs. Young said, one must realize the fundamental differences between the Moslem and Christian religions. Two outstanding differences, she explained, are in the conception of God and the nature of a man's relationship with God.

While God means father and love to the Christian world, both of those terms are blasphemy to the Moslem, who holds that God is the personification of absolute will, majesty and sanctity, but that He has none of the qualities of fatherhood, she explained.

Beliefs Differ

"We approach God as children, personally, directly," the speaker continued. "We believe that Christ left us an unfinished task and that we are in partnership with him to bring the message of eternal life to the world. This, too, is blasphemy to the Moslem, who believes that God has done everything—that there is nothing left for man to do."

But many of the Moslems have come to realize that their religion, through 13 centuries, has done nothing for them. They are looking for another answer, and it is here that the Christian's responsibility appears, Mrs. Young said.

The Moslem hesitates, however, to accept Christianity because his contacts with it—or what he believes it is—have not been happy ones, she pointed out. Any American or European is a Christian to him and he uses the names synonymously. It is a fallacy, of course, but it is the basis of his judgment. He looks at our race prejudice, crime, our life as seen in the cast-off movies sent to their countries and our sensationalism, and because he has not learned to distinguish, he labels all this as Christian, Mrs. Young charged.

There are three answers to his confusion, she said. The first is to tell him that these faults he sees in us are the sin in man and not the Christ in him. The second is in missionary institutions, where he sees Christianity at its best, and the third is in the Christians themselves, who should remember that news of their faults is carried by newspapers and letters to all corners of the world.

Hulbert Sings

Mrs. Young was introduced by Mrs. L. C. Sleeper, president of the interdenominational Women's Mission council, sponsor of the service. Special music was provided by Marshall Hulbert, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and by a group of children from the weekday school of religion under the direction of Mrs. Nicholas Zylstra and Miss Louise Kippenhan. They sang and told the story of the Twenty-fourth Psalm.

Mrs. Sleeper was assisted in the conducting of the service by Mrs. Vern Ames, vice president of the interdenominational group, Mrs. Harry Culver, wife of the Methodist pastor, and Mrs. J. R. Denyes.

The offering received at the service will be used for four projects —work among the migrant people, work among the Indian American young people, providing Christian literature for many lands and contributing to the support of the union Christian colleges in the Orient.

Churches that participated in the observance were Memorial Presbyterian, All Saints Episcopal, Emmanuel Evangelical, First Baptist, First Congregational, First Methodist Episcopal, St. John Evangelical and Reformed and Trinity English Lutheran.

Don't Be a Road Hog

Fritz Buelow Hits 241 Game for High In Farmer League

Herman Platte Scores 583 To Give Borden Team Two Wins

Borden — Farmer League Standings:	W	L
All-Stars	36	27
Hortonia	35	28
Maple Creek	35	28
Bear Creek	33	30
Royalton	33	30
Ostrander	28	35
Lebanon	28	35
Bordens	24	39

New London — Fritz Buelow, claiming to be a beginner in bowling, last night rolled with the All Stars in the Borden-Farmer league at Prahl's alleys and cracked a new high individual game of 241 in his last line, ending with a 564 total. The new mark supersedes that of Dutch Much, ace bowler who returned to Iowa this week after a short visit here. Buelow was to roll in the semi-finals of the city singles championship against Keith Prahl this afternoon.

Bordens beat the All Stars two games with Herman Platte setting the pace with a series of 583. He blew a game of 135 at the start but followed with counts of 222 and 226. Art Stern hit 214 and 551 as Hortonia took three games and tumbled Royalton into tie for third place. Jack Kelly rolled high series and a game of 192 for the losers.

Counts of 199 and 192 by Frank Woodbury and Alton Hutchinson, respectively, helped the Maple Creek squad to two wins over Lebanon. A 482 total by Irvin Paul topped scores as Bear Creek won two from Ostrander.

Ladies Club League

Mrs Vera Schoenrock crashed a 514 series in games of 170, 175 and 169 for Olga's Five in the Ladies league yesterday afternoon. The team took two wins to reduce the gap between them and Elva's Five to 17-16. Mrs. Schoenrock's scores helped give Olga's team high marks of 660 and 1,904 total pins.

Ocean Liner Motif Will Be Used at Junior Prom

New London—Junior prom dancers at Washington High school this year will promenade across the decks of a make-believe ocean liner according to decorative plans of the prom committee which were completed this week. Actual work on the production of the necessary props and settings will begin next week according to A. F. Christ of the faculty advisory committee. The annual dance is scheduled for April 29.

The tentative scheme depends on decorative motifs taken from many parts of a steamship rigged in holiday attire. The gymnasium stage will be set up as the rounded pilot house of the boat, fitted out with a steering wheel, ventilators, funnels, a huge stack and a flag mast. The orchestra will be grouped around the pilot cabin with a regular railing in front. The front of the stage opening will be arched and will carry all types of school banners in holiday fashion.

The balconies in the gym will be decorated as upper decks on a boat, fitted with life savers at regular intervals. It is planned also to suspend large life boats from the sides. Portholes will line the walls underneath the balconies and subdued spot lights at strategic points will serve as sea-going search lights. A high sky of blue crimpled crepe will hang just above the gymnasium girders to allow balcony spectators an unobstructed view of the floor.

Music has not yet been secured but the committee is looking for a good orchestra and has started early on the decorative work in an effort to produce one of the most successful prom dances in recent years. Most previous settings have been designed as gardens so the 1938 group selected the steamboat deck as something different.

A committee named to meet and work out details for the organization includes Charles Carpenter, route 1, Hortonville; Norman Maass Seymour; George Palmbach and George Schaefer, route 1, Appleton; Theodore Schmit, Greenville; Guy Daniels, Cicero; John Dobberstein, Hortonville; Arnold Muenster, Osborn; C. J. Van Patten, Bovina; Phil Bixby, Grand Chute; Herbert Tubbs, Seymour; Milton Lippold, Hortonia; and Emory Meltz, Grand Chute. Leonard Eggleston and Palmer Gums, dairy fieldmen, and the county agent, were selected as exofficio members of the committee.

Swanson pointed to the need of a program of better herd sires in the county. Under the cooperative plan farmers, by making application, would be able to get the use of a bull of known record for a dollar. The bull would remain the property of the cooperative and would be transferred to another farm or sold for beef when the first farmer was ready to dispose of him. The bulls would be distributed when still calves and would remain on the members' farms as long as they desired to use them.

Unknown Background

"A study of the situation shows that many bulls in use have an unknown background," Swanson said. "Many of them have been purchased at the stockyards and the farmer does not know if the bull comes from a 100 or 400-pounds dam. There also are many bulls from high producing herds that are sold for veal due to the lack of efficient cooperative plan these good sires distribution methods. Under the will get onto farms in Outagamie county."

Emil Jorgenson, Waushara county agent, explained the progress being made in that county through their cooperative bull association.

The concensus of opinion of the group, which consisted of men interested in the Guernsey breed, purebred, farmers in testing asso- Holstein breed, both grade and ciations and farmers not testing their cattle for production, was that there is a need for a better sire program.

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Cloudy tonight, Sunday generally fair; colder tonight and southeast portions Sunday.

GENERAL WEATHER

The storm which was central over Colorado yesterday morning has moved northeastward and now overlies the lower Lakes. This disturbance has been attended by general precipitation over the plains states, with heavy snow falling over sections of Wisconsin, Minnesota and South Dakota. Rain or snow also fell over the Rocky mountains and along the Pacific coast, but fair weather is general over the central and southern Pacific coast and over the southern states.

It is now warmer over all the central and eastern states, but temperatures are falling over the plains states.

Cloudy and colder weather is expected in this section tonight, followed by generally fair Sunday.

Submits Low Bid on Steel Bridge Project

Midland Structural Steel company of Cicero, Ill., submitted a low bid of $26,899.87 for the Little Wolf river steel bridge project in Waupaca county, Thomas Davlin, chairman of the state highway commission, announced today. The commission today announced low bidders on nearly $200,000 of road improvement and maintenance work in the state.

The new Little Wolf river bridge will be built across the river on the Weyauwega-Northport road, east of Weyauwega. Construction is expected to begin within two months, according to Davlin.

The Derlein Decorating company, Sheboygan, was low on three painting jobs, one of them the Fremont bridge, Waupaca. The bid for the job was $2,200.

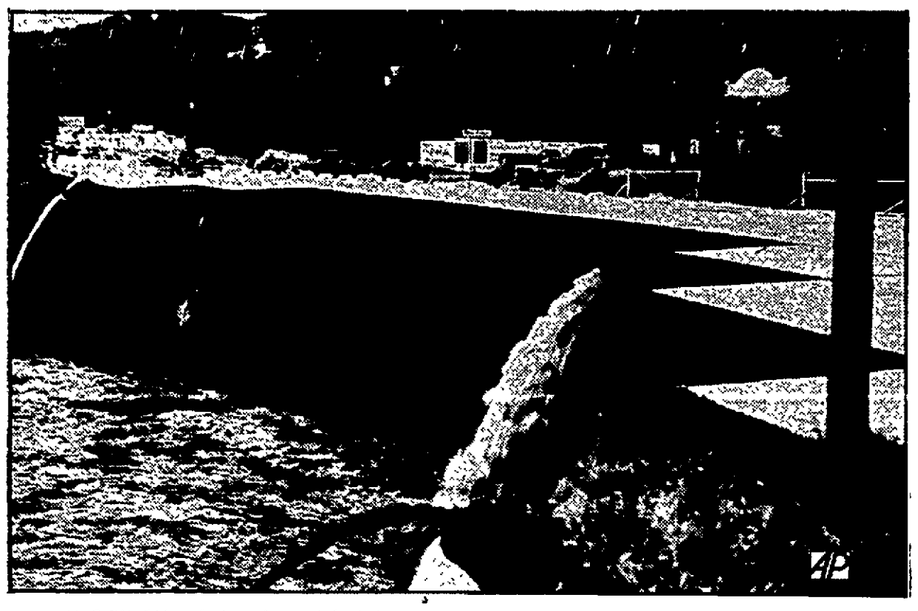
The Oney Johnston Post of the American Legion will entertain the auxiliary at a meeting Monday night in the clubhouse.

The Appleton High school orchestra under the direction of Jay I. Williams will play. Final committee reports of the carnival held recently in Armory G will be given. Following the business session, cards will be played.

Mother Gets Custody of Child in Divorce Case

Florence E. Armstrong, 21, Ontanogan, Mich., was given a divorce on charges of cruel and inhuman treatment and non-support from Donald K. Armstrong, 22, Devils Lake, by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court Friday afternoon. The couple married April 25, 1935, and separated in September, 1936. The mother was given custody of an only child.



BOULEVARD IS WASHED AWAY BY CALIFORNIA FLOOD

A section of Ventura Boulevard leading into Los Angeles as it appeared following recession of Southern California's disastrous flood. An aftermath of a six-day rainstorm, the flood left thousands homeless and some authorities believed the death toll might reach 200. Unofficial estimates of damage were as high as $25,000,000.

Farm Hands are Urged To Register for Work At Employment Office

A number of good openings for farm hands are available at the Wisconsin State Employment Service office, F. R Gehrke, manager, said today.

"Farmers who will need help for spring work soon are reporting to us right along, but we have not had enough response yet from persons who are interested in obtaining the work," Gehrke said.

Both single men who wish such employment and couples seeking farm work should register at the office immediately, the manager stated. Last year the office could not fill the requests from farmers for workmen.

Violence Renewed in Walkout at Tannery

Milwaukee—(AP)—Violence flared again today at the strikebound A. F. Gallun and Sons Corporation tannery, three pickets being arrested after a disturbance set off when non-striking employes left the plant at noon.

One man, police said, threw a pop bottle through the window of an automobile of a plant employe.

Seventy-five pickets jeered at 25 policemen stationed about the plant. Sympathizers stood nearby and shouted encouragement to the pickets

As was the case a week ago when there was a Saturday disturbance, a CIO leader—this time Nathan Field, organizer for the United Shoe Workers' union—stepped to a loudspeaker and shouted, "clear the way for the cars. We don't want any violence."

Notary Public Is Fined On Malfeasance Charge

Milwaukee—(AP)—John C. Weber, notary public, pleaded guilty yesterday in municipal court to 12 counts of malfeasance in that he improperly notarized the nomination papers of Gerhard A. Hagedorn, an aspirant for the circuit judgeship now held by Gustave G. Gehrz.

Judge Max Nohl fined Weber $150 on one count and suspended sentence on the others, saying "I see no wickedness in this man."

Police Seek Clues in Murder of Stenographer

Grand Rapids, Mich. —(AP)— Police continued their search today for clues in the killing of Miss Mina Dekker, 19-year-old stenographer, who died yesterday shortly after being found unconscious in the stockroom of an office where she was employed.

Dr. Simeon Leroy, coroner, reported five skull fractures. He expressed the belief she had been beaten with a hammer or other blunt instrument. The attack occurred while Miss Dekker was alone in the office.

Condition Ship To be Stationed At Kingman Reef

Old Sailing Vessel Outfitted for Service at Pacific Base

Seattle — The battered old sailing vessel, Margaret F. Sterling, long destined to a watery grave, is being refinished and will serve as a station ship for Pan-American Airway, at Kingman Reef, 1,000 miles southwest of Honolulu.

Giant clipper ships, winging their way between San Francisco and New Zealand, will use the windjammer as a supply base.

Diesel engines, propelling twin screws, are to be installed aboard the schooner as auxiliary power, but she will proudly billow her sails to the winds in the voyage to the reef, an uninhabited coral atoll, about 7 miles long and 5 miles wide.

The ship will be equipped with a short-wave wireless set, radio beam apparatus and powerful electric searchlights to direct flights of the big clipper ships.

And the name, Margaret F. Sterling, which she has borne since being shot down the greased ways in Victoria, B. C., in 1919, will give way to Four Winds.

Just before a new Douglas fir mast, 108 feet long, was lifted over the side to the vessel's deck to be fitted, her master, Capt. Halvor Mikkelsen, placed a new 10-cent piece in the heel of the big stick.

"That'll keep away the jinx," he said.

The clippers will hop from San Francisco to Honolulu, 2,410 miles; from Honolulu to Kingman Reef, 1,100 miles; from Kingman Reef to Tutuila Island of the Samoan group, 1,600 miles, and from Tutuila to Auckland, N. Z., 1,800 miles.

City Clerk Candidates File Campaign Reports

Carl J. Becher, incumbent, and Gordon Fish, both candidates for nomination to the office of city clerk in the primary election, filed blank expense reports this morning. Campaign expense reports must be filed with the city clerk the Tuesday before and the Saturday after election, March 8 and 19.

Realty Transfers

The following real estate transfers were filed today at the office of A. L. Collar, Outagamie county register of deeds:

STUDY 3 CASES

Income Tax Returns Are Due on March 15

With little more than a week remaining for persons to file their state income tax returns, the income tax office at the courthouse is the scene of unusual activity. Returns must be filed by March 15. Assistance of the personnel at the office is now confined to answering questions in order to accommodate the greatest number needing help in making out returns.

Representatives of the income tax division will be at the courthouse at Waupaca Monday to give assistance in making out their returns.

Plead Not Guilty of Assault and Battery

Gilbert Drucks, 222 Main street, Menasha, and Norbert Schaefer, 631 Paris street, Menasha, pleaded not guilty of assault and battery in municipal court yesterday afternoon and Judge Thomas H. Ryan set their trial for 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, March 14. Bonds were set at $200 each. The pair is charged with assaulting George Kuester, 370 Naymut street, at Seymour Thursday.

Suffers Foot Injury In Traffic Accident

Gerald Smith, 20, 36 Sherman place, suffered four fractured bones in his left foot when the car he was driving and another driven by E. A. Dettman, 48, 516 N. Bateman street, collided about 6:15 last night. Smith was driving west on Pacific street and Dettman east when the machines crashed, according to a police report. Both cars were damaged. Smith was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital.

New Lawrence Coach to Be Honored at Dinner

The Milwaukee Lawrence Men's club will give a dinner in honor of Bernie Heselton, new Lawrence football coach, at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening, March 9, in the City club at Milwaukee.

Russ Winnie, radio sports announcer, will be one of the speakers at the dinner. The Lawrance alumni office is making arrangements for alumni from this vicinity who wish to attend.

Prim, Radtke Attend State Safety Meeting

Chief of Police George T. Prim and Sergeant Carl Radtke of the police department traffic squad attended the safety conference at Madison yesterday. The conference was called by the state highway commission to discuss safety measures and projects. Chief Prim also attended a meeting of the executive committee of the Wisconsin State Chiefs of Police association while at Madison.

Cruel Treatment Is Charged in Divorce

Annebelle Eggers, 30, 509 N. Morrison street, this morning was awarded a divorce from Harry R. Eggers, 41, St. Paul, Minn., by Judge Edgar V. Werner in circuit court. She charged cruel and inhuman treatment. The couple married at Waukegan, Ill., July 22, 1929, and separated in January, 1936. She was given custody of two minor children and awarded $20 per month for their support with an additional $10 per month alimony.

Rotary, Exchange Clubs Win Volleyball Matches

The Rotary club beat the Lions three games and the Exchange club swept a 3-game series with the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce in volleyball matches last night in the Y. M. C. A.

The matches were the first to be played in the Inter-club Olympics that are being sponsored by the Y. M. C. A.

Sheriff Resigns Following Probe

submitted his resignation to the county clerk of his county that a new sheriff be appointed to fill the unexpired term. As soon as there are further results available concerning other matters connected with the entire investigation, they will be brought to your attention in a further report."

The Florence county investigation was ordered by Governor LaFollette after he had received a letter from Raymond Rapp, state beverage tax enforcement officer, charging that slot machines and brothels were being operated in the county and that operators were paying for protection.

RESIGNATION ON WAY

Florence, Wis.—(AP)—The resignation of Sheriff Anthony A. Grell, who requested that it become effective as soon as a successor could be appointed, was on the way to Governor LaFollette today.

The resignation was tendered to County Clerk W. T. O'Connor, as the law prescribes, late yesterday. It is the clerk's duty to dispatch it to the governor.

Grell's resignation came a short time after representatives of the attorney general and the state tax commission visited Florence county to investigate conditions following receipt of complaints that corruption, gambling and vice existed.

Asked for comment later, Grell said he resigned because he had "been taking more dirt than the $50-a-month job is worth."

"Tired of Abuse"

"There is no vice or graft in the county that I know of," he asserted. "I don't know what is behind all of this but I know I have been working 24 hours a day for more than two years and I am tired of taking this abuse."

Grell said that on occasions he had serviced slot machines but denied he had any financial interest in them.

"After all," he said, "I am a good mechanic and I don't see anything wrong in making a little money on the side when I'm only paid $50 a month as sheriff. I've got to live."

A few days after the investigators had questioned numerous citizens, state agents raided several taverns in the "little Hurley" district near here and arrested two tavernkeepers on charges of violating laws concerning the sale of unstamped liquor.

Gehrmann Ready To Launch Attack Upon Monopolies

Badger Congressman Says Independents Being Put Out of Business

Washington —(AP)—Representative Gehrmann (P-Wis.) has primed his guns for an attack on monopolies.

Gehrmann will air his views soon with a talk on the house floor. He already has written the department of justice inquiring whether chain stores, packing concerns, and other purveyors of milk and dairy products are violating the fair trades practice act by using milk as a leader to draw patrons.

"The monopolies," said Gehrmann, "are conspiring to put the independent merchant out of business."

He said canned milk is being used as a ladder by packing house store units and by chain stores, with the result prices of fluid milk are far below the cost of production.

"The cooperatives must go into the market and compete with this type of business," Gehrmann said in a discussion of his contention, "and they simply can't do it. It is putting the cooperatives out of business and eventually, the price losses come out of the farmer's pockets."

Hits Canning Industry

Gehrmann said marketing agreements usually work to the detriment of the farmer since they regulate prices paid producers but contain no regulatory provision for selling prices.

The canning industry, too, he said, suffers from such trade policies by the chain stores and the independent canner is injured.

If these practices are continued, Gehrmann declared, the independent canner will be forced out of business and "the farmer as well as the consumer will be at the mercy of monopoly."

Representative Sauthoff (P-Wis.) has been advised by the secretary of agriculture that the suggestion one of the four agricultural research laboratories be located at Madison, Wis., will be seriously considered.

"Your suggestions will be taken into account in arriving at a final decision," Secretary Wallace wrote Sauthoff.

Wallace said great interest has been shown in location of the laboratories and many inquiries have been received but "in justice to all the department is deferring commitments until all the facts can be most carefully studied."

One laboratory will be established in each of the four major producing areas and "a careful study and appraisal of many farm commodities and their products and by-products must be undertaken in the study to determine the best locations," Wallace explained.

Wants Rules Modified

Senator Duffy (D-Wis.) has urged Secretary of Commerce Roper to modify regulations governing operation of small boats on the Wolf river in Winnebago, Outagamie and Waupaca counties.

Leland J. Steiger, Waupaca county clerk, informed the senator that small motor boat owners in that area are compelled to observe regulations that are applied on the Great Lakes and Lake Winnebago where boats of much larger size operate.

Duffy, in his letter to Roper, agreed with Steiger that the regulations should be modified to exempt boats of less than 16 feet in length on which a low-powered motor is used, from regulations calling for life preservers, lights, horns, etc.

Steiger said if necessary, 3,000 persons would petition Roper to modify the regulations.

The house committee on coinage, weights and measures will begin hearing March 15 on Sauthoff's bill to standardize cans and jars in which food is sold. Sauthoff's plan would eliminate the several score sizes of cans now in use and limit such containers to about 10 sizes.

Cheese Day Success

The Wisconsin cheese day this week was a big success. Not only did it go a long ways toward publicizing the Badger State's cheese output, but it also attracted big crowds to the house and senate restaurants for a taste of the various types of cheese.

Senator Duffy put on another party in his office for members of the senate and a number of them dropped in during the afternoon to sample everything in sight. The Wisconsin Swiss cheese caught the fancy of chairman Marvin Jones of the house agriculture committee. He wanted to know how they put the holes in it and wondered if they blew them in with an air pump.

Representative Schneider (P-Wis.) took another shot at the May bill this week. The measure, another version of how to take the profits out of war, calls for heavy taxation in war-time but specifies no figure.

"The bill in its title sets forth an aim to 'promote peace,'" Schneider said. "This bill does not promote peace. It is a war propaganda document. Its principal accomplishment will be to give impetus to war, so that the war-makers can bring us a little quicker to the next slaughter, instead of promoting peace.

"So far as carrying out what appears to be the wish of World war veterans—universal conscription and taking profits out of war—this bill is a sham and a fraud. It fails utterly to do this."

FOUR KILLED IN BREWERY BLAST

At least four persons were killed and 15 injured when the Horton Brewery in upper Manhattan, N. Y., was wrecked by a series of explosions and fire. Windows a mile away were shattered by the blast. This picture shows firemen attempting to quench the blaze that followed.

Remedial Reading Will be Topic at Teachers' Meeting

Miss Ruth M. Whitfield, supervisor of remedial reading at Winnetka High school, Ill., will be the principal speaker at the English sectional meeting at the Northeastern Wisconsin Education association convention here April 8, according to David Bent, publicity director.

Miss Whitfield's subject will be "Forestalling Failure by Remedial Reading." A panel discussion will follow. Miss Theresa O'Brien, an English instructor at Fond du Lac High school, will preside at the meeting.

Three speakers have been secured for the general session which will open at 9 o'clock in the morning at the Rio theater. The speakers will be: Edwin E. Witte, professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin, who will talk on "Social Security"; Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, radio's tune detective, who will speak on "Adventures of a Tune Detective"; and Captain Patrick Smith, journalist and adventurer, who will talk on "The Far East."

DEATHS

STEVEN BOBB

Steven Bobb, 85, Clintonville, died about 2:30 Friday afternoon at the home of his son, Joseph, Clintonville. He had been ill for two weeks.

Born in Germany Oct. 14, 1852, Bobb came to America with his parents at four years of age and settled in Lawrence, Kansas. He moved to a farm north of Clintonville 60 years ago and to the city about 33 years ago where he had lived since.

Survivors are: three daughters, Sister Mary Constance, Oneida, Mrs. Thomas Campbell, Clintonville, and Mrs. Walter Scott, St. Francis; five sons, Joseph, Clintonville, Conrad, Shawano, Michael, St. Francis, August, Milwaukee, and John, Menasha; two sisters, Mrs. Casper King, Oshkosh, and Mrs. Fred Easton, Neenah; 27 grandchildren and 4 great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 8:30 Monday morning at the Heuer Funeral home, Clintonville, and at 9 o'clock at St. Rose Catholic church with the Rev. Nicholas Diedrich in charge. Burial will be in the parish cemetery.

MRS. JACOB MILLERTZ

Mrs. Jacob Millertz, 70, Oshkosh, formerly of New London, died at her home Friday evening. She had been ill a week.

Born at Whitewater Sept. 18, 1867, she moved to New London with her parents and lived there until 1924 when she moved to Oshkosh.

Survivors are the widower; two brothers, Edward Freiburger, New London, and John Freiburger, Bartlesville, Okla., and one grandchild.

Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Monday morning at Oshkosh and burial will be in Floral Hill cemetery, New London.

MORIARITY FUNERAL

Funeral services for John Moriarity, 67, Bear Creek, who died Thursday evening after a long illness, will be held at 9:30 Monday morning at the Cline and Learman Funeral home, New London, and at 10 o'clock at St. Mary church, Bear Creek, with the Rev. J. G. DeVries in charge. Burial will be in the parish cemetery. The body will be at the Cline and Learman Funeral home until the time of the funeral.

It Is Said--

That when teachers at Wilson Junior High school call a pupil by the name of Miller, they say the name very quietly or risk being the center of a riot. For there are thirteen students named Miller in the junior high school in addition to one in the fifth grade and one in the sixth grade. Of twelve home rooms at the school only four lack a student named Miller.

Wilson Pupils Present 1-Act Play in Assembly

"A Day in a Colonial Home," a 1-act play, was presented by pupils of the seventh grade at an assembly gathering Friday morning at Wilson Junior High school. Miss Hilda Kippenhan, teacher, directed the cast.

Following are the names of pupils who took part in the play: Ruth Robertson as Jenny Lewis; Betty Pogrant as Abigail; Betty Hooyman as grandmother; Betty Tauzin as Mistress Dodd; Betty Richter, as Mary Ann; Murriel Prue as the minister; Ralph De-Decker as Sam Dodd; John Davis as John Lewis; Gerrold Smreina as Mr. Andrews; and Kenneth Retza as the Indigo peddler.

Today Is Last Chance To Register for Voting

Forty-three new registrations were received and 43 changes in addresses were recorded for the primary election by the city clerk last night and this morning.

This afternoon will be the last chance for non-registered voters to get their names on polling lists. The clerk's office will remain open until 5 o'clock this afternoon to receive registrations.

Work on polling lists for the various wards and precincts will begin Monday morning.

2 Herds Tied for Lead in February Milk Production

Holsteins Owned by Lester Krahn, Mrs. Anna Geenen Set High Marks

Grade Holstein herds of Lester Krahn, Osborn and Mrs. Anna Geenen and Sons, Freedom, tied for high production honors last month in the Outagamie County Dairy Herd Improvement association, No. 6, with an average production of 39.9 pounds of butterfat per cow.

The third high herd owned by Frank Appleton had an average of 35.4 pounds of butterfat per cow. Fourth high herd was that of Fred Hoffman with an average of 34 pounds of fat per cow.

A cow from the Geenen herd produced 1,456 pounds of milk containing 74.3 pounds of butterfat for the best individual average. Second was a cow owned by Alvin Prelipp. It produced 1,665 pounds of milk containing 69.9 pounds of butterfat. Third was a cow owned by Frank Appleton with 1,559 pounds of milk containing 65.5 pounds of butterfat. A Roy Thomas cow produced 1,042 pounds of milk containing 60.4 pounds of butterfat for fourth high.

Alvin Prelipp had eight cows producing over 40 pounds of butterfat. Sixty-two cows of the association produced over 40 pounds of butterfat during the month.

Following are the owners and number of cows producing over 40 pounds of fat for the month: Elmer Kimball 2, Fred Krahn 2, John Finder 1, Lester Krahn 3, Alvin Prelipp 8, John Appleton 4, Mrs. Anna Geenen and Sons 6, Frank Appleton 3, Fred Hoffman 6, Herman Beyer 2, Nick Vandevort 2, Theodore Van Boxtel 1, John Philipsen 2, Christ Cleven 1, George Langenhuizen 1, Bernard Vanden Huevel 5, Willard Vanden Huevel 4, Orville Appleton 2, George Peotter 1, Roy Thomas 4 and Joseph Rusch 1.

EMPIRE FOR A LADY
BY ALAN LEMAY

SYNOPSIS: Our love for a young English girl has kept my uncle, James Clyde, and myself (Paul Thorne) in tropical Balingong through a Dyak revolt and Malay defeat. Christine Forrester, visioning a great empire here, has made Clyde rajah. Clyde antagonizes the sultan's representative, Rentongen, by trying to end the traditional depredations of the Malays. War threatens. In the pouring rain we are paddling down-river with Christine and her sick brother who are finally leaving this fever-ridden spot.

Chapter 36
Whanging Nerve Strain

"YOU'VE heard Rentongen talk," I said. "You know how bitter he's become.

"I've heard him often," Christine agreed. "But — lately it has seemed to me that we have heard very little from him. Perhaps I've been foolish to hope; but I've been hoping that the Malays were becoming reconciled. It's weeks since we've had a really vigorous complaint from Rentongen."

"That's just what worries me," I told her. "Something is happening in the background; I see evidences of it, but I can't find out what it is I know what I think it is. Something has happened to Mantusen. We haven't heard from Mantusen, or Saremba, since Mantusen sailed. I think Mantusen's deal with Clyde angered his sultan It's Rentongen now who represents Massin Ali — and I think he has his orders."

"I've thought of that," Christine admitted. "I've thought of it often. We should have heard from Saremba long ago"

"I think were going to hear from them in a way that we won't like."

"And all this is what you're making me run away from," Christine said.

Her voice lashed at me hysterically, like a whip across the face. "You've got to stop talking to me like that!"

"I'm sorry."

We were coming to the mouth of the Siderong, and I could smell salt water. For a moment some trick of the torches showed us the jungle wall, a black lacquer palisade webbed over by giant creepers. Our roof, was beginning to soak through, putting an occasional drop of luke-warm water down our necks.

Perhaps that cramped shelter of matting over our heads was what had given me the sense of being near to Christine for a while; whatever it was, that feeling dropped away as we now crossed Siderong bar. There was open sea ahead, and Christine would soon be beyond it; but she would hardly be farther away from me than she was already.

I said, "We're going to pull this thing through. I promise you that. I admit I don't know how we're going to do it. But it will be done."

Her face was as lovely as I had ever seen it, but it was no longer close to me. For a little while it had seemed to me that I could have reached out and touched it. Not with my hands alone, for that would have been easy enough, there in the bankong—but with a feeling of possession and a knowledge that her face was held between my fingers because she wanted it to be. That was all gone now; this was Anthony Forrester's daughter again, with her grave clear eyes set on a future in which I could see no part for myself.

"Clyde will win this," I said. "That is a hard man to stop."

Christine faltered. "There is so much danger ahead—"

"That's what makes a victory out of it. Otherwise it would be just a trade."

"Yes," she said slowly, 'that is true. This will be the greatest

Kimberly Noses Out Seymour in Cage Meet

Papermakers to Meet Brillion in Championship Tilt

HORTONVILLE WINS

Final Class C Tourney Games to be Played This Evening

KIMBERLY DISTRICT CLASS C TOURNAMENT LAST NIGHT'S SCORES
Hortonville 26, Hilbert 18.
Brillion 31, Winneconne 25.
Kimberly 21, Seymour 14.

TONIGHT'S FINALS
7:00—Freedom versus Hortonville.
8:00—Seymour versus Winneconne.
9:00—Kimberly versus Brillion, (Championship).

BY RAY MAUTHE

KIMBERLY — Kimberly and Brillion high school basketball team survived the semi-finals of play last night in the District Class "C" Tournament and will battle for championship honors tonight at the high school gymnasium.

The first game of the evening showed Hortonville downing Hilbert in a hotly contested game by a score of 26 to 18. In the second game, Brillion came through with a win over Winneconne by a score of 31 to 25.

The final game showed Kimberly defeating Seymour in the hardest fought battle of the evening by a score of 21 to 14. Tonight's final games will start at 7 o'clock with Freedom, winners Thursday night against Hortonville, victors over Hilbert in Friday's game. At 8 o'clock Seymour and Winneconne, last night's loosers will battle while at 9 o'clock the featured game of the evening will have Kimberly and Brillion in the championship battle.

Krueger Scores First

In the Kimberly-Seymour game Krueger of the Papermakers took the tip off and raced down the floor to the loop the first field goal of the game. On the next play, Patch of the Indians fouled Krueger in the act of shooting and he cooly made two points on the free shots. Vanden Boogaard put one through the hoops for a 6 to 0 count for the Papermakers.

The Indians took time out to hold a pow wow. La Berge fouled Zuiches and the Indians had their point while Vanden Boogaard dribbled up the length of the floor for his second field goal just as the quarter ended with the Papermakers in front 8 to 1.

Vanden Boogaard opened the second quarter with a nice rebound shot while Zuiches of the Indians made two points after being fouled by VandeBoogaard. Van Vuren made good on his shot after being charged by Fieweger and Barrand bumped Foote and another toss was good for the Indians. Denny, Indian forward made the first field goal of the night for Seymour which was followed a moment later by another bucket by Zuiches.

On the next play Zuiches fouled Van Dyke who added another point for the Papermakers. Vanden Boogaard who was pushed by Denny made his point to give Coach Hamman's boys the lead at the end of the half 12 to 8.

Pots Long One

In the second half Vanden Boogaard put a beauty long shot count to add two points for the Papermakers. Vandy then fouled Veitch and the extra point added for the Indians. Weyenberg was all alone under the basket taking a pass from Van Dyke for another marker during the period. Zuiches added a free throw for the Indians as the quarter ended with the Papermakers still leading by a score of 16 to 10.

Foote dropped one in the bucket to open the final quarter from mid-court. LaBerge then added a bucket from the side court for the Papermakers. Pasch of the Indians made good his gift shot after be-

Finn Pounds Baer To Technical K. O.

Gunnar Barlund Erases Buddy From Heavyweight Picture

New York —(AP)— "In the confusion," Dazzy Vance once remarked, "I found myself in the World series."

Ramo's mishap gave the battle an authentic light-comedy touch. As Referee Billy Cavanagh pushed the beaten Baer to his corner in the seventh round, Ramo leaped into the ring to greet Barlund, tripped on one of the ropes and fell, flat and out, with a sprained ankle.

To hardened ringsiders, Gunnar's technical knockout victory in 1:36 of the seventh was as astounding as the sight of a trainer being carried out of the arena. A short-ender in the wagering, Barlund carried the fight to the massive younger brother of Max and took every round but the first, which he lost on Baer's stinging punching and his own low blows. Thereafter it was all Barlund.

Paul Damski, the Finn's manager, told one and all he wanted the winner of next Friday's Tommy Farr-Max Baer bout as Barlund's next foe.

BRILLION BEATS WINNECONNE

Report Baugh Ready to Chuck Pro Grid Career

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK — (AP) — Too bad Glenn Cunningham can't run in the Santa Anita handicap today. . . . Our dough would ride on him. . . . Sammy Baugh, the football pitcher, is reported about ready to chuck the pro game and take an assistant coaching job at the University of North Carolina. . . . Insiders say Joe DiMaggio will give Colonel Ruppert his autograph for the $25,000 the club offered and that Lou Gehrig will settle for $37,500.

Rollie Hemsley, if he hews to the straight and narrer, may change those Cleveland Indians from just another ball club to a flag contender. . . . Gunnar Barlund, who kayoed Buddy Baer last night, took to the ring on the advice of Paavo Nurmi, who used to do quite a bit of running around these parts. . . . Freddy Lindstrom is showing all his old-time fire as he drills with the Giants at Baton Rouge. . . . He's slated for Jersey City, but if he maintains his present clip it's even money he'll wind up the season on the big time. . . . War Admiral should breeze home first in the $50,000 Widener handicap at Hialeah today, with Tatterdemalion second. . . .

From what you see in the midwestern newspapers, Jake Townsend of Michigan must be one whale of a basketball player. . . . Joe Glenn, court jester of the Yankees, got in bad on his first day at St. Pete by breaking the favorite war clubs of George Selkirk and Bill Dickey. . . .

Ray Dumont, president of the National semi-pro baseball congress, and Tris Speaker, the old grey-eagle of major league fame, are chewing their cigars to shreds because of a headline slip in a Milwaukee newspaper. . . . Dumone appointed Speaker national director of state tournaments. . . . The newspaper announced: "Speaker to Head Softball Congress." . . . Ouch!

Happy O'Brien, a golf caddy, says the most liberal tipper he encountered was Al Capone. . . . Happy says Al never shelled out less than 15 potatoes for 18 holes. . . . Jake Atz, who piloted Fort Worth to six consecutive Texas league pennants, is in line for a job with the Detroit farm system. . . .

RESULTS LAST NIGHT
Indiana 45, Illinois 35.

GAMES TONIGHT
Chicago at Ohio State.
Wisconsin at Minnesota.
Purdue at Northwestern.

CHICAGO —(AP)— Purdue's high geared Boilermakers go after their fifth undisputed Big Ten basketball championship tonight.

Purdue, which has won four titles outright and shared in seven others, opposes Northwestern's Wildcats at Evanston and victory for the Boilermakers will give them sole possession of the 1938 crown with a record of 10 victories and two defeats.

In last Monday's game with Ohio State, Northwestern lost the services of Captain Fred Trenkle, who suffered a fractured arm, and the Wildcats, without Trenkle, aren't the same club.

To share in the title with Purdue, Northwestern must whip the Boilermakers tonight and then defeat Michigan in the closing game of the campaign Monday night.

Seek 9th Win In Row

Minnesota will try for its ninth straight victory at the expense of Wisconsin and the Gophers will be pulling for Northwestern to defeat Purdue. In the event Northwestern defeats Purdue, a victory tonight over the Badgers would give Minnesota a share of the title.

Chicago's Marons go against Ohio State in the third battle on the evening's program.

Indiana and Illinois wound up their schedules last night with Indiana winning 45 to 35 as Ernie Andres scored 13 field goals and four free throws for 30 points, a new all-time Big Ten single game mark. The performance cracked the 29 point performance first achieved in 1933 by Joe Rieff of Northwestern and tied twice by Young of Purdue and once by Lewis (Pick) Dehner of Illinois.

Andres bagged a field goal with only a play remaining to hang up the new mark. The Hoosier victory resulted in both teams ending play with records of four wins and eight defeats.

Kimberly Cagers Meet Neopit Indians Sunday

The Kimberly A. A. cagers will meet the Neopit Indians at 2:30 Sunday afternoon at Kimberly clubhouse in what is expected to be one of the toughest battles of the season. The last time the Indians played Kimberly, the Papermakers won by one point just as the whistle blew. The Pow Wow team has always given Kimberly plenty of opposition and reports are that this season they have one of their best squads in years.

Kimberly still is undefeated and in 18 games have taken all victories in and outside of the Fox River valley. Members of the Kimberly squad are: Elmer Vander Velden, Chub Vander Velden, Norb and Joe Gossens, Paul Albers, Buck LeMay, Swen Bowman and Art Hofkins.

MAY RETIRE

Orlando, Fla.— (AP) —Joe Stripp, veteran St. Louis infielder, said today he may retire from organized baseball unless the Cardinals meet his demand for a $10,000 salary.

"I've got an offer in New Jersey to play semi-pro ball for $7,000 a year," he declared, "and at that I'd have to work only three days a week."

GREEN BAY—The West Green Bay cagers clicked on their long shots, threw up a tight defense, and successfully protected their lead by stalling in the last few minutes to beat Appleton 24-18 here last night.

Behind 12-10 at the half, the Terrors lost their last game in the third quarter when they counted only two points on free throws by Bob Bailey and Rogers.

West, with Wilson pushing in two rebound shots, scored six points in the third frame and then stemmed an Appleton rally early in the fourth.

The Green Bay cagers used a long-shooting offense during the game and, except for Wilson's two close shots in the third quarter, made their points from out on the court and sank eight out of the eleven free throws awarded them.

Bob Bailey, Terror guard, and Besch, center, were standouts in the Appleton team's attack. Bailey's two field goals and two free throws gave him scoring honors. Besch shoved in two baskets, but missed a number of good scoring chances. Wilson paced the West squad with three buckets and five free throws.

The first quarter of the game was slow, ending with Appleton in the lead 4-3. West started hitting its long shots in the second frame and nearing its end, with the score tied 10-all, Anderson tossed one in to put his team ahead.

After their dismal third quarter play, the Terrors came to life early in the fourth. Bob Bailey and Besch broke through for baskets and the Terrors were within three points of West, 19-16.

Storzer swished a long one, but Powers netted his only goal of the evening to make the count 21-18. With three minutes remaining, West took the ball and kept it for two minutes until Oliver fouled Wilson. The Green Bay center made good on the free throw. A few seconds later West regained the ball and stalled until the game ended.

CHAIRS COP, 28-19

Sheboygan — Although it took the Sheboygan High school two full periods to establish a lead over the Fond du Lac High school quintet, the Redmen took a 28 to 19 decision.

Unleasing a long range attack that drove their opponents to cover, the Sheboygan five handed the Cardinals their twenty-fifth consecutive defeat. For the Sheboygan team the shooting of their ace scorer, Keppel, who connected for six baskets, featured. Laack, with eight points, followed.

SPILL E. GREEN BAY

Oshkosh — Oshkosh Indians subdued East Green Bay 27 to 18, to scramble the Fox River Valley conference race, here last night. The Red Devils took a 5 to 0 lead in the first quarter but the Oshkosh scoring machine started to function and snared a 6 to 5 lead at the end of the initial period and the Indians never relinquished their advantage. Clancy copped scoring honors with 11 points on four field goals and three gift shots while Erdlitz was high for Oshkosh with two buckets and six free throws for ten points.

Harper Ties Revolta in St. Petersburg Tourney

St. Petersburg, Fla. —(AP)— One of the year's best stretch drives gave Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., a shot at his biggest golfing purse today.

Win or lose in his 18-hole playoff with Johnny Revolta for first place in the $3,000 St. Petersburg open tournament, the 23-year-old Harper was assured of more money than he has collected in one tournament since he turned professional.

Starting the final 36 holes yesterday seven strokes behind Revolta, Harper blasted par in successive rounds of 69 and 68 to overtake the leader. The 72-hole score for each was 282, two under standard figures.

Third place and $350 went to Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa.

Notre Dame Defeats Marquette, 39 to 28

South Bend, Ill.—(AP)— A 15-point scoring spree during the first seven minutes of the second half enabled Notre Dame to defeat Marquette here last night, 39-28. It was the 18th consecutive home victory for the Irish in two seasons and avenged a two-point defeat at Milwaukee last month.

Takes Dare and Swims In 'Chilly' Fox River

George Stewart, a resident of the Y. M. C. A. dormitory, gained an honor of some kind when he dove into the Fox river yesterday in a driving snowstorm on a dare advanced by Charles "Chuck" Sample, Appleton High school grid and track star. Stewart, who is known for his underwater swimming accomplishments, said the water was "chilly." He claims to be the first one to swim in the river this year and most people agree that he's welcome to the title.

Badger Tracksters Beat Hawkeye Squad

Madison —(AP)— The University of Wisconsin track team kept its four-year dual meet victory record unblemished with a 52 to 34 win against Iowa in the field house last night.

Charles Fenske, Wisconsin captain, was the individual standout, scoring 10 points on victories in the mile and 880 yard runs. He broke his own record for the mile in the field house with a 4:17.3 performance, clipping 3.4 seconds from the old mark.

HAROLD ROESSLER whacked a 266 game and Wally Horn rolled a 674 series to pace keglers in the Merchants Bowling league last night at the Arcade alleys.

Weyenberg Dairys shot the season's top marks in the Merchants league to win three games from the Appleton News. The Dairys cracked a 1,183 game and 3,126 series. Horn led the winners with a 674 series on games of 264, 208 and 202 while Stingle hit a 200 game and 512 series to lead the News. Braeger hit a 222 and Foster shot a 201 game for the Dairys. Masterson rapped a 216 game for the News.

Schuessler Weather Strips won two games from Brettschneiders and remained in first place in the league. Lefty Kugler rolled a 486 to head the winners and Clarence Schroeder smashed a 422 total to lead the losers.

Two games were won by Hooks and Tonys over Al's Taverns. Hooks Pankratz smashed a 237 game and 607 series and paced the winners while Ted Jansen rolled a 215 game and 606 series to lead the Taverns.

Win Three Straight

Brandt V-8's won three straight games from the Johnson Hatters. Louis Wassmann cracked a 565 series to lead Brandts while Bob Deuster rolled a 568 series to pace the Hatters. A. Johnson got a 240 game. Sauer shot a 205 game and Nehls rolled a 207 game for the losers.

Two games were won by Unmuth Drugs over the Company D squad. M. Hupka hit a 233 game and 607 series to lead the Drugs while J. Streble cracked a 212 game and 606 series to pace the losers. D. Pegel shot a 211 for the Drugs. R. Schmidt smashed a 225 game for the losers.

Roy Reinke cracked a 233 game and 603 series to lead the Hormel Good Foods to a 2-game win over the Boot Blacks. Dr. Kolb hit a 522 series to lead the losers.

Miller High Life keglers won two games from the Steenis Transfers. Harold Roessler cracked a 266 game and 594 series to head the winners while Eddie Sternard rolled a 546 series and paced the Transfers. Stark shot an even 200 for Millers.

The Telephones won two games from Wald Optometrists. Frank Kunitz shot a 522 series to head the Phones while Joe Doerfler rapped a 264 game and 626 series for Walds. C. Doerfler hit a 216 game for Walds.

All-Stars Bow to Akron Goodyears

Oshkosh Quint Loses in Final Tilt of National Title Series

Akron, Ohio — The Goodyears won the championship of the National Basketball league here tonight by defeating the Oshkosh All-Stars, 35 to 27, in the deciding clash of a three-game series.

Oshkosh, Western division champions, got off to a ragged start and trailed throughout the entire contest, marked by some of the roughest play ever seen in a cage battle here. The All-Stars never hit the stride they attained in whipping Goodyear here in the second game of the series Thursday, 39-31. The Akron team had taken the series opener at Oshkosh, 29-28.

Stars Trail at Half

Goodyear rolled up a 14 to 4 advantage in the first quarter and at halftime was still far in front, 24 to 13. Their rivals slowed down in the third period, which closed with the Wings ahead by 10 points, 29-19.

Oshkosh crept to within five points in the first three and a half minutes of the final quarter, but couldn't break down Goodyear's stalling tactics.

Vander Meullen, Oshkosh forward, and Wilson Fitts, substitute Goodyear guard, were banished from the game in the second period for slugging, while Wes Bennett of the Wings and Ray Adams of the All-Stars were ejected in the final quarter on the five foul route.

Oshkosh made only seven of 16 free throws, while Goodyear converted 11 of its 23 chances. The officials called a total of 34 personal fouls, 21 against Oshkosh.

Northern State League Moguls to Map 1938 Season

Night Ball to be Discussed At Meeting Sunday Afternoon at Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — Moguls of the Northern State league are scheduled to meet here Sunday at the Hotel Kaukauna and chart their 1938 baseball course. Vice President Bernard J. Neumann, Two Rivers, will preside at the conference, opening at 2:15 p. m.

In 1937, the Northern State wheel functioned with six spokes, namely, Green Bay, Kaukauna, Kimberly, Little Chute, Manitowoc and Two Rivers. All these clubs are set for the coming year, it is understood.

Invitations to the conference have also been extended to Clintonville, New London, Neenah-Menasha, Fond du Lac and several other cities in the Northern State circuit sector.

There has been some talk of enlarging the loop to eight teams and playing mid-week night ball as well as the usual Sunday and holiday games. If this setup is approved, it will be possible to arrange double the number of contests, playing 40 instead of 20.

Have Lighting Plants

Three of the franchise holding clubs, Kaukauna, Kimberly and Green Bay, have lighting plants. Clintonville and New London are also equipped for 'starlight' baseball.

This will be the third season of Northern State league ball. The circuit was formed in 1936 when Green Bay and Kaukauna withdrew from the Wisconsin State loop and cast their lot with Two Rivers, Manitowoc, Oshkosh and Neenah-Menasha in the new circuit.

Last season Little Chute and Kimberly joined the loop with the Bays, Icebergs, Kaws and Ships as the holdover teams. The league had a most successful year with a 'blanket' finish which brought the fans out to the parks in droves. Green Bay won the playoff series from Kaukauna, winners of the first half.

The Northern State operates mainly with 'home product' players. The development of 'local boys' has tended to greatly increase the interest of the fans and this has built up a neighborly rivalry which has produced healthy gate returns all around the circuit.

Class D Baseball Loop To be Discussed at Meet

Sheboygan —(AP)— Representatives from about a dozen Wisconsin cities are expected here tomorrow for the second meeting called in the projected organization of a professional Class D baseball league.

Harry Smith of Marion, Ohio, president of the Ohio State league assisting the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues in promotional work, will preside.

Cities expected to be represented are Sheboygan, Appleton-Kaukauna, Two Rivers, Manitowoc, Green Bay, La Crosse, Racine, Madison, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac and Wisconsin Rapids.

KAUKAUNA— Basketball fans who like a free scoring game were in their element last night at the high school gymnasium as the Neenah Rockets ran rough-shod over the Kaws to go home with a 49 to 24 victory. After the Neenah five had piled up margins of 11 to 3 at the quarter and 28 to 10 at the half, they devoted their energies in the last two periods to reaching the 50 mark. In spite of the constant exhortations of Coach Ole Jorgenson from the bench to do just that, they were balked by one point, making eight points in the third period and 13 in the last. Kaukauna made two points in the first quarter and seven in each of the last three frames.

Hesselman Stars

Jack Hesselman led the Neenah attack with six field goals and three gift shots, followed by Dan Schmidt with five two-pointers and a free throw. For the Kaws Bill Alger, freshman center, swished through four baskets and added a brace of charity tosses.

All the players of both squads saw action. Jorgenson used 11, and Coach Paul Little sent in 12. A total of 50 free throws were shot by both teams, the Rockets making 13 of 26 and the Kaws sinking 10 of 24.

Beyond the matter of statistics not much remains to be said. The Kaws took their only lead of the game when Cliff Vanevenhoven converted on Schmidt's personal, but after Kettering came through with a follow up shot and then dribbled in for another the Rockets coasted along. The process was much the same as in other Neenah-Kaukauna tilts—the Rockets employed a fast break, took a few chances, gained an early margin, and then had things their own way when the Kaws began to get too anxious.

Close Shots

Most of the 18 Neenah buckets were scored from close in, on pot shots or rebounds. The Kaws, on the other hand, made only two buckets from inside of the free throw circle. The greatest Neenah accuracy came in the second half when they ran their score from 31 to 45, holding the Kaws to no points. Bloch's free throw broke the scoring drouth, and in the rest of the game the Kaws scored seven points to Neenah's four. Bill Peterson and Carl Giordana weakened the Kaw lineup when they left the game early in the last period with four personals.

Jack Hesselman and Schmidt stood out for the Rockets, both in their eye for the basket and in their floor play. For the Kaws Bill Alger, in addition to scoring ten points, was the best ball handler.

NEW LONDON WINS

BY ALVIN J. BRAULT

New London—Shaking off a bad case of listlessness after half time, the New London High school cage team rallied to defeat the Clintonville Truckers, 24 to 16 in the last Northeastern Wisconsin conference game of the season at the Washington High school gym last night.

Clintonville led at the half, 6 to 9. The Truckers scored only two buckets during the whole game, the first in the second quarter by Hurley and the second in the closing minutes of the game by Bovee. However, the visitors were deadly at the free throw line, scoring 12 out of 14 attempts, seven in the first half. Schoenicke, forward, potted five.

The Stacymen dropped but two buckets during the first half of the game, running around aimlessly against Clintonville's zone defense and handling the ball as if they had frozen fingers. Hoier and Meshnick scored, Hoier adding two free throws. The team missed five gift shots during the first half and whiffed four more in the second.

Came To Life

An intermission talk by Coach D. N. Stacy evidently woke the boys up for they came out in the third quarter with plenty of dash and zip. Working Meshnick under the hoop, the New London center's teammates slipped him enough passes to allow him to dump in four buckets, three in the third quarter to gain a 20 to 14 margin over the threatening Truckers. Meshnick also added three free throws during the half to score a total of 13 points.

Don Stern, a reserve, started at forward for New London and was relieved by Gordon Meiklejohn, al-

LITTLE CHUTE—Leading most of the game, Hilbert almost dumped the experienced Fox River team of Appleton in the Little Chute amateur tournament last night, but finally lost in two overtime periods.

The Hilbert cagers were ahead 20-12 at half time and 21-17 at the end of the third quarter, but the Fox River squad turned on the heat and tied the game up 27-all. Tut Gaffney breaking through for two baskets in the last 40 seconds.

Wonser tossed in a bucket to give the Appleton team a 29-27 lead in the first overtime, but Thurrow countered with a push shot to tie the score again as the first overtime ended. Fox, Hilbert guard, darted in for a close shot, made it, was fouled, and netted the free toss to send his team ahead 32-29 in the second overtime. Wonser and Krause then shoved in baskets to clinch the game for Fox River.

Mike's Tavern of New London finally turned back Van Zeeland Chryslers of Little Chute 25-23 after an overtime battle. For the New London team, McDermot rolled in four baskets. N. Gossens scored nine points to lead the Little Chute cagers. The New London team was ahead 17-16 at the half.

A high-scoring Valvoline Oils team from Menasha took the measure of Verkuilen Furniture of Little Chute 43-28, with Barnes slipping in six baskets for the winners. J. Verstegen headed the Little Chute scoring with four baskets and a free toss. The Menasha club set up a 9-4 lead by the end of the first quarter and was never headed.

A rangy Phillips 66 team from Oshkosh stamped itself as a most dangerous threat by ringing up a 52-42 victory over the Andrews Oils of Green Bay.

Binner swished six field goals and five free throws for the Oshkosh club, a total of 17 points. For the Bays, Roeser had 16 points.

The Oshkosh team opened a whirlwind attack, stepping out to take a 22-6 lead at the first quarter and 34-13 at the half. The Green club outscored its rival in the last half, but couldn't climb up far enough.

so a reserve. Bernard Stern, senior veteran, pepped up the team some after the half but failed to score himself. Ben Huzzar alternated with Francis Meinhardt.

It was the last game on the home court for four New London seniors, Bernard Stern, James Meshnick, Francis Meinhardt and Donald Stern.

Coach Stacy's "B" squad put on a fine exhibition in a preliminary game, beating the Clintonville fledgings 33 to 10. The Truckers were scoreless against a 29-point margin until a few seconds of the half when they counted a free throw and returned the ball to the net for a bucket. The second B string alternated and carried the whole load through the last quarter after starting the period with a 27 to 7 lead.

BLUEJAYS LOSE

BY WARD WALKER

Shawano—No stigma of "Cheese-champions" can be hung on the Shawano High school Indians who thoroughly and soundly trounced the Menasha Bluejays here last night by a score of 41 to 25 in the last game of the conference season for each team.

The Bluejays were the only conference team that had tripped the Indians this year, a feat accomplished at Menasha early in the season. Memory of the defeat apparently rankled the Indians for they displayed a type of basketball that spelled "victory."

Although the Bluejays managed to keep within striking distance into the fourth quarter, the play of the teams differed widely. The Indians played a cool, fast game of ball that struck suddenly and accurately. The Bluejays were guilty of hurried shots, bad passes, and with a few notable exceptions, failed to show the teamwork that brought them out ahead before.

Billy Reed High

Billy Reed, ace freshman star of the Indian constellation, scored eleven points for top scoring honors of the game and the total brought him the N. E. W. conference scoring championship with a mark of 104 points in twelve games.

Ed Zelinski, Bluejay center, cracked the ice at the start of the game, scoring on a foul by Urban Gottschalk, Indian center. John Reed, Indian guard, who scored four buckets and two free throws to give his brother a race for scoring honors, sank a long shot to put the Indians into the lead. Throughout the rest of the quarter, the Bluejays hung on the heels of the Indians and the period ended with the score 11 to 10, favor of the Indians.

Shawano then came cracking through with their famous second quarter stand. Defensively they decisively outplayed the Bluejays and Jim Barker, Indian forward, and the Reed brothers, piled up a point total that brought the scores to 22 to 17 at halftime.

3rd Quarter Slow

Play in the third period was slow, a total of only 8 points being scored. Starting the fourth quarter on the short end of a 27 to 20 score, the Bluejays scored a field goal and a gift toss by Osiewalski and Zelinski, respectively against a free throw by John Reed to pull within five points of the Indians.

From there on in to the final whistle the Indians took care of the scoring. Two baskets by Billy Reed, one from John Reed, a free throw by Jim Barber, a bucket by Charles Ramlow and a field goal and two free throws by Orie Meyer, reserve guard, finished the Indian scoring. Just as the final whistle, Ken DuCharme, flashy Bluejay guard, dropped in a long shot bringing the final total to Indians, 41; Bluejays, 25.

Marvin Schneider, Leo Osiewalski, DuCharme and Ed Zelinski, bore the burden of the Bluejay scoring.

In addition to the 21 points scored by the Reed brothers, the Indians had seven points rung up by Jim Barker, forward, and four points each from Orie Meyer and Charles Ramlow, substitutes. Al MacPhearson, Indian regular, scored three points on free throws.

Menasha was ineffective from the free throw line, hitting on five and missing ten. The Indians did little better, scoring on nine and missing a like amount.

ing fouled by Van Dyke. Weyenberg who was clipped by Foote made an added point for Kimberly and a moment later Pasch fouled Van Dyke who added another point for the Papermakers. Each side added free throws as the game ended with Coach Hamman's team winning the right to enter the championship.

Hard Fought Tilt

The Brillion-Winneconne game was also a hard fought tussle with Brillion coming out victorous. Thiessen of the Lions scored first with a side court shot while Bartelt of Winneconne followed with a follow up shot to even the score. Both squads played good defensive ball and at the quarter, Brillion was leading 8 to 6.

Ross of the Lions put his team in the lead with a shot from the foul line and Anderson of the upstaters evened up matters a moment later. The score changed twice in this period but the Lions forged ahead a minute before the half time when they were leading by a score of 18 to 14.

Martins and Anderson shot field goals for Winneconne to open the third period but the Lions came back strong to widen the gap at the end of the third period by a score of 29 to 19.

Anderson added four points for Winneconne in the last period with Bartelt also sinking a shot from the side court to get his team within four points of the Lions but just before the gun sounded Thiessen of Brillion made victory sure by adding another field goal.

In last night's opener between Hortonville and Hilbert the latter was leading at the quarter by a score of 6 to 4 but Hortonville came back strong to take the lead at the half time 15 to 10. The second half was a fast charging battle but Hilbert could not overcome Hortonville's lead, who added points as the game progressed. Four bands furnished music during the evening, Kimberly, Winneconne, Seymour and Hortonville.

SIX WIN TITLES

Milwaukee— (AP)— Six district championships were decided last night in state high school Class C and the remaining teams in the 32 meets moved into title brackets for final play tonight.

Boscobel, Alma, Marion, Bloomington, Whitehall and Necedah quintets gained district crowns.

Boscobel defeated Seneca at Boscobel, 29-15; Alma at Durand whipped Gilmanton, 28-24; Marion at Marion beat Weyauwega, 31-13; Bloomington bottled up Patchgrove 28-9 at Lancaster; Whitehall edged out Hixton, 26-22, at Arcadia; and Necedah beat Wisconsin Dells at the Dells, 19-15.

Bidding for their second successive titles were these 1937 winners; Spring Green at Prairie du Sac, West Salem at Cashton, Minocqua at Antigo, and Fall Creek, last year's state Class C champion, at Eau Claire.

Born in the depression and nurtured through the most trying days of financial stress throughout the country, professional tennis has weathered the storm with colors flying and is pointing for bigger and better times ahead. That is the belief of H. Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, California, holder of the world's professional championship, who is defending his laurels in a "show down" battle with Fred Perry of England, his leading challenger, in a match April 4th at Alexander gymnasium.

"Open tennis between professional and amateurs is out of the question for a number of years to come," declared Vines, "although eventually the U. S. L. T. A. will have to come around to it. The fact that America has the Davis cup again will help not only amateur tennis crowds but our professional attendance as well for the country can't help but become tennis-minded and that helps both ends of the game."

The tour between Vines and Perry, hot as it was with neither being able to pile up an extensive margin, smashed all previous records for total crowds and gate receipts. Vines and Tilden held the former mark but last year's battle between the pro king and the erstwhile amateur champion drew a total estimated receipts of a quarter of a million dollars, far in advance of what had been expected.

Reason For Belief

"That's what prompts me to believe that the future of professional tennis will see all past records obliterated," Vines averred.

"It may seem a bit difficult to ask the public to believe, but the fact that our 1937 tour ended with 37 matches won apiece is an indication of just how even Perry and I were last year. I'll admit he played better tennis than I expected, even though I won the American tour and Perry won enough matches abroad to square our year's total.

"But the fact that we packed in crowds everywhere we went was an eye-opener. Both Perry and I played our hearts out and I guess that kind of tennis is what the public can appreciate."

This year's tour carries the two of them from Los Angeles to the Pacific Northwest, down through the South and culminates in New York, with a great many college towns on their schedule as well as the arenas in larger cities. It is the idea of Perry and Vines to show their tennis in many places that have never been able to see the sport as played by world champions of their calibre.

Vines has been at the top of pro tennis since he toured with Tilden in 1934. Vines is also a part owner of the swank Beverly Hills Tennis Club, favorite tennis gathering place of the movie stars and studio executives. But at 26, he feels that he has yet to hit the real peak of his tennis game. Consequently he has his goal set on defeating Perry and winning the right to face Don Budge or whoever turns professional next season.

Luisetti Sets New Scoring Record as Stanford Five Wins

Berkeley, Calif. — (AP) — Angelo (Hank) Luisetti, Stanford's lanky, sharpshooting forward, was hailed today as the highest scoring collegiate basketball player of all time.

Luisetti scored 22 points last night as Stanford crushed University of California here, boosting his total to 1,550. That is 19 more than the national four-year scoring record of 1,531 set from 1932 through 1935 by Glenn Roberts of Emory-Henry college, Virginia.

Luisetti was knocked unconscious for four minutes in the second half when he stumbled over a California player and fell prone. Revived in the dressing room, he returned with five minutes to play and scored three points.

Badminton Meet Draws State Fans

Players Will Represent More Than 20 Cities at Wisconsin Rapids

Wisconsin Rapids — Badminton players from more than a score of Wisconsin cities will gather here March 18, 19 and 20 for the second annual bird-and-racket tournament on the courts of Lincoln field house, biggest sports plant in the state outside of the university field house at Madison.

Hosts to the tourney are the members of the Wisconsin Rapids Badminton club. Del Rowland, Wisconsin Rapids, president of the State Badminton association, is tourney chairman. He announces an entry list representing eight state clubs has already been compiled although entries will be accepted up to March 12.

The Columbus club, Green Bay, with 12 entries; the Racine club, with at least eight entries; Lawrence Men's club, Appleton, four entries; University of Wisconsin faculty club, 10 entries; and various Milwaukee badminton organizations have indicated intention of competing.

Recognize Corbett as Middleweight Champ

San Francisco—(AP)—In an unprecedented move, the state athletic commission announced today that Young Corbett had been recognized in California as world middleweight boxing champion.

Chairman George Payne said the Fresno left hander was recognized because of his 10-round upset decision over Fred Apostoli here last month.

Apostoli was ranked No. 1 challenger and Freddie Steele, who actually holds the title, was placed No. 2.

BOXING

Detroit — Jimmy Adamick, 189, Midland, Mich., outpointed Natie Brown, 199, Washington, (10).

All-Stars and Rens Renew Feud In Series of Tilts

First Game Scheduled Saturday Evening at Oshkosh Gymnasium

OSHKOSH — A "little world series" with nothing at stake except an opportunity to satisfy a feud of four years standing will be staged in five Wisconsin communities during the week starting Saturday when the New York Rennaissance, without a peer among basketball teams of the colored race, and the Oshkosh All Stars, one of the nation's leading teams, clash in six games.

The first of the series will be played Saturday evening in Oshkosh with the second game Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Milwaukee auditorium. Other games are Monday, March 7, in the new Menasha High school; Wednesday, March 9 at Green Bay; Thursday, March 10, Oshkosh; and Saturday, March 12, Fond du Lac.

Oshkosh's professional cage quintet and the Renaissance have met 16 times in the past four seasons with each team having won eight games.

Two games were played last December, one in Oshkosh and the other at Madison with the All Stars winning both. Those victories with two for the All Stars at the end of the 1936-37 season gave the Oshkosh team four wins in a row over the Rens, the Stars being the only quint to accomplish that feat.

Last season Oshkosh won four out of seven games from the Renaissance, being the only team to defeat the colored aggregation in a series of games.

The six games with the Negro team in the five Wisconsin cities are expected to attract basketball fans from throughout the state.

Oshkosh has the strongest club it has ever boasted this season with nine stars on its roster and the addition of one other player is anticipated with the completion of the collegiate season. The All Stars' center, LeRoy Edwards, All-American while at the University of Kentucky, was by a wide margin, the highest scorer in the National Basketball league during the regular season. He averaged 16 points a game and held the high scoring record of 30 points in one game.

Forwards with the All Stars are Augie Vander Meulen, Carroll's greatest player; Pete Preboski, Wisconsin; Ray Adams, DePaul; and George Svendsen, Minnesota. Guards include Captain Ed Mullen, Marquette, who was All-American in college and is still considered one of the best guards in the country; Ray Hamann, Wisconsin; Herman Witasek, North Dakota; and Frank Linskey, DePaul.

LITTLE CHUTE — Hammen's Hotel bowlers showed the rest of the Business Men's league that it was still in the running Wednesday night when they took three straight games from Hietpas Dairy, and shot high series of the year with a record 3,078. Bob Van Den Heuvel had high series of 661 and Tom Verstegen and Emil Hinkens were tied with 656. Emil Hinkens also had high game of 237. For the losers, H. Stark paced his team with 647 and high game of 247.

Little Chute Bottling Company came within one game of going into first place when they took two games from American Legion. For the winners, L. Jansen had high series of 646 and high game of 238. For the Legion team it was the Wildenberg brothers with Pete having high series of 603 and Martin having high game of 236.

Hermsen Grocers won two games from Miller High Life. For the winners it was R. Lowell with 610 high series and Bob Glouderman's 213 for high game. For the losers, it was Paul Verstegen with high series of 646 and high game of 258.

High individual series was bowled by Bob V. D. Heuvel with 661, H. Stark had 647 and L. Jansen and P. Verstegen were tied with 646.

High game of the week went to Paul Verstegen with 258, H. Stark had 247 and L. Jansen 238.

Tigerton Outplays Bear Creek for Consolation Honors

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS

Tigerton 38, Bear Creek 22. (Consolation).

BY PETE WALCH

MARION—If we were an evangelist we would probably lead the assemblage in the singing of that ancient hymn, "We'll tell the old, old story, as it was told before." As this will probably be printed on the sports page it may be best to report once more that Marion High school triumphed in another basketball game, Friday night, to win the Class C district tournament here over Weyauwega by a 31 to 13 score. Tigerton won third place with a 38 to 22 victory over Bear Creek.

The Purgolders put on the heat from the very start of the game, played the tightest kind of defense all the way through, allowed the Indians to push in just three field goals, and held Gil Hertz, star Weyauwega forward, to a single point. That was Marion's style. Friday night, and while stopping their opponent's attack absolutely cold, the boys in purple counted points consistently enough in every period to run up a sizeable margin of victory.

The game marked the final home appearance of four stars on the Marion team, Bud Borchart, Murray Meyer, Ned Wulk, and Brownie Byers, and they made the most of it, with some able assistance from Jumbo Elandt, junior guard. They harried Weyauwega's young team from the opening whistle, never allowed the opposition a set shot, and held them without a field goal until the waning minutes of the second quarter when Grancorbitz counted. That was the last of the scoring from the field for Weyauwega until Bartel pushed in two buckets in the final period.

Started Slowly

Marion started its own scoring comparatively slowly and ran up an 8 to 4 lead in the first quarter. All the points for both teams were free throws except a basket each by Byers and Wulk. The Purgolders went to town in the second frame by pouring in twelve points and led 20 to 8 at the half. They added to their total by gathering nine markers in the third quarter while Weyauwega could garner but a single charity toss, and both teams sputtered through the last period, with substitutes being used plentifully by both coaches.

Bear Creek was forced to play the Tigerton game without the service of its star center, Leonard Moriarity, who learned of his father's death after returning home from Thursday night's tournament battle against Weyauwega in which he was the big star for his team. The boys from the Outagamie county village fought valiantly to overcome this handicap, but the odds were too great and they went down to defeat 38 to 22 before a sturdy Tigerton quintet.

Led by their wiry sharpshooter, Jerry Flanagan, who counted five baskets and a pair of free shots during the game. Bear Creek made a real battle of it most of the way, and led at the end of the first quarter 7 to 6. The Tigers passed them in the second period which ended 20 to 13 in favor of the northerners, and gradually increased their margin as the game progressed. Ed Flanagan and Milt Norder also played fine ball for Bear Creek, while Erv Hille, Fr

Improved Buying Halts Declines in Prices of Wheat

Short Covering and Export And Milling Purchases Are Factors

BY FRANKLIN MULLIN

Chicago — (AP) — The decline in wheat prices was halted today by improved buying credited to export and milling interests and scattered short covering. Quotations edged upward about ⅝ cent a bushel at times but speculative activity was small and the gains were not maintained.

Wheat futures closed ¼ higher to ¼ lower compared with yesterday's finish, May 90¼-⅜, July 85-85¼, and corn was ⅛ off to ¼ up, May 58⅜-½, July 60¾. Oats were unchanged to ¼ lower.

BY VICTOR EUBANK

New York—(AP)—Stocks presented a moderately ragged appearance in today's market.

Dealings again were of extremely small proportions and losses and gains generally held to minor fractions.

A few steels and coppers displayed occasional rallying inclinations, but most utilities, rails, rubbers, mail orders and aircrafts were virtually at a standstill.

Such selling as presented itself was termed by brokers "unimportant," as was the buying.

Transfers were in the neighborhood of 250,000 shares for the 2-hour session.

Woolworth, exhibiting strength lately, moved narrowly although the company reported January-February sales were 2.9 per cent over the same period a year ago.

Borg-Warner was an isolated weak issue, losing about 2 points at the worst following action of directors in omitting the dividend on the common.

Resistant stocks included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Youngstown. General Motors. General Electric, American Can, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Anaconda, Cerro de Pasco, Santa Fe, Chesapeake and Ohio and North American.

Backward were Crysler, Crucible Steel, Du Pont, Seaboard Oil, American Telephone, Philip Morris, Union Carbide and Corn Products.

Some Secondary Rails Gain in Bond Trading

New York —(AP)— Today's bond market was mixed but a little on the weak side, with trading light. Some secondary rails made gains. The foreign dollar list was mixed. U. S. treasuries were steady.

Along in the final hour small gains were registered by Baltimore and Ohio Convertible 4½s, Cuba Northern railways 5½s, Detroit Edison 4½s, Goodycar 5s, Loew's 3½s, Missouri Pacific 5s of '77, "F", and Southern California Gas 4½s.

Brooklyn-Manhattan-Transit 4½s were up around 2 points.

Today's Market At a Glance

New York —(AP)— Stocks irregular; leaders resist slow selling.

Bonds mixed: a few secondary rails up.

Foreign exchange steady; franc, sterling lower.

Chicago — Wheat about steady. Corn little changed.

Cattle nominally steady.

Don't Be a Road Hog

Hopes to Develop Explosive 25 Times The Strength of TNT

Berkeley, Cal.—A high explosive, reputedly nearly 25 times as strong as TNT, has been developed by Wendell Zimmerman, young University of California graduate student, it has been revealed here.

Zimmerman said the new explosive in one form not yet commercially practical, is 25 times more destructive than TNT. However, he added, the tremendous explosive force of this form is yet too great for anything but experimental use.

The experiments were started in the basement of his home when he was 17 years ago, Zimmerman said. He reached his present formula in August, 1936. Since then, he said, he has been refining the process.

The explosive, he pointed out, is constructed on a different principle than hitherto used, being composed of simple chemical elements that in themselves are non-explosive.

"The elements used are monatomic, or consisting of one atom, whereas other explosives are diatomic or triatomic," he explained.

The new formula has been submitted to seven governments. Zimmerman said. The Japanese, Russian, French, Italian, English, United States and German governments are now considering the formula, he said, and the United States and English governments urged him to continue his work.

At present, Zimmerman said, he is working with leading rocket experimenters and engineers with a view to using the explosive in that field.

Grasshoppers Again Threatening Crops

St. Paul, Minn.—(AP)—Grasshoppers threaten Minnesota with millions of dollars of crop damage this year, says A. G. Ruggles, state entomologist.

Southern Minnesota, he reports, shows the heaviest infestation of grasshopper eggs ever recorded. More than one-third the crop acreage in three counties have light to heavy deposits of eggs, with others ranging down to seven per cent.

Although the situation is such that with no control methods crop losses would range up to fifty per cent in the worst infested areas, Ruggles says the farmers have been organized and are prepared to keep losses to a minimum.

IRELAND SAVES ITS TREES

Dublin —(AP)— North and south Ireland may disagree over politics, but they have one thing in common —reforestation.

Both have extensive nurseries, and both have pursued so vigorously a policy of planting every unused acre that today nearly 50,000,000 trees are in growth.

The countries confidently predict that one day they will become one of the world's biggest timber storehouses.

CONDITION OF TREASURY

Livestock Trading Is Nominal in Chicago

Chicago — (AP) — The hog market was a nominal affair today. A few loads of good and choice butchers sold readily at $9.65 to $9.75, but the vast bulk of the fresh receipts 3,500 head from 4,000, were billed direct to packers. The few sales were called steady.

Cattle and sheep were nominally steady.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Chicago —(AP)—(USDA)— Hogs 4,000 including 3,500 direct; steady with Friday's average; few loads good and choice 200-250 lb butchers 9.65-75; shippers took 150; estimated holders 500; compared week ago weights below 20 lbs 50-65 higher; 200 lbs up 65-1.00 higher; packing sows 65-85 higher.

Cattle 500; calves none; compared Friday last week: strictly good and choice medium weight and heavy steers 25-50 higher; medium grade heavies, yearlings, and light steers strong to 25 up; heifers 25-40 higher; beef cows and bulls 25 higher; cutter grade cows strong to 15 up; vealers 50 lower; very active market until extreme close when price levels and general undertone weakened; well finished yearlings and light steers scarce, but heavy steers in liberal supply; shippers and order buyers a boosting factor in general market; bulk heifers comprised medium to good grades; during last two weeks live market has gained faster than dressed trade; extreme top heavy steers 10.35; several loads 10.00-10.15; numerous loads heavies 8.75-9.75; best yearlings 9.70; best light yearling steers 9.40; choice heavy heifers to 8.75; light kinds 8.50.

Sheep 3,000 including 300 directs. Late Friday wooled lambs active, spots 10-15 higher, top 9.35, bulk 8.90-9.15, choice 100-104 lb. weights 8.90-9.00. For week ending Friday 5,100 directs. Compared Friday last week. Fat lambs 50-75 higher; sheep 25-50 up; yearlings and feeding lambs scarce; week's top slaughter lambs 9.35; closing bulk 8.90-9.15, with choice 100-104 averages 8.90-9.00, week's bulk 8.50-9.15; top clipped lambs 8.10, bulk 7.75-8.10; slaughter ewes mostly 4.40-5.00; few choice 66 lb feeding lambs 7.50.

ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK

South St. Paul — (AP)—(USDA)— Cattle 300; compared Friday last week, slaughter steers averaged slightly higher, with yearlings and light steers mostly steady; weightier lnoger fed kinds 15-25 higher; she stock stronger; bulls mostly steady; stockers strong to 15 higher; good and choice fed steers 7.50-8.50; few 8.75; medium grades down to 6.50 mainly; medium and good fed hiefers 6.00-7.25; few choice 7.50-8.00; beef cows 5.00-6.00; top load 6.25; low cutters and cutters 3.75-4.75; medium and good bulls 5.75-6.50; good and choice stocker steers 6.50-7.50; best stock calves 7.75. Calves 100; largely 50 lower for week, good and choice lights 7.50-9.50; practical top 10.00.

Hogs 500; salable supply hardly sufficient volume to make market; few sales to packers about in line with the Friday market; shippers taking scattered lots of light hogs around 9.15 or 20 below Friday's high point; packer top 9.00; sows quotable 10-15 lower at 7.50-85; average cost Friday 8.73; weight 233 lbs.

Sheep 100; compared Friday last week fat lambs 1.00 or more higher; others 50 up and slaughter ewes fully 25 higher; fat lambs closing at new high for the year with strictly choice reaching 9.15; closing bulk good to choice lambs 8.75-9.00; plain to choice ewes 2.50-4.75; feeding lambs 6.75-7.75.

Steady Trend in Light Trading on Curb Market

New York —(AP)— The curb market today was steady in tone with trading light. Most transactions were at unchanged prices.

American Gas and Electric was off about half a point and Creole Petroleum about a quarter. Newmont Mining dropped around a point, as did New Jersey zinc.

Fractional gains were made by Columbia Oil and Gas, Consolidated Copper Mines, and Lake Shore Mines.

Skin on Ogdensburg Man's Hand Nearly Hard as Iron

Manawa—Some six months ago or way along last fall, Richard Weber and Clifford Knutson of Ogdensburg became all wrapped up in a discussion as to how tough Dick's hands really were and how severe a test he could put them to. The palms of Weber's hands are covered with epidermis, literally almost as hard as iron.

"I'll show you what I can do," suddenly shouted Dick to his pal in the tavern at Ogdensburg. "I'll burn you with my own hand so badly that you'll feel it for a week."

So saying, he took a match, lighted it on the palm of one hand, and held the fire to that same hand. Slowly the match burned itself out. Then Weber grasped the hand of his friend and applied his own palm heated by the burning match to the comparatively tender skin of the other. Knutson gasped, yelled in pain, and tried to break away. When he did so he looked down at the back of his own hand, crimson as fresh sunburn, and watched while a huge blister slowly formed.

Both men were silent for a moment. Then Knutson turned to Weber and said, "I'm going to make you famous, Dick. I'm going to spread your picture and what you can do all over the world. I'm going to send your story to Robert Ripley."

Born That Way

And that is how the picture of Richard Weber of Ogdensburg, Wis., came to be featured in Ripley's widely syndicated and internationally famous illustrated oddities on Thursday of last week. While Weber's physical peculiarity has been known to Ogdensburg residents for years, it never was broadcast until Cliff Knutson was severely burned by his friend's own hand, and realized that this was something sufficiently out of the ordinary to interest even the famous Ripley.

"They've been that way ever since I was born," Weber tells any questioner as he gazes raptly at his hands. "I could always do more work with them than any other man because my fingers and palms were already calloused and they never needed any breaking in. I could work with my hands all day long and never notice any soreness or stiffness or pain, while other men had to go more easy-like and treat themselves a little carefully."

Weber, 54-year old resident of Ogdensburg, former farmhand, at one time village constable and now a WPA worker, displays a somewhat embarrassed grin as he relates, too, the unusual stunts that have brought him recent fame. He lives with his wife and daughter in the same little house at the edge of town where the family has resided nearly twenty years.

Dick can perform feats that rival the bizarre stunts of any circus side show performer. The one he worked on Knutson is one of many and he does it as often as he can find a stooge. He will strike a match on the palm of his hand—or on the soles of his feet, if you want to see him do it—and hold the flame close to the opposite palm until the match has burned itself out. The inside of his hand becomes almost as hot as a blacksmith's forge and when he presses his hand against that of any victim—innocent or otherwise—the person's skin will blister as though it had come in contact with a red hot poker.

Weber can also take a flaming piece of wood or a hot coal from the inside of a stove, light his cigaret, and place the brand back in the fire pot. He can hold hot irons, bricks, etc. in his hands without injury and handle them much more easily than the ordinary persons can hold an ice cube or a baked potato. There's no trick to it. Dick's hands—and feet, too—are covered with such a thick callous that heat simply doesn't penetrate.

"I was just thinking," he soliloquized, "that maybe I could quit working some day and go out and show folks all the things I can do with my hands. Nobody else has got hands like mine, have they? Maybe people would pay a dime to see tricks that I can do—maybe a quarter. They couldn't see anybody else do them, could they? I'd like to try it for awhile anyway."

And he struck another match on the palm of his hand to light a fresh cigaret.

EMPIRE FOR A LADY

BY ALAN LEMAY

thing that has ever happened in the islands, when it is done."

"Clyde," I agreed, "will have a nice thing here some day."

I was watching her profile, dimly seen by the torchlight, but very near; I was unwilling to lose one moment of memory of her. She turned now, and looked at me very straight, but with a curious expression in her eyes.

"Of course, some day all of this will be yours."

I knew that this was not so; I had helped Clyde to draft his will. I knew that all Clyde's claim on Balingong raj, and everything in it, was deeded to the Ranee Christine.

"The hell with it," I said.

"You—you don't want it?"

"No."

"But, Paul, you've given so much of yourself—"

"What I want is to sit on a cool veranda overlooking the sea, and take a good rest, and drink a sloe gin fizz. The Harbor Club at Singapore has a better veranda for that than Clyde will have in years."

She turned her face away from me and she was very still. Far up ahead we could see the lights of Robert Forrester's bankong, already well out on the bay.

"I think," Christine said, her voice distant, "that we should go alongside the other boat."

I called out an order, and my paddlers picked up their beat. The bankong began to lift and drive over the water. We were nearly at the end of it now. In a little while more what magic there was in Balingong was going out of it, and nothing would be left of the thing this girl had bewitched us into except war and fever, and a struggle against going broke. There were years of it ahead without anything in them that a reasonable person would want. Yet I knew that Clyde could not quit, and neither could I. And I knew that we were fools.

We were alongside Robert Forrester's bankong; we were under the Avon's black hulk. Clyde and Marvin Stocker were calling back and forth. Christine groped for my hand, and for a moment pressed it against her cheek; her face was wet, but it was impossible to tell now whether with rain or tears. Then abruptly she threw my hand away.

"I can't do it," she said. "It's too much to ask."

"You can't—what are you talking about?"

"Goodby, Bob. . . . I'm going back."

I would have supposed that our life here would now go on as before, unaffected by the fact that Christine had made a false start at departure, but balked. But it was not the same as before—nothing could have been more different.

Harassed By Desperation

A taut, hard strain came upon both Clyde and me, in spite of everything Christine could do to make things smooth. After we had got over the first shock of the idea that she was going to stay with us we had the feeling that Balingong must somehow be pulled and hauled and hammered into a fit place for Christine. It must be done immediately—and it was impossible. Clyde and I fought our work harder than ever before, harassed by an unsleeping desperation. That whang ing nerve-strain, in itself, later accounted for many things.

I made no further move to persuade Christine that she must leave Balingong. I had already done all I could and perhaps more than was appropriate; it was hardly my place to try to sand away the girl with whom my uncle was in love. And Clyde, although he agreed that she should not be here, seemed strangely baffled.

I took to avoiding them both as much as I could, which was easy, for I was now seldom in Balingong. The need of protecting the Dyaks from Malay extortions increased in importance as the famine had now reached proportions of real calamity.

In the previous year most of the Dyaks had delayed planting until it was all but too late—in the case of some villages too late altogether—for no better reason than that the magic auguries were unfavorable. Throw against the poor crop the waste and spoilage of war, and it is hard to see why they expected anything but famine.

When a one-crop food supply runs out it runs out suddenly; most villages had come to the end of their rice long ago, and it was very difficult to see how they lived at all. It was a fortunate thing that whatever rice was going to be planted was already in the ground, for I am certain that in their extremity the people would have eaten the seed. They knew better than that, and it was against custom, but these people were at the end of their string. Game was scarce, and the fishing bad. The situation could hardly have been any worse.

Daily the Siderong before the bamboo palace was banked with the praus of people who had come to beg the white rajah for aid. We did what we could; but if we were able to give a few handfuls of rice to the exhausted men at the paddles we could no longer expect to do anything more.

The jungle was stripped of everything fit to eat, and it was strange to see so much vegetation and yet so little food. The people were eating weeds, and soup made of boiled grasses and scraped moss. They ate the bark of trees, and even weighted their poor flat stomachs with a kind of clay found on the river banks.

It was a temptation to send our vessels to distant islands with our precious store of rifles, to trade for food where and however we could. But we knew this would have been fatal. It would not only have finished us, but would have finished Balingong. We had to sit there and endure it while we watched the people die.

Is it love that keeps Christine there? Continued Monday.
